H. F. Pope.

HENRY F. POPE.—For the first time in the history of our Conference death has entered our ranks and stricken down one of our beloved brethren. Henry F. Pope has been called by the great Head of the Church to lay down his armor, and leave the field of conflict, and enter into his reward. He was born about 1816. He was converted when quite young, and, feeling the burden of a great longing for the salvation of his people, he obtained license to preach from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and was by it authorized to hold meetings among his people. About the year 1867 he united with the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and was honored among his brethren, having filled the office of presiding elder acceptably. In 1870 he was received into this Conference, and appointed to Greensborough Station. During his pastoral charge this church was erected, under great difficulties and opposition. His pastorate was very successful, however, a goodly number being added to the Church. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Oxford in 1871–72, and Thomasville in 1873–74. In 1875 Brother Pope asked for and obtained a supernumerary relation. The following year, feeling himself able, he was appointed to West Randolph, on which he labored faithfully until May last, when he was stricken with fever, and came to the home of his life-long friend, Brother Alston, where, after several weeks of suffering, which he bore with Christian resignation, and a quiet, unwavering confidence in the Saviour, he peacefully fell asleep in Jesus, May 23, 1878, and without doubt went up to join the Church triumphant.

Henry F. Pope was a good, earnest, active, and successful minister, and a warm-hearted and devoted Christian. While we feel deeply his loss upon the work, and miss him on the Conference floor, yet we confidently expect, as one by one we pass over the river, that we shall meet our brother before the throne of our Redeemer.

John Baer, John Miller, Aquila A. Reese, William H. Holliday—4.

1. JOHN BAER was born in Rockingham County, Virginia, October 9, 1794, and died in Baltimore March 11, 1878. Of German origin, he sprung from a family belonging to the best class of the citizens composing a community of prosperous farmers. The religious privileges of the neighborhood of his birthplace were very limited. The nearest church was four or five miles distant, where only occasionally they had preaching, in the German language. In the spring of 1804 the Methodist preachers found them out in their destitution. Deeply impressed by their preaching, at ten years of age he felt the need of a change of heart. For five years he was much exercised upon the subject, when one of the Lord's great warriors, the celebrated William (or, as he was commonly called, Billy) Cravens, an extraordinary preacher of truth, and a fearless denunciator of slavery and intemperance, made an appointment to preach at a private house in the neighborhood. After preaching he gave an invitation to any who desired to seek religion to come and kneel at a bench which he ordered to be set out for the purpose. A youth of fifteen or sixteen years of age was the only penitent. He grew to be the man we now commemorate. The agony of repentance, which was intense, was succeeded in a short time by a most clear and satisfactory evidence of forgiveness; nor did he, to the day of his death, ever doubt that he was then regenerated and made a new creature in Christ Jesus. Soon after this his mind became greatly exercised upon the subject of his duty to preach the Gospel. He instinctively shrank from a responsibility so momentous, as it appeared to him, and stoutly strove to withstand his convictions. He pleaded filial duty; his father stood in need of the help he was now able to render. He pleaded his want of qualification, having enjoyed but limited educational advantages. But his father released him from all obligation to him; and the Church, judging him a proper person to receive authority to preach the Gospel, thrust a license upon him. He feared, as few men have done, the responsibility of the work of the ministry, and would have unhesitatingly declined it had he not feared more the culpability of refusal. Feeling constrained to accept his license, he determined, if it were indeed his duty to preach, to give himself wholly to the high calling of the Gospel. Once putting his hand to the plow, he would never draw back. He was a man of great firmness when his decision was made. The fixedness of purpose which characterized him in all he set himself to accomplish, held him steadily in after years to the life work he so reluctantly consented to undertake, and from which, when the Rubicon was passed, no temptation could turn him aside. At one period in his career he was sorely tried, as at times has been the case with so many in the ministry, by anxieties for the future of his family. The manner in which these anxieties were laid to rest, from which they were no more to wake, is an instance of divine dealing worthy of special record. His own narration of it, as given to a friend, was this: "As I was riding along the road to one of my appointments, the thought came to my mind with painful apprehension, that if I should die my young and helpless family would be brought to want." Was it not now his duty to make the provision that would prevent such a calamity? This question sorely troubled him. While the subject was pressing painfully upon his heart he received, as he relates, an assurance as distinct as if an audible voice had spoken, "You shall not die before all your children are grown, and can provide for themselves." "And from that day," he adds, "I have been free from all anxiety; I am sure I shall live until the youngest is grown." That this assurance was of God, we no more question than did he. The confidence, which quieted his fears, was justified by that which came to pass: the event turned out as he was then assured. In the spring of 1814 he presented himself as an applicant for admission on trial into the Baltimore Conference. It was his last hope of escape from the responsible work of the ministry that the Conference would reject him. He was, however, received, and assigned to a circuit hundreds of miles distant from the home of his parents. This was a great trial to a youth of nineteen, but, no doubt, proved a great blessing. The favor he met among the people to whom he was sent encouraged him to increased confidence in himself, and, growing rapidly in stature and strength, he soon became a champion in repelling the attacks made in those days, and especially in his field, upon the "sect that was every-where spoken against." The first years of his ministry were spent chiefly in Western Pennsylvania. He made an impression in that section scarce equaled by any man of his day. Few men are talked of after the lapse of fifty years; his name for fifty years to come will be familiar as one of the pioneers who planted Methodism in that then unfriendly soil. Not only did he become, in his early ministry, distinguished among the people as an able preacher, but, with all his modesty and constitutional diffidence, he was soon called into conference prominence; and as early as 1824, only ten years after his admission on trial in the traveling connection, he represented the Baltimore Conference in the General Conference, perhaps the most important General Conference ever held, if we except that of 1844, of which he was also a member. The controversy that then agitated the Church began with the question of an elective presiding eldership. Twenty-four years before a motion was made in the General Conference that "the yearly Conferences be authorized to nominate and elect their own presiding elders." The sentiment in favor of this measure strengthened, until, in a modified form, the above resolution of 1800 was carried; but this was not all, for along with it there came proposed changes which stopped not short of revolution. The error, which was subsequently rescinded, was seen too late to prevent the agitation which culminated in a secession that organized into the Methodist Protestant Church.

Brother Baer stood at the front with those who resisted all encroachment. He neither believed in an elective presiding eldership nor lay delegation. However he may have modified his views in subsequent years upon the latter of these measures, upon that of the eldership he remained unchanged. Three years ago, when this subject was discussed in the Baltimore Conference, his voice was lifted against it, and so able and exhaustive of the whole question was his address on that occasion, that the Conference unanimously requested its publication. In the great crisis of 1844, when the General Conference provided a plan of separation between the North and the South, he, with nearly all his own delegation opposed to him, with Roman-like firmness took his position against the measure, and his name appears with the small minority that believed it wrong to divide the Church. Such was his view of what would be the effect of that action; and believing, as he did, that there was no constitutional authority for what was proposed, his vote is recorded in the negative on all the resolutions of that famous plan, except one, on which he seems not to have voted at all. Although born and raised in the South, and as true in his love for his native State as the most pretentious who claimed to be Virginians, he foresaw evil in the measure, both to the Church and nation. But, aside from all consequences that awakened his fears, he was for the unity of Methodism. He believed in it then, he believed in it when he died, and would have gone to heaven happier than he did could he have seen the North and the South not only one in brotherhood, fraternity, but one in Church organization. It is worthy of note that in all the strifes which agitated the Church during his long connection with it, his loyalty was never shaken. He was not present at the meeting of the Conference in Staunton, Va., at which occurred the division of the Baltimore Conference, on account of the action of the Buffalo General Conference on the subject of slavery. But we know what his position would have been. Referring to that action at the Conference held in Light-street Church, the year after the unfortunate division had taken place, he said, "Had I been at Staunton in 1861, when the vote was taken, I would have certainly gone with the minority." Thus, in every instance of controversy, he was on the side of the Church, and set for its defense. The Methodist Episcopal Church never had a truer friend.

For many years he filled the most important and responsible appointments in the Conference. He was a preacher of very superior ability, both as a Scripture expositor and logical controversialist. His familiarity with the Bible was wonderful, and his knowledge of its doctrines thorough. His sermon always grew out of his text, and so partook of its every sentiment that it would not fit to any other. His controversial discourses were chiefly upon Calvinism and baptism. The first class was confined to his early ministry; the other he had frequent occasion later in life to preach, in refutation of the claims of immersionists. On this subject few preachers ever equaled him. On camp-meeting occasions his preaching was sometimes followed by almost marvelous results, such as do not follow the most gifted orators of the present day. He was almost fifty years in the effective ranks. Twenty-eight of these years were employed in the work of circuits and stations, fifteen in the office of presiding elder, and nearly seven were given to the agency of the Maryland Bible Society. This last position he held until his advancing years demanded a less laborious field. At the end of his fiftieth year he asked for and obtained a superannuated relation to the Conference. In making his request he gave a brief survey of his past history from his conversion. His closing remarks were as follows: "I have always been comparatively a poor man, and have had to spend a part of my patrimony for the privilege of being a traveling preacher. God has often led me by a way I knew not. There have been dark places and gloomy prospects before me, but all these have worked together for my good. And now, I think, from my age, and the full supply of ministers for work, it will be best for me to ask for a superannuated relation." This changing of his relation was, doubtless, one of the most painful events in his whole life. To become inactive after such a career as his was more than he could endure. He, therefore, accepted the office, and nearly up to the close of his life acted as agent for the Baltimore County Bible Society.

It is impossible to delineate the character of such a man within the brief space of a memorial notice. This, it is hoped, will become the pleasing task of some competent biographer. No man could be more worthy of such a tribute. He was certainly eminent for the most admirable virtues that adorn the husband and father, the Christian and minister, with as few faults as it is the misfortune of the best of men to have and be sorry for. For sixty-four years his character was submitted to an annual examination before his Conference. It challenged the closest scrutiny. One uniform answer to the question, "Is there any thing against him?" was given. As a man, as a Christian, as a minister, he was indorsed by the approval of a body venerable for its wisdom and jealous of the virtue of its members. In all the years of his Conference life not only was there no complaint against him, but no suspicion even ever fouled his reputation. He ended life without a scar, or even a blemish, upon his pure character. Many of the sayings of his dying bed deserve to be treasured, and will be by those who heard them. In reply to a telegram received from the late Baltimore Conference, he said: "Still in great pain, and no better; but strong in faith, giving glory to God. I send response to your kindly greetings. 'Brethren, be perfect, be of good comfort, live in peace, and the God of love and peace be with you." So much cheerfulness and suffering rarely dwell together as were found in his sick-room. In his case the association was accounted for by the extraordinary manifestation of the divine presence all through his sickness. For him the last foe was utterly disarmed. The unfearing confidence with which he viewed the near approach of death impressed all who came into his presence. If he did not wish for, he would not delay, its coming, but welcomed it at the earliest moment the Master might ordain. His confidence was perfect in his Saviour, and he knew, as he declared, that his Companion through life would not forsake him in death. He seemed to desire the final emergency, as furnishing him the opportunity to give evidence of the unmeasured extent of his trust. One thing, he said, that made him sure of dying—and the thought of it seemed to bring him nearer to heaven—was that, for the first time in his long life, the bed of sickness had been made a special means of grace, most rich in religious enjoyment. He conversed with his friends with the same clear, calm mind that marked his conversation in health. Socrates, we may fancy, would have died just as he did, had he been a Christian. His end, like that of the perfect man, was peace. Up to within five minutes of his spirit's departure he was conscious and rational. Almost uperceived by those who were watching at his bedside the last breath was drawn, and his soul was in the arms of the angel messengers who had come to waft him to his home in heaven.

2. JOHN MILLER was born December 23, 1794, in Huntingdon County, Pa., and died October 10, 1878, in Westminster, Carroll Co., Md., being at the time nearly eighty-four years of age, and in the sixtieth of his ministry. He was converted at the age of twenty-two. His own account of this event is in the following words: "I was awakened at a watch-night service. I sought the Lord earnestly all the next day, and at about midnight obtained the pardoning mercy of God." The change he underwent that memorable night was so clear and thorough, and was so divinely witnessed, that he seems never to have been troubled with a doubt of its reality; and the love of Christ which came upon him then had such immediate manifestations of sympathy and zeal for others as early marked him for important service to the Church. It was but little more than two years after his conversion that the Baltimore Conference, in 1819, admitted him to trial. At the end of five years he became supernumerary for one year, after which, for four years, he was located. Resuming effective relations to the Conference in 1832, he continued in the regular work until advancing years and failing health demanded release from its burdens. Of the thirty-three years of his effective ministry, sixteen were given to the work on circuits, nine were spent in stations, and eight in the office of presiding elder. These varied fields of labor ranged over the large territory of the old Baltimore Conference, reaching almost from the extreme south-western limit, in Virginia, to its northern extreme, in Pennsylvania. Such, in outline of years and service, was the ministerial life of him whose name, after nearly threescore years, death has now erased from the roll of the Conference. It seems in place, in this memorial hour, to recall something of the character of this venerable servant of the Church, as also to indulge some allusion to his protracted ministry.

While a candid estimate would not concede to Father Miller the possession of commanding abilities, it would justly claim for him, in high degree, endowments of a solid, practical kind. That he possessed a vigorous and well-balanced intellect—clear perception, sound discretion, and a fair measure of that logical ability which reveals itself in the orderly treatment of a subject, together with a power of fluent and forcible expression—will be questioned by none familiar with his preaching in the years of his prime. He had few educational advantages. Like many of his time, he entered the ministry with but slender human preparation. It is in proof of the excellent character of his natural endowments that, in good degree, he supplied these deficiencies, so that, by diligent reading and study, he attained to great familiarity with Scripture, to a good acquaintance with our doctrinal standards, and was fairly versed in religious literature. Self-culture, in the measure it came to be his, acquired thus amid cares and labors little friendly to its prosecution, is in witness that he possessed a strength of mind and force of character entitling him to high respect. These bore their part in making him, what in truth he was, a successful minister of the Lord Jesus. Other qualities conspired to this. He was a man of tender, ardent, sympathetic nature. In his own susceptibility of deep emotion lay, in part, the secret of that power with which his public ministrations were frequently attended. But, most of all, it was his own deep personal experience of the truth that enabled him so to preach it as to move and stir the hearts of men. The love of Christ, which in that midnight hour of his early manhood kindled in his heart, seemed through life a constant, glowing flame. It was in him as a fire shut up in his bones. It inspired his feelings and toned his voice with a yearning solicitude, which at times imparted to his preaching a pathetic and persuasive power not often excelled. In other relations and duties of his office he has left a record no less honorable than in the pulpit. One who knew him long and intimately has said, "He was a wise counselor, a judicious administrator, and a good pastor. His love for the Church was strong and abiding. His interest in the Conference and its sessions was great. His solicitude for a judicious and satisfactory distribution of the preachers was often so intense that it became a burden on his mind in the night hours." His religious life and character were in beautiful harmony with the truth he early embraced, and which he so long and faithfully preached. With him godliness was a living power, controlling temper, and word, and act. One whom intimacy qualified to speak, said at his burial that he had never known John Miller to utter a word or manifest a spirit inconsistent with the character he bore. His path, moreover, was "as the shining light." At no time in his life was he more trustful and submissive than during the years of enforced cessation from active work, and these graces brightened to the last. Such a life was a certain prophecy of the end that came—peace and victory. There is the tone of grandest triumph in the message which he sent from the valley of death to his brethren in the ministry: "Tell all the members of the Baltimore Conference I am dying in the faith, happy in the Lord, and want them to meet me in heaven." In this inspiring message our sainted brother, "being dead, yet speaketh" to us. We have, besides, the inspiration of his well-accomplished life. May we emulate his faithfulness, finish our course with equal joy, and, in the Master's time, pass on with him to be forever with the Lord.

3. AQUILA ASBURY REESE, D.D., eldest son of John L. and Jemima Reese, was born in Baltimore, December 30, 1812, and died March 7, 1878. Clearly discerning the importance of living right, Brother Reese wisely chose, in early life, the path of the just, with its possible ruggedness and toil, and its promised end in the city of the great King, as against that path of pleasure and folly which ends in the land of despair. How far this wise choice was influenced by the godly example and teaching of his noble Christian parents, no one can know; and yet the conversion of young Reese, though only fifteen years of age, was no marvel to those who knew the untiring devotion and sterling integrity of those kindred spirits, who trained their child in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Fortunately for this young Christian, he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and found in the old "City Station," then in charge of Revs. Beverly Waugh, (afterward bishop,) Henry Slicer, and French S. Evans, the counsel and care needed in the inexperience of his youth. As he approached maturity it became evident that the Spirit of the Lord had set him apart as a messenger of good tidings of great joy. Possessed of more than ordinary gifts, and a heart glowing with love for the souls of his fellows, the Church recognized in him the proper qualifications of an embassador of God, and urged upon him the duty that had already impressed itself upon his unwilling heart. After a considerable struggle between duty and inclination, and urged thereto by the voice of the Church, he yielded reluctantly to the "heavenly call," and gave himself to the ministry of reconciliation, to preach Jesus and the resurrection to dying men. He was admitted on trial into the Baltimore Conference in 1833, and sent to Fairfax Circuit. The following is a record of his subsequent fields of labor, both in Baltimore and East Baltimore Conferences: 1834, Stafford; 1835, Christiansburgh. In this year, on March 26, he was married to Miss Anna Burnett, who, with five children, survives him. In 1836 he was appointed to Rock Creek, and in 1837 was supernumerary, and engaged in business with his father, and at the same time served the people of old Whatcoat. In 1838 he was made effective, and successively served Harford Circuit, Great Falls, Frederick City, Boonsborough, Patapsco Station, Fayette-street, City Station, Rockingham District, Carlisle District, Emory Chapel, Carlisle, Exeter-street, East Baltimore. In 1862 the Secretary of War offered him the appointment of chaplain in the United States Army, which, after mature deliberation and close consultation with some of his most trusted friends, he accepted, and was ordered to duty at Fort M'Henry, Baltimore. He continued in the army, serving at several important points on the frontier, until he was retired from active service, March 3, 1877. While stationed at Fort Wallace, in 1874, a terrible affliction, in the death of an almost idolized daughter, proved to be a visitor of mercy in leading him to a closer walk with God. The wail of the stricken and broken-hearted man changed to a song of praise when out of the darkness came the light. Tears flowed freely over the loss of his beautiful child; but, safely housed, she beckoned him on to the land of the living, where tears and sorrows are unknown; and from the ashes of his affliction he arose a chastened and a changed man. Writing to his honored and venerable friend, Rev. Dr. Gere, in reply to a letter of condolence, he says: "Never have I known sorrow comparable to this, but I feel thankful to say that I have been graciously saved from all rebellion and murmuring. No! I have no controversy with Him who doeth all things well, and while the blow has seemed to bruise my very soul, yet I do reverently and submissively 'kiss the rod' that has chastened me so sorely. Perhaps I needed this heavy trial to bring me nearer the blessed Saviour. I bless God that such has been the effect. I now sing as I have not done for many years:—

'Vain, delusive world, adieu,
With all of creature good!
Only Jesus I pursue,
Who bought me with his blood.'"

Soon after this letter, another one, to the same friend, expresses the same condition of mind under this affliction, and adds: "It has led me to bind myself in a solemn covenant to God, in which I trust I have been able to consecrate myself, soul and body, with all I have and am, for time and eternity." It is very probable that this bereavement proved an active agent in hastening the development of a disease which had for years given occasional evidence of its presence and dread power, and which steadily advanced to the fatal issue. His relief from active duty as chaplain gave him the opportunity to return to his native city, where he could spend the remainder of his days amid the scenes of his early ministry, and among the surviving friends of his maturer years. Had he remained in quiet, it may be, his life might have been prolonged; but, contrary to the advice of medical friends, and the repeated warnings of suffering, he taxed his feeble strength in preaching the Gospel of Christ, which had become dearer to him than ever before. He could not endure the inactivity of peace. His soul longed for victories for his Master, and pressed out into the field and the fight, though again and again ordered to the rear among the sick and wounded, whose days of battles and marches were over. It was during these days of comparative and enforced quiet that God was kindly and graciously manifesting himself to his failing servant. An extract from a letter to a valued friend and brother minister will tell its own beautiful story: "Two or three weeks ago, after trying to preach an earnest sermon in one of our churches here, to my joyous surprise I saw one of my boys walking down the aisle as deliberately as if he were going to business, and bowing at the altar for prayer. In a few minutes another son was at his side; they were both converted. All my children are now in the Church, except the eldest, and I am crying to God mightily that he, too, may be brought into the fold. And now I think I ought to say, to the praise and glory of God, that he has done a great work for me this winter. I now know that God is love in a higher and sweeter sense than I ever realized before: and, as I record this precious experience, tears of gratitude and joy are coursing down my cheeks. O, I feel that Christ is all in all!" Thus was his soul in peace, as the lengthening shadows warned him of the coming night. During his last illness he spoke strongly and confidently of the coming end, doubting nothing whatever as to his final victory, but calmly waiting the summons to his rest. And it came, while he slept like a tired child, and he awoke in the rest unbroken by the side of his beloved Lord.

Brother Reese was an earnest, zealous, and successful minister of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. Twice honored by his brethren as their delegate to the General Conference indicates their estimate of him, both as a man and minister, and shows his hold on the hearts of those who labored with him in the arduous work of the itinerancy. A genial companion, a warm friend, impulsive and confiding, he attracted alike the young and the old, while he carried sunshine with him into many a heart and home. He has gone, leaving his benediction on the Baltimore Conference, which he loved with the strength and devotion of his life, and in whose bounds he desired to sleep when his work was done.

4. WILLIAM HARRISON HOLLIDAY, D.D., was born in Berkeley County, West Virginia, August 31, 1835. The son of pious parents, his boyhood was engirded by a sanctified home influence. When eleven years old he professed conversion, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church.

From this date to his reception into this Conference he was impressed with the conviction that God had called him to preach the Gospel. Surrounded by inferior educational advantages, he consecrated his spare hours to the perusal of available Methodist works. When but sixteen years of age, without formal ecclesiastical authority, he delivered a sermon. He began to covet collegiate and theological culture. He saw the inestimable value of thorough mental discipline and broad scholarship to a Christian pastor. He prayed earnestly that God would open his way to the acquisition of a better educational equipment for his prospective labors and responsibilities. God was pleased to grant his petition. In September, 1853, his name was enrolled as a student in the preparatory department of Dickinson College. While pursuing his studies at Carlisle, Pa., he received from the Quarterly Conference of the First Methodist Episcopal Church authority to preach. He spent the ensuing vacation in the pulpits adjacent to his home. He returned to the college as a member of the Freshman class. He remained but a few months, spending the closing winter months in clerical work on Berryville Circuit. He was recommended from this charge to Baltimore Conference for admission on trial. But nineteen years of age, he was received at the session of 1855. He was successively appointed junior pastor on the Winchester, Hillsborough, and Warrenton Circuits. On each of these charges he remained, according to Conference usage, a single year. In 1858 he was sent to Summerfield Circuit. During the following August he was married to Miss Tillie Maynard, of Baltimore. Her affection and co-operation in his itinerant work brightened his home and cheered his heart in the days of health. Her tender and tireless ministrations softened the pillow of illness and death. Immediately after his marriage he asked and received a transfer to the Iowa Conference. Present at its autumn session, he was appointed to Cascade. He remained in the West one year. The climate proving too severe for the health of Mrs. Holliday, he was re-transferred to the Baltimore Conference. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Baltimore Circuit, South River Circuit, Montgomery Circuit, South Baltimore Station, East Washington, Winchester District, Eutaw-street, Harford Avenue. He entered on the duties of his last charge with impaired strength, combined with fervid zeal. His example became magnetic. A glow of enthusiasm prevailed throughout the several departments of his work. With decision, energy, and faith he grappled his relations to the pulpit, the pastorate, the Sunday-school, the social meetings, and the financial burden that oppressed the station. Within the first month he completed an intelligent and religious round of visitation. The membership felt the thrill of a quickened spiritual life. Animated by earnestness and expectation, they co-operated with him in all his plans. Enlarging congregations greeted him, and under his faithful preaching the Holy Ghost fell on the people. The month of October opened full of promise. His faith beheld a field "white unto harvest." With a weary arm, back of which lay a strong heart, he thrust in the sickle. For a succession of weeks he joyfully reaped imperishable sheaves. Friends warned him lovingly that his toil surpassed the measure of his ability. With heroic spirit he stood at his post, forgetful of self, giving the wealth of his failing energies to the upbuilding of the Church and the salvation of souls. The morning of Christmas brought to him mementos of affection and messages of love. Its evening brought the invitation Jesus extended to his disciples, "Come, rest awhile." He experienced then, for the first time in his life, a hemorrhage of the lungs. Within two weeks eight others followed. From this period his medical advisers entertained grave doubts of his restoration to even moderate health. Hopeful as he was of recovery in answer to many prayers, he yet realized throughout his entire illness his critical condition. He held the promises of God steadily with the grip of a spiritual giant. Throughout his sickness many beautiful expressions of his confidence in God fell from his lips. On the eve of the Conference session he sent for a friend, who had known him long and intimately. At the close of the interview, as his end then appeared near to him, he said, "I have said to Bishop Ames that should I pass away I desire that you should write the little that need be written of me. I am trusting, trusting, trusting." At this date the propriety of his reappointment to the Harford Avenue Station seemed questionable. But the affection of his members inspired them to ask, with earnestness and unanimity, for his return. Their request was granted. The dying pastor was again officially intrusted with the interests of the charge, and Rev. Hobart H. Smith was appointed to assist him. But God proposed his early transfer to "the general assembly and Church of the first born, which are written in heaven." Eighteen days after the adjournment of the Conference God called him to join the company of his translated embassadors. As eminent physicians saw him wasting away in the golden prime of a consecrated manhood, and with the freshness of ministerial promise on his brow, they ministered to him with intensest interest and tireless constancy. On the afternoon of March 23 it became evident that he was rapidly sinking. The opinion of the physician was communicated to him. He received the intelligence calmly and submissively. His sun was descending in serene beauty, to leave a trail of light above its setting. Mrs. Holliday said to him, "Would you like to have the sacrament of the Lord's Supper administered to you?" He whispered the reply, "Not down here. I will take it over on the other side." Later in the evening he summoned his failing strength, and uttered these last words, "O Lamb of God, I come! The Lamb! the Lamb! the Lamb!" By the vision of faith he saw Him in his sacrificial relationship to whom John the Baptist pointed and said, "Behold the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world." As the gates of the celestial city opened before him, perhaps he heard, like the seer of Patmos, an innumerable company saying, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power and riches and wisdom and strength and honor and glory and blessing." Then, as softly as weary winds expire, he entered into rest; and of him, as of John Summerfield, it could be written, "His sun hath gone down while it is yet day."

To pencil a perfect portrait of Brother Holliday is no easy task. There are elements of character common to all faithful ministers. There were bold characteristics in his life and ministry that were manifest to all who knew and loved him. Familiar with the Bible, and well read in theology, he also preached with clearness, unction, and force. His sermons were in sympathy with the doctrines of Methodism. The fundamental teachings of Christ and his apostles, and the primary duties and privileges of Christian life, were the burden of his discourses. His preaching was full of pathos. Tenderness enwreathed the chalice of comfort he extended to his congregations. His tears were often an eloquent oratory and the silent weapons of augmented power as he told to listening throngs the story of the cross. A stranger to stoicism, manifested sympathy permeated his expositions of Gospel truth. Full of emotion, he held in the sacred desk that magic key that unlocked the hearts of those who waited on his ministry. In the pastorate and the social circle he carried ever that gift, of surpassing value to a minister, personal magnetism. Richly endowed with attractive manners, and a captivating address, he won friends wherever he went. He conspicuously united ministerial dignity with alluring cheerfulness. As self-sacrificing as he was warm-hearted, he impressed others with the conviction that he was the sympathetic partner of their joys and sorrows. To benefit others was with him a master passion. His unselfishness made him heroic. The welfare of others so enchained his thought that he would undergo excessive labor when personal interests called loudly for rest. That spirit of earnestness that has made many a clerical name immortal constantly inspired him. An overshadowing ambition to save souls glowed in his breast. His uniform ministerial success is an unquestioned fact of Conference history. His pastoral services were always in demand. The interests of no Church languished under his oversight. Large congregations, extensive revivals, and abating Church indebtedness marked the path of his toil. Peculiar interest invested the four years of his superintendency on the Winchester District. The record he then made his brethren of this Conference will not soon forget. His eldership was a period of most brilliant achievement for Methodism in that locality. The skill he then displayed, the labor he then performed, and the success that marked his administration, have made his name throughout that territory "as ointment poured forth." "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars, forever and ever."

Jarrett Bowman, T. Jackson—2.

1. JARRETT BOWMAN was born in Charlestown, Va., December 1, 1816, and died in Strasburgh, Va., June 11, 1878, aged sixty-two. Born a slave, he was held in bondage until he was forty-one years old, and then, in order to obtain his freedom, he was compelled to pay the required sum of $650. In his forty-eighth year he was converted, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Charlestown. Being deeply impressed by the Holy Spirit to call sinners to repentance, he received license to exhort. In 1858 he moved to Baltimore city, and connected himself with Sharp-street Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1862 he received license to preach. In 1864, after the organization of the Washington Annual Conference, he was employed by the presiding elder of the Chesapeake District, and sent to Hagerstown, Md., where he did a good work in building up the Church in that place. In 1865 he was admitted on trial, and sent to Rockingham. Thenceforth he served Jefferson, Monocacy, supernumerary one year, Calvert, Strasburgh, Va., Linganore Circuit, and Strasburgh, where he finished his work on earth.

Brother Bowman was a man of fine qualities. To his family he was all that could be desired, a kind husband and gentle, affectionate father. In his personal friendships he was sincere, generous, and confiding. He was a man of genial temperament, of sound judgment, and of untiring industry. As a preacher, he was a practical, faithful, and impressive expounder of the truth as it is in Jesus. His sermons were always clear and systematic, and although he was limited in his education, yet signs and wonders followed his preaching, and many were added to the Church through his ministry.

Brother Bowman was conscious to the last moment, and met death without dread. When informed by his physician that his end was nigh, he replied, "All right, doctor. I am ready—just waiting."

He then made all the arrangements for his funeral, even to the selection of the preacher, text, and hymns, all of which were faithfully attended to. He sleeps the sleep of the just.

2. TILGHMAN JACKSON was born at Saint Michael's, Talbot County, Md., July 9, 1812, and died at Frederick City, Md., June 19, 1878. He was free-born, but was bound out to Mr. Robert Kemp, a wealthy farmer of Talbot County, when only four years old, and served until he was twenty-one. In 1835 he moved to Baltimore city, where he had regular employment for twenty-eight years. He was converted at John Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church, October 22, 1841. He soon after connected himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1845 he transferred his membership to Orchard-street Methodist Episcopal Church, where he held the responsible position of a class-leader and trustee for a number of years. March 1, 1850, he received license to exhort, and December 23, 1853, to preach. He was ordained deacon March 14, 1858, and elder October 30, 1864. The Washington Conference being organized in 1864 he was admitted on trial, and thenceforth his appointments were as follows: Annapolis, Md.; Ebenezer, Washington, D. C.; presiding elder of the Wheeling District; Ebenezer, again; Asbury, Baltimore, Md.; and in 1878 to Asbury, Frederick City, where he closed his work on earth, June 19, in the sixty-sixth year of his age, and a membership of thirty-seven years in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Brother Jackson was thrice married, the third time, April 6, 1842, to Miss Caroline Hilliard, an excellent Christian lady, who, with three grown children, survives him. As a man Brother Jackson was kind in all the relations of life. He was given to hospitality. As a preacher he was solid and sound. His manner was solemn, impressive, and earnest. His knowledge of the Bible was extensive and accurate, and his quotations from it were apt, appropriate, and forcible. Extensive revivals accompanied his ministrations. As a pastor he was hard to excel. A diligent worker in the Sunday-school, he took great delight in the religious training of the young, and the last sermon he preached, on Sunday, June 9, was to the Sunday-school, from these words, "Take this child away, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages." As a Christian his religious experience was deep. A man of extraordinary purity, the garment of holiness with which he was adorned glittered with the light of heaven. Its brightness illuminated the paths of life along which he walked. The congregations with which he was identified, his ministerial brethren, the official boards, and every society in which he moved, felt a man of God was among them. His illness was brief, but his end was glorious. On Friday evening, June 14, one of his class-leaders being absent from the city, he led the class, returned home, went to bed, and was taken sick during the night. Conscious that the time of departure was at hand, he said, "I am now ready to be offered." In the morning, though very weak, he called his family to his bedside, and had family prayer, as usual, committing them to the care of his heavenly Father. About half-past nine A. M. he imagined he was in the church amid his congregation. He said, "My time is come. I must give up my charge. My work is done." He then sang, "There I shall bathe my weary soul," etc. He then gave out and sung the doxology, after which he lifted up his hands and dismissed the congregation. While in this act his spirit went to eternal glory. Thus passed away to his eternal reward this godly man, a shock of corn fully ripe for the garner of his Lord.

J. M. Adams.

JOHN M. ADAMS is with us no more. Having completed his labors on earth, he has gone to his reward in heaven. He entered the traveling ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1866, in which he labored twelve years as a faithful and efficient minister. Through his instrumentality many souls were brought from darkness to light, out of the kingdom of nature into the kingdom of God. He was a good husband, a kind father, a devoted Christian, an earnest worker for Christ. His preaching was clear and pointed, and did not fail to reach the hearts and stir the soul, always believing that our success in the Christian life is due to our fidelity to the teachings of the Bible. To him the grave was not a dark and gloomy place, but gilded over with celestial glory. He is not dead, but sleeping, and will awake in the morning of an eternal day, clothed in glory, honor, immortality, and eternal life. As a Conference, we have one less link to bind us to earth, and one more to bind us to heaven.

John Edwards.

JOHN EDWARDS was born in Springfield, Union County, New Jersey, August 14, 1802. He was converted when about seventeen years of age, and at once began to exercise his gift in exhortation, giving evidence of his earnest desire for the salvation of sinners and the building up of the cause of Christ. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, as it offered him the widest field for usefulness, and he believed her doctrines and discipline to be most in accordance with the teaching of the New Testament, though his choice at that time placed him in association with a people few in numbers and feeble in influence compared with the older Churches of the neighborhood, who regarded Methodists as a dangerous sect. Having proved by his gifts, grace, and usefulness his qualifications, he was licensed a local preacher, and continued to labor with zeal and success until April 21, 1831, when, in company with thirteen others, he was admitted on trial into the Philadelphia Conference, and appointed to the Dorchester Circuit, Md., as the colleague of Rev. William Leonard. In 1832 he labored with Revs. Thomas Miller and Eliphalet Reed, on Strasburgh Circuit, Pa. In 1833 he was received into full connection, and ordained deacon. Subsequently his appointments were: Chester Cir., Lebanon, Souders-burgh, Springfield, Chester, Susquehanna Miss., Halifax, Stroudsburgh, Millerstown, Springfield, Attleborough, Newtown, Radnor, Fulton, Oxford, Pottstown, Brandywine, Willowgrove, Del.; Worcester, Laurel, Church Creek, Salem Circuit, Marshallton and Kennett, and Kennett and Unionville. At the Conference of 1868, after thirty-seven years of faithful labor, much of which was rendered for the second and third time among the same people, he received a supernumerary relation. His interest in his life-work was, however, unabated. He visited many of his former charges, and preached the Gospel with earnestness and profit to the people. On the last of December, 1878, he visited his nephew, Rev. J. Dungan, at Halifax, and preached the sermon at the watch-meeting, and filled the pulpit nightly during the remainder of the week. On Sabbath, January 5, he preached twice and addressed the Sunday-school at Halifax in the afternoon. On Monday evening he preached his last sermon to the people. On Tuesday, the 7th, he visited the home of Miss Rebecca E. Geiger, where forty-four years before he found a welcome place of rest during the life-time of her now sainted parents, remained here during his illness, receiving the kindest and most tender care that willing hands and loving hearts could give, together with very marked attention from his physician, Dr. Bishoff. During his sickness he was a great sufferer, but no utterance of complaint or impatience escaped his lips. The night before his death he delivered an exhortation, requested those present to sing the doxology, and then, with extended hands, pronounced the apostolic benediction. His mind appeared to dwell upon the promises of God. Some of his last utterances were, "Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." "I am just nothing at all, but Jesus Christ is all in all." "Precious Saviour!" His four children were with him, rendering, in their loving attention, the comfort that a father only could value, until, at eleven o'clock in the morning of January 16, 1879, he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus.

Brother Edwards was happy in his conjugal relations. He was married to Miss Dorinda Stacey, of Stroudsburgh, Pa., a lady every way suited for the responsible position of a minister's companion, and who for more than thirty years cheered him on in his work. No husband was ever more devoted to a wife, and when the Hand that gave took her from his side, he mourned her loss with great sorrow. He was very strong in his attachment to his children, five of whom were removed from the household before he passed away. The presence of his two sons and two daughters at his bedside, at a place so distant from their residences, gave evidence of their devotion to a loving father. Brother Edwards was a minister of the Gospel that "needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth," clear in his statements, earnest in his delivery, pointed in application, and often overwhelming in his appeals. The people of God were led forward through his teachings, and sinners were converted and added to the Church. His loyalty to Methodist economy was so strong that he never wavered in his delighted employment. When his relation was changed to supernumerary he seemed to feel that his field of labor was enlarged, and had he been allowed to choose a life-work over again he would have taken his place on the twenty-five appointments he so faithfully served. He loved and preached the peculiar doctrines of the Church, and during the last ten years of his life enjoyed the great blessing of "perfect love," as taught by our fathers. This great change in his experience in his later years, of which he frequently spoke, had its beginning at the Manheim Camp-meeting, held in 1868. Thus our fellow-laborer, in the seventy-seventh year of his age and the sixtieth year of his Christian life, and more than fifty of active and successful work as a minister of the Gospel,

"His body with his charge laid down,
And ceased at once to work and live."

"The path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

J. L. Gregg.

JOHN L. GREGG was born in Pulaski County, Ky., in 1832, and united with the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1858. He continued to travel in that connection until the fall of 1866, when he transferred his Church relation and united with the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Family affliction caused his sustaining a supernumerary relation to the conference for several years, after ten years in the effective service. He is said to have been a man of exemplary piety, and acceptable to the charges he served. He died in his native county Sept. 10, 1878, of consumption. There is no doubt that his last days were cheered by the comfort of our holy religion; but of the closing scene we are not advised. His widow and four children survive him.

Wm. P. Abbott, Joel Croft—2.

1. WILLIAM PENN ABBOTT, D.D., was born near Wilkesbarre, Pa., Dec. 31, 1838, and died in New York city, Dec. 22, 1878, aged nearly forty years. He was the eldest of three brothers, children of Stephen F. and Charlotte M. Abbott. In his ancestry and social relationships he found an incitement to a noble manhood. His paternal great-grandfather was killed by the Indians while defending his home in the famed Wyoming Valley; his maternal grandfather, the Hon. Charles Miner, was the historian of Wyoming; his cousin, Mrs. Anna Wentworth, was one of our earliest missionaries to China, and sleeps in the missionary cemetery; he was himself the most eloquent orator at the recent Centennial celebration of the massacre at Wyoming. His father died while he was but a lad, and to his mother he was chiefly indebted for the influences which subsequently ripened into the character now so honored. She was a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, a woman of singularly mild disposition, tender hearted, artless in her manners, and wonderfully solicitous for the conversion of her boys. Until his twelfth or thirteenth year she was his teacher; the Bible was her favorite text-book, so that from a child he knew the holy Scriptures. His educational advantages were limited to attendance upon the academy at West Chester, Pa., where, at an early age, he went with his mother to reside, and at Kingston, Pa., where for a time he was a pupil of the late Dr. Nelson.

His conversion, which was clear and definite, occurred at a camp-meeting held in Bethany, in 1859. He immediately joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. His calendar record is as follows: In 1860, licensed to preach and employed during a part of the year by the presiding elder, William Wyatt, on the Oregon Circuit, Wyoming Conference; in 1861, on the South Canaan Circuit; in 1862, on the Broome Cir.; in 1863, admitted on trial in that Conference and returned to Broome Cir.; in 1864, stationed at Spencer, and in 1865, at Spencer and Candor. In April, 1866, he was transferred to the Troy Conference, and stationed at Ashgrove Church, in the city of Albany. In 1869 he was transferred to this Conference and stationed successively at Trinity Church, Newburgh; Washington Square, Saint Luke's, and Thirtieth-street, New York; where his earthly labors closed. Upon this line of service William P. Abbott wrought out a life at once beautiful and eminently successful.

From the opening of his ministry he attracted attention. In his first charge God honored his labors with a revival, and in every charge gave him fruit. He had no barren year in all the sixteen. He was never more successful than in his last charge. His popularity and power, in all directions, were increasing. He was held in high esteem, not only by his own brethren, but, by the ministry and membership of other Churches, and by multitudes not in communion with any Church. He was not infrequently pressed to leave the Church of his early choice and enter other denominations, and large financial inducements were held out to him. His simple reply was, "Brother, I would as soon think of changing my name as my Church relations."

Dr. Abbott was a diligent student. He was gifted with a prodigious memory, a well balanced mind, quick perception, and boundless tact. He read constantly and kept himself well informed on current literature and passing events. His presence was commanding and prepossessing. His sermons were short, practical, and methodical, gathering continually increasing force in delivery, and going directly home to their object. This directness of aim was among his greatest qualities. He was eager, probably impatient, for present and visible results. If his congregation did not appreciably increase, if the social meetings were not well attended and lively, he was restive and distressed. His methods were in the fullest sense evangelical. He never apologized for the truth, but, seizing upon the great cardinal facts of the Gospel, he faithfully sowed them in the hearts of the people. He believed, and therefore spoke. He was at his best in a protracted meeting when a revival was in progress; roused to enthusiasm, he became overwhelmingly eloquent, and poured forth his exhortations with well-nigh resistless force. He was, also, a man of large adaptations, his services being sought far and wide for the platform, the camp-meeting, and the church dedication.

Dr. Abbott excelled, also, as a thorough painstaking pastor. He moved about systematically from house to house, visiting, counseling, praying with his people, and familiarizing himself with their lives. The influence of his society, quite as much as his preaching, was most quickening and elevating. It was the inspiration of his high-toned character and Christian faith and essential piety that moved and won and blessed his flock. This was one great open secret of his success as a minister of the Lord Jesus. He is best known and revered to-day by multitudes as a great-hearted religious friend. God had given him a royal nature, warm, magnetic, emotional. He had a great heart, which irradiated his face, and opened his hand, and quickened his feet, and dominated his whole being. It was a joy to him to be generous. His benefactions were ceaseless and augmenting to the day of his death. He gave to Churches in need, to his poorer brethren in the ministry, to individuals in all his congregations, and to the educational and benevolent enterprises of the Church. His last act was the preparation of Christmas gifts to numerous friends. He was a charming companion, simple, sincere, and confiding as a child. Few men have leaned more on their friends than he. He loved his friends, and not infrequently would throw his great arms about their neck, and, with all the warmth of a woman's heart, would say, "I do love you!"

The crowning grace of Dr. Abbott's life was a transparent simplicity of religious character. He was never coarse, never ungentlemanly; there is no stain on his moral character; his garments were unspotted; but over and beyond all this he was a man of deep and unfeigned piety. His prayers, whether at his family altar or in the church, gave evidence of his secret communion with the skies. His last sickness covered a period of about eight weeks. During most of that time his intellect was clouded by disease; but in moments of consciousness he spoke with emphasis concerning the satisfactory nature of his inner life and immortal hopes. His death was almost instantaneous at last, but was for him the swinging open of the gate of life.

Dr. Abbott was twice married, in 1860, to Miss Lizzie Wyatt, daughter of Rev. William Wyatt, who was his faithful and loving companion for fourteen years; and again, on the 29th of last April, to Miss Delia Archer, daughter of O. H. P. Archer, of New York, a lady in every respect worthy of him, and whose deep sorrow appeals to our sympathy and calls for our prayers.

2. JOEL CROFT was born in Phillipstown, Putnam Co., N. Y., Feb. 11, 1820, and died in Peekskill, N. Y., March 27, 1879, aged fifty-nine. He was converted at the age of sixteen. Soon after his conversion he entered the academy at Peekskill, and at the same time began the study of theology, aided by the then pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of that place. He was licensed to preach Nov. 12, 1842. In 1844 he served as a supply on the Delaware Mission. In 1845 he joined the New York Conference, of which he remained a worthy and respected member until the Master called him home. His successive appointments have been: Delaware, Deposit, Catskill, West Point, Croton, Glenham, Amenia, Pauling, Wappinger's Falls, Johnsville, Sugar Loaf, Monroe, New Paltz Landing; Jane-street, New York city; Milton, Walden, Eddyville and Port Ewen, King's Bridge, and Washingtonville. In these several charges he was the instrument in God's hand of leading many to Christ. In heaven he will find many who were persuaded by him to be reconciled to God.

On June 12, 1852, seven years after he entered the Conference, Brother Croft was united in marriage to Miss Minerva Place, who proved to him a most excellent wife, and for twenty-seven years ministered as a guardian angel by his side until he departed hence. Their only child—a daughter—is the wife of Rev. Philip Germond, of this Conference.

While pastor at King's Bridge a severe attack of sickness brought him nigh unto the gates of death. From the effects of this sickness he never fully recovered. His robust constitution was broken. He toiled on in cheerful hope for a time; but it became evident that the days of his active ministry were coming to a close. Three years ago he offered that saddest prayer that ever goes out of the lips of a minister, "Put me on the retired list." Two years of his superannuated life he spent in Newburgh. He worshiped at Trinity Church. The last year of his life he spent at Peekskill. During these years shocks of partial paralysis admonished him to be ready, and foreshadowed the end. It came at last, so suddenly as to seem like a translation.

Brother Croft was endowed with a warm social nature. He was a true and abiding friend. Beneath the firm grasp of his hand there was a warm and constant heart. His was a genial nature. He loved society. In domestic life he was artless and gentle as a little child. He had all the joyousness and guilelessness of childhood. He reveled in song. His life was full of music, full of sunshine. His soul was full of poetic imagery. He drank largely of this glorious fountain. His sermons abounded with quotations from the poets. His good cheer never forsook him. In failing health, when the sickle of the reaper shook in his hand; when the lone, sad, and, sometimes purseless lot of the superannuate was his, through it all he was of good cheer. Indeed, the time of ill health has been the most triumphant of his whole life. He walked with God. The evening time of life was cloudless. He lived in the sunny clime of faith. The invisible, the supernatural were present realities. He felt their touch and inspiration, and bounded on into the unfading brightness of a richer, happier, higher life. The intricacies of metaphysics never perplexed or entangled him. He was no speculatist, no inventor of new and strange doctrines. He stood fast in the faith, the grand old faith. His nature was deeply emotional. His religious experiences were rapturous. He was at times caught up toward the third heaven. He saw, he felt, unspeakable things. His soul was on fire.

Some lead men to Christ through the intellect, others through the sensibilities. Brother Croft made his assault directly upon the citadel of the heart. With many that is the short road to victory. It was with him. Friends followed him. Many will call him blessed. Saving souls was his special work. He lived and labored for that. He believed that man was a sinner, was in danger of eternal loss; that Christ was his almighty Saviour, and that this Saviour stood waiting to show mercy; and, believing this, with all the intensity of his ardent nature he sought to bring men to Christ. In this he succeeded. The fruits of his ministry remain. A revival swept every chord of his spirit. It roused the whole man. He was all aflame. His exultant soul broke forth in prayer and in praise, in song and in shouts of joy. His countenance glowed with the pent-up rapture that struggled to escape. His voice rang out like the blast of a trumpet. His sturdy frame swayed like the trees of the forest. To him it was the joy of harvest. With him the toil of harvest and the heat of life's day is over. The visions of faith are changed. He now sees as he is seen, and knows as he is known. For the last few months the gold which had been refining in the furnace had put on new luster. He was in Beulah land. His conversation was in heaven. The vision grew bright. In the glow of this spiritual sunshine his bodily health seemed to improve. In the afternoons of the last two Sabbaths he spent on earth he preached in a chapel near his home, greatly rejoicing at the privilege. He was preparing to preach again the next Sabbath, and had chosen this text—"But one thing is needful." On Wednesday evening, the night before his departure, he was in church at the prayer-meeting; he took part in the services, and closed an animated address with this thrilling utterance: "Out of the midnight into the daylight." This was his last public work. It was the triumphant shout of one who had won the battle.

His heart and home had been growing bright with the radiance of heaven for weeks and months. It was evident that the shock of corn was ripe. The family altar burned with a purer flame. On the evening of Thursday, March 27, the last holy offering was laid on that altar by our dear sainted brother. His soul was in rapture, for heaven was near—nearer than he knew. A few minutes after he went to the post-office, and while there, at a quarter before seven o'clock, he fell lifeless upon the floor—"Absent from the body and present with the Lord." Blessed life! Blessed translation into life!

C. K. True, S. W. King, H. Burton, W. H. Norris—4.

1. CHARLES K. TRUE, D.D., was born August 14, 1809, in Portland, (Mass., now Maine.) In 1823 the family moved to Boston. He prepared for college at Wilbraham, under Dr. Fisk, and entered Amherst in 1828, remaining one year. In 1829 he entered the sophomore class at Harvard. During the vacation at the close of the first year he attended the camp-meeting at Eastham, and was clearly and gloriously converted August 14, 1830. He was ardently attached to this Bethel, and ever after, if possible, attended and preached on his spiritual birth-day. In 1847, when attending this meeting, he sought and found the experience of "perfect love." Thus he speaks of it: "The day before the meeting was dissolved I retired as usual into the woods and laid the whole matter before God, and told him all that was in my heart. At that time, while prostrate before him in consecration and prayer, what seemed a heavenly glory pervaded my soul and thrilled my body, accompanied with a sense of union with God in affection and love. It seemed very distinct from any excitement of my own mind, and I felt it was the Spirit of God bearing witness with my spirit."

In 1831 a local preacher's license was given him, and he supplied the pulpit at Medford. In 1832 he graduated at Harvard University, and became pastor of Newton Upper Falls. He was admitted on trial into the New England Conference in 1833. From this date to the close of his life he was a member of three conferences, pastor of twenty-one Churches; one year principal of Amenia Seminary; twelve years professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy and Belles-lettres in Wesleyan University. During six years of his professorship he was the stated pulpit supply of several different Churches. Three years he was the financial agent of the Wesleyan University.

In 1835 he married Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Edward Hyde, a most valued member of the New England Conference. This devoted and helpful companion, with six children—three sons and three daughters—who have all come to honor, survive him.

Dr. True was reared in a Christian home of high social position. He was early possessed of a pure, lofty, inspiring ambition. In his academic life he was the acknowledged first for gifts, attainments, and deportment. In college he preserved a similar rank, graduated with honor, and took the first prize for elocution. His conversion wrought a change in his purposes as complete as did that of Saul of Tarsus. The young man of high earthly anticipations became ambitious only to do good, and to be a faithful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. Whatever attractions and valuation, position, places, might have, they never substituted or diverted him from individual soul-seeking. His facility and felicity of introducing personal religious conversation, without shock or embarrassment, with all persons, and in every place, has never been excelled, if ever equaled. His ability and success in leading penitents to Christ, to advance believers to the comfort of the full assurance of hope; to bring solace to the afflicted, and cheer to the disconsolate, are attested by the many in every circle of his opportunity; and this was born of his own experience and clear soul perception. "To him was given by the spirit the word of wisdom." As a man he was artless, ingenuous, transparent as a child; of no one could it be said with more truth, "Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile." He was without suspicion or jealousy, innately and perfectly a gentleman. It seemed impossible that he could be otherwise; by no discourtesy or abuse was he surprised into an ungracious word or demeanor. His spirit was so free from acrimony that no reproach, assault or wrong lessened the sweetness of his temper, or his kindness toward the injurious. He was a sincere lover of the true and the truth. Without disguise or concealment he disclosed his own thoughts and imaginings, even in the processes of their formation. He equally respected the thoughts of others, and helped to evoke and evolve them. This made him a most helpful and loved instructor. His confidence in ideas was more than in bayonets, majorities, governments, or all the powers of the present; it was that of his belief in the existence and power of God. This, with his inward uprightness, gave him the quiet and serenity of one who could see no cause for fear, and made him unhesitatingly to utter his thoughts without the consideration of consequences. Under imposed restraints of authority he so obeyed as not to sacrifice the integrity of his soul, but rather to exhibit and declare it. His faith was most childlike. He asked expecting to receive. This was never more manifest than in his trust in Providence. The wealth to which he was born was dissipated by misfortune soon after his entrance upon the ministry. So, to rear his family and educate them, he had to rely only on the support of his salary. Often brought into great straits of pecuniary need, he never lost his cheerfulness and even joyousness, and was liberal beyond his means, not doubting but God would provide.

Dr. True was a man of extensive reading and accurate knowledge, surprising some who thought a subject was a specialty with them, by his wider acquaintance and more thorough information. He was thoughtful, meditative, speculative, which made his teaching and preaching to give you always something new, or to view an old truth in new light and in surprising relations. He was logical in his reasoning, correct and accurate in expression, pure and elegant in his rhetoric, eloquent in speech. At times his sermons would range in the very highest excellence of discourse, surprising with clearness and strength of statement, purity and loftiness of sentiment, aptness and fullness of illustration, and the pictorial beauty of his figures. He was a man of devout and earnest piety; all recognized his rare gift of prayer. He prayed as one talking with a friend, and literally obeyed the injunction, "In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." The death of our beloved brother was most sudden. On Wednesday evening, June 19, 1878, he attended the prayer-meeting of his charge, Cedar-street, Brooklyn—a meeting memorable as his last meeting for the thankful, fervent, hopeful, joyous spirit which he exhibited in address and prayer. His second daughter, Emily Frances, wife of W. Edward De Riemer, a missionary of the American Board to Ceylon, with her husband and four children, had come home to visit him. His youngest son was to graduate the next day. The education and position of all his children was now secured. Unburdened of care and anxiety, he was free to engage fully in his Master's work. To him it made no difference whether assigned to small or large Churches. The loftiest position of earth had no attractions comparable with that of a Methodist preacher in any place. A penitent was at the altar; with his arm kindly and lovingly around him, he helped him with prayer and encouragement to look to the Lamb of God, and then declared how delightful it would be to go from pointing the sinner to the Saviour, to that Saviour, and that he would love thus to end his life's work. His words were to have a speedy fulfillment. Near midnight he was taken suddenly ill; before the physician could be brought, about ten minutes of twelve, he was not, for God had taken him. He had entered into rest. That which he thought was laying aside his burdens for more devoted work was the unbuckling of his armor, laying aside his sword for the victor's palm and crown.

The virtues and excellences of our brother lead us to glorify God in him. In his sudden removal the admonition comes to us with emphasis, "Be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

2. Samuel W. King was born in the city of New York, June 15, 1818, and died in the city of Brooklyn, June 27, 1878. He was the son of Henry R. and Jemima King. His maternal grandparents, Cornelius and Catharine Warner, were for many years members of old John-street Methodist Episcopal Church. He was converted at the age of eighteen in Allen-street Methodist Episcopal Church, and afterward became a class-leader and local preacher. In 1835 he commenced his itinerant labors on the Greenport and Orient Circuit, under the presiding elder. In 1835 he joined the New York Conference, and was appointed to the same charge. He entered upon his labors with an ardor that no difficulties could subdue. So indefatigable was he in his pastoral work that in all that part of Long Island which included Greenport, Rocky Point, and Orient, there was not a family that he had not visited, often running from house to house that he might find more time to do a large work. So successful was he that his labors created an epoch in that charge, especially in the village of Orient. There is no name on the roll of his Conference that is spoken of with more grateful recollection by the older residents of that place than the name of Samuel W. King. There was no Methodist Church in the place, and the preaching services were held in the house of Mr. T. V. Young, now a Methodist veteran of nearly ninety years of age, and whose house was for many years the home of Methodist preachers.

An extensive revival of religion took place in the winter of 1835–36, many of the living evidences of which may be found to this day. In the latter year Brother King married Mary, the eldest daughter of Mr. T. V. Young, of Orient, who shared with him the joys and sorrows of the Methodist itinerancy for more than forty years, and who survives him. Eternity alone can tell how much the success of his labors depended upon the patience and fidelity with which she discharged the duties of wife and mother. Nine children were born to them, five sons of whom are still living, useful members of the Church of Christ.

His subsequent appointments were as follows: Ponset and North Madison, New Canaan, Smithtown Circuit, Cold Spring, Amenia Circuit, New Windsor, superannuated one year, Port Jefferson, Brooklyn Home Mission, Norwalk, Jamaica, Franklin Avenue, (Brooklyn,) Rockaway, Second street, (New York,) South Third-street, (Brooklyn,) Eighteenth-street, (Brooklyn,) North Fifth-street, (Brooklyn,) East Chester, City Island, and in 1864 superannuated. During six months of 1864 he labored for the Christian Commission in the Army of the Potomac, and the remainder of the year for the Freedman's Aid Society on Long Island.

Nature had endowed Brother King with powers of mind quite above the average, and they were kept in active exercise. His perceptions were quick, and readily took hold of truth in its great outlines. His memory was retentive, and his recollection, especially of names, was remarkable. He was independent, yet thoroughly orthodox, in his opinions. An extensive reader, he took a lively interest in whatever concerned the Church or the State. As a preacher he was scriptural, logical, intensely in earnest, presenting strongly the leading doctrines of the word. His preparation for the pulpit was always fresh, and it is doubtful if he ever preached a sermon twice in the same form. His preaching was often accompanied by the "demonstration of the Spirit and of power." His organization was nervous, and he did not spare himself when he had a cause to serve, and often worked when he ought to have rested. In 1870 he suffered from a severe attack of paralysis, from which he recovered in about two months sufficiently to resume his labors. In 1871 he was again stricken down while in the pulpit in Harlem, engaged in preaching a very earnest sermon. The next year he was appointed to Flatlands, where he had another attack, which utterly incapacitated him from any further labor. In the following spring he was placed on the retired list. For a long time he was unable to engage in vocal prayer in the family, or even to say grace at the table. On the day of his death he arose, feeling as well as usual, visited several families, among them some of his own children. He returned home, said that he was tired, and upon his wife telling him that he had better lie down, he did so, and fell into a sound sleep, from which it was difficult to awake him. The family physician was called. Brother King was assisted to his bed. Restoratives were administered, but all in vain. Nature gave way, and at five P. M. he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. His last words were, "Mercy! heaven!"

3. Henry Burton entered the old New York Conference in 1830. In 1837, by reason of impaired health, induced by excessive labor, he located, but in 1849 he was readmitted to the Conference, and resumed the effective ministry, in which he continued until 1858, since which period to his death he sustained a superannuated relation. During his effective ministry he served the following appointments: Chatham Circuit, Hinsdale Circuit, Bennington, Saratoga Circuit, North Madison, Huntingdon, Cornwall, Burlington, Goshen, Haddam, Suffield. He possessed a graceful blending of the Christian and the gentleman, which attracted observation and elicited universal respect. He was a man of general reading and intelligence, a good preacher and pastor. Irreproachable in his life, he leaves the savor of a good name, more precious to his family than the distinctions of worldly honor or the inheritance of great riches. His son, Rev. Dr. J. A. Burton, a Congregational minister, of Hartford, Conn., writes: "His twenty years in Middletown have been very cheerful years, even more and more so as he grew older. I think no shadow of imbecility came over him. His mind was perfectly clear, and to the last he kept up a good interest in subjects and in affairs, though both mind and body slowed in their action. I do not think he had any doubt of his future, and we certainly had none."

Father Burton died in Middletown, Conn., September 25, 1878, aged eighty-one. No premonitions existed of his speedy dissolution. At eight o'clock in the morning of the eventful day that marked his translation he moved around the house with characteristic cheerfulness, while his voice was heard in cheerful song hymning the praises of God. Fifteen minutes from that time he had ceased to be an inhabitant of earth, thus providentially escaping the agony he had so much dreaded, though happily delivered from the fear of death. His unwavering faith in Christ had rendered him calm and courageous, so that, though death was sudden, it was no surprise. A widow, two sons, and a daughter survive him, consoled by the blessed assurance that the husband and father has at last entered into that rest which for so many years he had sought to be prepared, had patiently waited for, and joyfully anticipated.

4. W. H. Norris was born in Prono, Maine, October 28, 1801. When about sixteen years of age he came with his father's family to the city of New York, where, sometime subsequently, he was converted to God, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Duane-street. In 1825 he was admitted to the New York Conference, and in the following year was one of a group of earnest volunteers to answer the call for help from Maine, to which Conference he was transferred, and was stationed successively at Belfast, Bath, Portland, Hallowell, and Bangor; and one year as presiding elder of the Portland District, and editor of the Maine Wesleyan Journal. He was twice elected to the General Conference from this field, (1832 and 1836.) In 1837 he was transferred to the New York East Conference, and stationed at Sands-street, Brooklyn. At the close of his pastorate in Brooklyn he spent nearly ten years in the service of the Missionary Society, in South America; and as agent of the American Bible Society in Mexico. On his return from the latter field he was again stationed at Sands-street, Brooklyn, and remained in the various work of his ministry in the New York East Conference to the close of his useful labors, with the exception of the brief appointments of 1863, as agent again of the American Bible Society to Panama and Central America, in 1864, as missionary to South America, and in 1865 to Nashville, Tenn. His appointments in this Conference were: Sands-street, twice; First Church, New Haven; presiding elder of New Haven District; Forsyth-street, New York; presiding elder of New York District; presiding elder of Long Island District; and Durham, Conn. He was elected a delegate from this Conference to the General Conference of 1860.

Brother Norris's religious character was grafted on a good natural stock. Born of sterling orthodox parents, and under all the thrift and intelligence of early New England training the new life of Christian faith in the Lord Jesus, sat easily on him as he entered upon it in the freshness of early youth. The group of characteristics which paints the centurion of Gospel history would best distinguish our beloved brother, and were as natural to him as to Cornelius. "He was a devout man." A man of uprightness and sincerity. A godly man, a man at all times reliable and trustworthy. And, fearing God with all his heart, it was impossible but that any mission which he entered into should be regarded by him as of most solemn importance. With such a view of life personal considerations were not allowed to enter. To him the voice of the Church was the voice of God. So, he was no sooner converted to God than, as the call for his service came, he at once responded to that call, "stopping not to consult with flesh and blood," and cheerfully surrendering lucrative mercantile prospects, he went without questioning place or fitness. The matter of responsibility rested with those who called him. What it cost him to do this can only be appreciated by those who knew the true character of the man, and the shrinking, self-depreciating nature against which he had to contend. Keenly alive to a sense of proprieties and qualifications, he suffered as few would credit him with suffering, from a conviction of the greatness of the work of the Christian ministry, and his own incompetency to meet its supreme demands. However that may be, it always seemed to us that he underrated his own ability, and would often push others before him, while those who knew him better regretted the loss of his riper knowledge, which his shrinking nature induced.

But whatever those in authority dictated, like a true soldier of the cross, he knew only to obey. So, he never sought position, as also he never refused whatever appointment was made him.

The measure of the man may be estimated by the special agencies and missions to which the Church so frequently called him, in periods of peculiar exigencies, when the ripest wisdom and most devoted loyalty were needed to represent the vast interests involved. He was a safe man. One in whom the largest trusts could be reposed, and also one whose clear sense of right, and ready ability of placing any matter of controversy in the simplest relations, made him at all times sought after for these valuable qualities.

His extensive travels, moreover, and long association with the best society of the different countries of our extended continent, where his missions took him, and his extensive reading in the department, specially, which fidelity to his peculiar work demanded, made him eminently capable of advice in times of grave inquiry.

In the prosecution of his mission in South America, although chiefly directed to the English-speaking population of the cities where he labored, he gave himself to a diligent study of the Spanish language, that he might reach the natives through their vernacular; and also closely observed their manners and customs, and was afterward found a most reliable contributor to a history of that interesting portion of our southern continent prepared by an eminent English author and traveler, and published by that gentleman in England. And when, at the close of the Spanish Revolution, the American Bible Society contemplated establishing a Bible agency in Spain, Mr. Norris was selected for that work, and if that mission had been opened he would, doubtless, have gone on that important errand.

In the pulpit the same conscientious painstaking was also apparent. Sound in doctrine, severely logical in argument, and terse in style, the spirit and tone of the man carried conviction with every utterance. In his palmier days, overflowing with divine unction and manly emotions, his preaching was with a persuasiveness that could rarely be resisted. The years of his early labors in Maine were marked by one continuous revival of grace. Everywhere, in Belfast, in Bath, in Hallowell, in Portland, and in Bangor, as well as on the district, the same unction rested on him. Those who remember him when he was transferred from the Maine Conference to Sands-street, Brooklyn, speak of him at that time as all aglow with ardent love for souls and for the glory of God. During his pastorate here, at that time, occurred one of the most remarkable revivals of its history as a Church. Day and night laboring, this earnest man of God knew no rest during the long weeks of that protracted service. Frequently in the midst of the great excitement that prevailed, Mr. Norris would be seen leaning against one of the pillars that supported the gallery of the church, and weeping aloud in very agony of soul for the souls of others. He loved his work and was tireless in its industries. The First Church in New Haven, is witness also to the same gracious sealing which the Head of the Church put upon his servant's labors, in the remarkable outpouring of the Holy Ghost upon the congregation during his labors over it in 1850–1852. As a pastor he was a model. Systematically dividing his time and his parish, he would go from house to house; mingling with his people, carrying their sorrows, advising in their perplexities, and specially sympathizing with the poor and fatherless. Going as a man of God, with both hands and heart open to minister to whatever necessities might crave his sympathies. Fostering in his Churches the social means of grace by untiring personal oversight, he made his societies daily schools for the culture of the souls committed to his care. "He watched for souls as one that must give account." How devout he was in counsel and in prayer! You always felt that you might and ought to be better for any service that he performed.

Of his giving, his habit was as exact and as methodical as his habit of prayer, and was regulated by the same law. Whatever income he had was measured into its appropriate parts, and out of it must come the proper share that belonged to God. "He was given to hospitality." If ever the sentiment was true in any lips it was true in his,

> "Here to the homeless child of want
> My door is open still;
> And though my portion is but scant
> I give it with good will."

So in the family, and in all other relations of life, "he was a devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always."

While in his early labors in Maine his exhaustive efforts and frequent exposures to the rigor of that cold climate, in his long travels, he was attacked by acute bronchitis, which laid the foundation of a disease which troubled him sometimes very seriously during all the rest of his life, and by which at length, greatly magnified by exposures in his last mission in Tennessee, and accompanied by a debilitating miasmatic fever, he was for some time prostrated, and though by careful attentions he at length recovered, yet it was only a brief prelude to the curtain of night which fell down over a long and useful life, from behind which for one short moment he looked out to recognize and smile at the dear one who watched his parting, and was at rest. So on the 19th of October, 1878, this faithful servant of the Church "was not, for God took him." The loving wife and companion of his long labors survives, remaining at Hempstead, L. I., with one of their married daughters. Full of faith and love, as she is full of years, waiting till the end shall come when she shall join her departed in the skies.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

R. W. Horsefield.

ROBERT WATERHOUSE HORSEFIELD was the oldest son of Rev. Thomas W. Horsefield, of Sussex, England. He was born in Lewis, Sussex, Jan. 25, 1825, and died in Grantville, Jefferson County, Kansas, Jan. 31, 1879, aged fifty-four years. He entered the Wesleyan Conference in England, in 1850, and was ordained elder Aug. 3, 1854. He retired from the Conference, Jan. 29, 1856, in consequence of ill health. Although engaged in secular work, he never gave up preaching. He came to the United States in 1870, where he resumed the work of the ministry, and was assigned to Oskaloosa by the presiding elder, where he spent nine months, and in March, 1872, he was admitted on trial into the Kansas Conference and received the following appointments: 1872, Oskaloosa; 1873, Abilene; 1874-75, Auburn; 1876, Burlingame. During this year his health failed him, and for a long time he hovered between life and death. Kind friends ministered to his wants and aided somewhat in securing for him and family a small but comfortable home, induced by the persuasion he could never resume the itinerant work again. But he could not rest, and gave himself a portion of the time to intellectual work and writing. In 1877 he was granted a superannuated relation, and remained in Burlingame. In 1878 he was made effective and sent to Grantville, where he ceased to work and live.

Brother Horsefield was a devout man, strong in faith, genial, cheerful, companionable, making many and fast friends. He was a hard student, and becoming noted as a writer. He had readers in England as well as in America. His article in the "Methodist Quarterly Review," comparing English and American Methodism, attracted attention and commendation. As a scholar few if any surpassed him in the Conference. Some months before his death he engaged on an elaborate plan, with other ministers of the Gospel in different parts of the United States, to systemize and simplify the research of the Scriptures. He loved this book with a deathless love. Although during his last sickness, of over two weeks' continuance, he suffered severely at times, he had consolation and triumph in Christ. He requested a brother minister to pray with him, and while he could not open his eyes, and his head was bound up, he followed the prayer and warmly responded, and when the farewell word was uttered it was full of hope. All mouths are full of words of praise of this good man, this patient student, this profitable writer, and this fruitful preacher.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

T. Benedict, J. L. Cook, J. Thompson, W. W. Atwater, E. Turner, E. Watson, M. Ludlum—7.

1. TIMOTHY BENEDICT was born in Canaan, Litchfield Co., Connecticut, May 25, 1795, and died in Belvidere, Illinois, May 6, 1878. His parents were devotedly pious, and among the early members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in that town. They bestowed special care on the religious instruction of their children. Timothy was converted at the age of nineteen, and immediately united with the Church, and became an active Christian. He was licensed to preach in 1816. The health of Rev. Lewis Pease, preacher in charge on Pittsfield Circuit, failing, Mr. Benedict was employed on that circuit for the balance of the year. In 1817 he was admitted on trial in the New York Conference, and returned to Pittsfield Circuit, with the eloquent William Ross, of precious memory, as his senior colleague. He always considered himself highly favored in being thus early associated with these distinguished men. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Goshen, Charlotte, superannuated two years, Salisbury Cir., Rhinebeck, Hartford, Weathersfield Circuit, Lansingburgh and Waterford, Pittsfield. From 1835 to 1842 he was on the retired list. In 1843 he again became effective, and served North Adams, Ferry-street, (Albany,) Dalton, Jonesville, Cambridge, Cohoes. At Ballston, in 1856, at his own request, he was returned superannuated, in which relation he continued until called away from earth. In the fall of 1856 he removed to Illinois, where he passed his declining years.

In 1848–52 he was one of the delegates from Troy Conference in the General Conference. On May 19, 1819, Brother Benedict was married to Miss Mary Griffin Chamberlain, a most estimable Christian lady, of a distinguished Methodist family in Dalton, Mass. She shared in the toils of his long itinerancy, and lives to mourn the loss of him who, with her, traveled life's pathway for near fifty-nine years. Brother Benedict, at the time of his decease, was by several years the oldest member of our Conference. He was a man of deep, uniform piety; modest and unassuming in his manners; true to God and the Church of his choice; a genial, sweet-spirited Christian gentleman. He was a man of more than ordinary native mind, which was well cultivated by long and close application to study and general reading. He was familiar with the standard authors of the Church and general Church history. As a preacher he had few, if any, superiors among us. His sermons were thoroughly prepared, clear and systematic in arrangement, and logical in argument, and although he was never boisterous, yet his discourses were always impressively delivered. His sermons were uniform, and uniformly good. When he appeared before an audience his hearers expected to be instructed from the word of God, and they were never disappointed. He was greatly beloved, and many were the seals to his ministry. Long will Timothy Benedict be remembered by the older members of the Conference, and among the laity, as a wise, judicious counselor and warm-hearted friend. As a pastor, he was diligent, looking after every interest of the Church among those whom he served. At the commencement of his last illness he said, "I shall linger a few weeks, and then go home." The time arrived, and, as was to be expected after such a long, devoted life, he was ready, and passed on to join his old associates in the ministry who had gone on before him. Blessed man, we loved him in life, and revere his memory! He left two sons and three daughters. May the blessing of the God of the parents rest on the children!

2. JOHN LOVEJOY COOK was born in Edinburgh, Saratoga Co., N. Y., Jan. 7, 1819. His parents were earnest Christians and faithful members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His early years were passed amid the uneventful and peaceful associations and toils of a farmer's life. Here, in an excellent Christian home, was laid the foundation of a blameless Christian character and useful life. The latter part of his minority he was employed by his brother as a manufacturer in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. While in this employ he was converted, and was very soon appointed a class leader, and licensed to preach. In 1846 he was received on probation as a member of this Conference. His appointments were Hebron and Argyle, Essex, Franklin, Castleton, Green Island, Hinsdale, Salem, Danby, Clintonville, Chazy, Bethlehem, Cheshire, Stuyvesant Falls, and North Pownal, where he closed his life. Here he labored ten years, two years under appointment from the Conference, and eight years under the auspices of the Congregational Church. This fact of his comparatively long pastorate in one congregation indicates that he was here greatly beloved. So, indeed, he was to the very last. The Congregational Convention of Vermont, held in Rutland, June, 1878, after his death, made grateful and honorable mention of him in its annual report. A few days before his death Brother Cook wrote in his journal: "To-day I close ten years' labor among the people of North Pownal. Ten years of uninterrupted harmony. An advance in religion and morals at least one hundred per cent." Mr. Brownell of that place, in writing of him and quoting these words, says: "We think this is no exaggeration." And he also says: "There was a revival of religion in progress at the time of his death, largely attributable to his faithful preaching and holy living." He died May 15, 1878. During the last session of our Conference he penned a note from his home to the writer, saying among other things, that his work was done, and he expected soon to be released, and requested me to write his obituary. His last days were days of heavenly confidence and unfailing faith. He was sometimes heard to say with great earnestness, "If God were willing I would love to preach the blessed Gospel up to the very judgment day." He neared the dark river with serene trust in Christ, and, as his feet touched it, he looked with indescribable tenderness upon his beloved wife, who had been with him so long to cheer and aid him in the varied experiences of the itinerant life. With loving solicitude he committed her to the affectionate care of their only son, a popular and efficient minister of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and, commending her to the widow's God, he peacefully fell asleep. His last words were, "I have nothing more to do with affairs of earth —Great peace! Great peace!"

3. JOHN THOMPSON was born in Baltimore, Md., August 20, 1800, and died at Saratoga Springs, New York, July 9, 1878. On his father's side he was of Scotch descent; on his mother's, of Irish. From his more remote ancestry he shared the blood of other nationalities. These ancestral lines entered somewhat distinctly into his open and public character, and help to explain its more marked and commendable traits. We have another key to any characteristics seen in his religious and ministerial life, in that his parents were members of the Presbyterian Church, under the careful teachings and strong influences of which he was reared until his conversion, in 1819, when, to the grief of his sanguine mother, he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in his native city. But through the noble catholicity of her pastor, Rev. Dr. Nevin, she was induced to think it better that her son be a good and willing Methodist than a poor and unwilling Presbyterian. The dates of his conversion and of his union with the Church—the 24th of February and the 24th of the ensuing March —were ever after silver-letter days in the memory of Brother Thompson. Having removed to Northern New York he was licensed a local preacher on Beekmantown Circuit, June 4, 1836, and was soon after called by the presiding elder to supply a vacancy on the charge, he continuing, also, his secular business. But such was the demand for laborers, and such his ability to meet it, that in 1838 he became a supply on Jay Circuit, and the following year on North Hero. The labors of those two years induced Brother Thompson, under the call of the Church, to enter the itinerancy. He was, therefore, ordained a local deacon, and received on trial into Conference in 1840.

Breaking away, at the age of forty years, from what had seemed to himself and family to be his life-employment, without the advantages of an education especially fitting him for the Christian ministry, and yet with the business tact and knowledge of men and things that made him not only a successful minister, but such an active worker in disseminating the literature of the Church as to largely supplement his meager salaries, and to enable him to give an accomplished education to his several children, Brother Thompson began his real life-work. Fully inducted into the office and work of the ministry, our brother labored on the following charges: Saranac and Redford, Westport, Morristown, Bristol, Moriah, Schoharie. For the sake of securing to his children an academic education, Mr. Thompson continued to reside at the last-named place for two more years, serving as agent of the American Bible Society. Resuming the itinerancy, he served at Whitehall, Peru, Wilton, Charlton, Fair Haven, Warrensburgh Charge, Hartford, Greenfield. This brings our notice down to 1866, when Brother Thompson took the relation of a superannuate and settled at Saratoga, where he resided until his decease. As opportunity offered he was attentive, during his superannuation, to the means of grace, and he rendered himself useful in the Church and community. At his decease he left a wife and four children. For at least the last three years of his life he had been under medical treatment, and during the closing year he was confined to his house. But he came to the great translation thoughtfully, calmly, and Christianly resigned. Conscious to the last, he bade his family farewell, and gave strong and comforting assurances of dying in the Lord. The portraiture of the character and life of our brother consists of a zeal in all he did; strong sympathy, that made his labors touchingly effective; heroism, shown in his fidelity to duty to the Church and in his family; and a cheerfulness that threw the radiance of friendliness and hope over all his active and social life. A faithful filling up of these outline traits would give us a character and life worthy the imitation of his family and of his brethren in the ministry.

4. WILLIAM W. ATWATER was born in Burlington, Vt., Feb. 15, 1814, and died in his native city August 3, 1878. He was converted in the spring of 1832; received license as an exhorter in January, 1841, and as local preacher in June of the same year. In 1842 he joined the Troy Conference. He was married Dec. 12, same year, to Miss Eliza Barnes, who survived him but a few months, her death taking place April 29, 1879. An only son (Professor W. O. Atwater, of Wesleyan University) and a daughter remain. In 1850 Brother Atwater took a location and returned to Burlington. Here he built a home, and being a practical printer, published a Vermont Directory, and for a time, also, the "Vermont Courier," newspaper. During his location he supplied Sabbath appointments in Williston, Shelburne, Charlotte, and other places adjacent to his residence. In 1856 he was re-admitted, and served in the pastorate until 1871, when he was appointed Secretary of the Vermont State Temperance Society, which position he held until his decease. From this time he made his home permanently in Burlington, where in 1872 he commenced the publication of the "Vermont Witness," a temperance paper of considerable influence, and respectable circulation in the State. Possessed of an iron constitution, and a total stranger to pain or sickness, he was suddenly prostrated nearly two years since, by the first shock of what proved to be his final illness. His disease was unusual, complicated, and toward the close of his life extremely painful in its character. But in those months of suffering there was compressed a volume of rich and precious experience, and when the final summons came our friend was ready. To the writer he said: "I am thankful I have been allowed to do something for the right in my time. I can see many deficiencies, but I feel that the blood and righteousness of Christ covers them all."

Brother Atwater was a man of ceaseless activity and industry. He had a passion for work. He literally "spared not himself." He was honest, fearless, pronounced, persistent. These qualities displayed during his ministerial life, became still more conspicuous, as witnessed in his relations to the temperance reform movements of his State. No matter who else might flinch, he was the same resolute, determined, and relentless foe, whom the violators of law disliked, feared, but respected. He had the courage of his convictions. In his last hours it afforded him supreme gratification that he had been permitted to take a prominent part in placing upon the statues of Vermont, what is popularly known as the "Nuisance Law" of that State. Working unremittingly according to his measure, compelling the oft-repeated tributes even of his enemies to his personal integrity and honesty, he has passed away, a servant approved of heaven, and whose unfaltering devotion to moral principle is worthy the emulation of all survivors.

5. EDWARD TURNER died at Tomhannock, N. Y., Nov. 30, 1878, aged 47. A native of old England, and belonging to a Wesleyan family, he was converted to God at an early age. While yet a youth he emigrated to the New World. Empty-handed, but with a brave heart, he took hold of what first presented as the means of independence, and to secure that better education of which he sorely felt the need, he entered Fort Edward Institute in December, 1854, remaining three years, being absent only while teaching winter schools. Already, while toiling on a farm up among the mountains, he had heard the voice of the Lord calling to him, "Son, go work in my vineyard." Not conferring with flesh and blood, he had listened and obeyed, and that was why he was a student at the institute. In the summer vacation of 1856, far up among the sources of the Hudson, on the very edge of the primeval forest, was he earning the means to go on with his studies. Building better than he knew, he was laying deep and strong the foundations of a character, that, like a goodly rampart, should resist the assaults of an untoward generation. Despite his early deficiencies and his interruptions to grapple with poverty, he made rapid progress in his studies. In diligence and devotion he had no superior; he became a man of thorough and reliable information, especially in the field of his high calling, a judicious and safe counselor and guide in the way of eternal life, a workman needing not to be ashamed. In 1857 he supplied Schroon under the presiding elder, joining Troy Conference as a probationer in 1858. He was ordained Deacon in 1860, and Elder in 1862. His appointments in the Conference were Stony Creek, Malta, Edenburgh, Jay, West Chazy, Peru, Willsborough, Moriah, and Tomhannock.

His preaching was without ambiguity, forcible, scriptural, full of Christ and of practical righteousness. It was attended with a certain characteristic dignity and solemnity, and was never lacking in that pre-eminently convincing evidence of the divine call and the divine presence, a glowing earnestness, and an apparent unction. Some years ago he was able to revisit his native England. He lingered, however, but a few hours around the home of his childhood, in order that by economy of time and money he might be able to push on his journey to Palestine, and get his soul newly inspired by personal contact with the sacred places where God incarnate had walked and talked with men. He felt himself, and so, doubtless, did his people, that his subsequent ministry was richer and broader for this experience of travel. Measured by any fine standard, the career of our brother, cut short though it has been by death, while scarcely at the meridian of his usefulness, must be acknowleged to have been notably worthy and successful. For twenty-one years he labored in ten charges, stretching over the wide sweep of five counties in our Conference, and in nearly, if not all, of these appointments the fruit of his faithful and godly labors remain in the persons of living witnesses to the power of Christ to save from sin. But the grandest outcome of Brother Turner's career was, perhaps, his own strong, manly, and symmetrical Christian character. He had the ability to promptly reach a conclusion in the face of the truth, and to act upon it; a brave and hopeful spirit, making the best of every thing until he could make it better; a conscientious fidelity to principle and duty, not debating, but doing; an individual persistency in pursuing his objects; a transparent candor and sincerity which shone alike in his face and his life; a sweet and patient charity, and a deep reverence for and a devotion to his high calling. He was pre-eminently a man of one work. At Tomhannock, his latest charge, he greatly endeared himself to the people, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all classes in the community. Months after it became obvious to others that he must get rest or that he could not last to the year's end, he still kept up the full measure of his accustomed services, not even intermitting his Sunday noon Bible-class. Pale and thin by his wasting disease, he kept on preaching, literally a dying man to dying men. His voice failing, he took his last stand for Christ at the parsonage, seeming to have hung the banner of his Master from its roof. He had the doors open to all comers, that he might teach his people how to die. "I expected," said he, "that Christ would be my support when death approached. Well, I had no idea that he would so fill my soul with love and joy." His faith and fervor shone more and more brightly, until he ceased at once to work and live.

6. ELISHA WATSON was born in Middletown, Saratoga Co., N. Y., February 15, 1822, and died in Schenectady, N. Y., January 11, 1879, aged fifty-seven years. He was converted on the Greenfield Circuit in 1842, and immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after he received license to exhort, and subsequently as a local preacher. In 1843 he was united in marriage to Miss Harriet Huested, who, during his entire ministry, shared patiently with her husband the toils and burdens of the itinerancy. In the spring of 1846 he was received on trial in the Troy Conference, and appointed to the Brunswick Circuit; thence to Saranac Mission, Saranac, Mooers, Seward, Knox, Arbor Hill, (Albany,) Seward again, Gloversville, Plattsburgh, Amsterdam, Jonesville, Saratoga District, Greenwich, and Burlington District. At the close of his presiding eldership on Saratoga District his brethren honored him in sending him as one of the delegates to the General Conference. Before one year had expired on the Burlington District his health failed, and he was compelled to give up all active ministerial work. At the Conference of 1876, amid expressions of regret and brotherly interest, he asked for and received a superannuated relation. He then removed his family to Greenwich, where they were invited by many friends, who sought to make his days of affliction bright with pleasant words and kind deeds.

Brother Watson was a man of many excellent qualities. Clear in thought, logical in statement, conversational and illustrative in delivery, his sermons did a great deal of good. On several charges his labors were blessed with precious results. On Seward Charge not less than five hundred professed conversion, and several of his spiritual children are now preaching the Gospel. He had excellent administrative ability. He was outspoken on the subject of temperance. True in his friendships, he was decidedly a social man, and his piety was of the cheerful type. A good singer, his mind full of incident, both amusing and instructive, the children of the families on his different charges always hailed his coming with delight. There are many families in this Conference who regarded his visits as a constant benediction. He had great love for the Gospel ministry, and during his sickness he frequently expressed a desire for recovery, so as to be able to take work in the effective ranks again, saying he would be delighted with some little place, without regard to salary, where he could preach Jesus and save souls. But this desire was not to be gratified. His work was done. While on his way to Ohio, for the purpose of consulting a physician, he was taken ill at the house of his son, in Schenectady, and in a few days he passed from the sufferings of earth to the rewards of heaven, with a shout of triumph upon his lips, saying, "To God, in the highest, be glory!" Thus passed away from our Conference membership another of those we cherished with a brother's love. We shall never mention his name without affectionate remembrance of a friendship death has interrupted, but which the grave can never sever. We shall meet again in the morning of eternity. "Until then, dear brother, until then, farewell!"

7. MATTHIAS LUDLUM was born in Newburgh, N. Y., and died in Fair Haven, Vt., March, 19, 1879, about sixty years old. While young he came with the family to New York, where he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was employed for a time as an engineer in the Methodist Book Concern, where he was caught in the machinery and received injuries that made him a cripple for life. Feeling that he was called to the work of the ministry, after much hesitancy, he entered upon it as a life work with becoming zeal and Christian fidelity. He was received into the Troy Conference in 1843. He occupied some of the prominent charges both in the Vermont and Troy Conferences with acceptability and profit to the people. His last charge was Winooski, Vt., where, in August, 1877, he was prostrated with paralysis, and after a few months he removed to Fair Haven, Vermont, where his sufferings ended, and he passed to his heavenly home, to dwell among the "spirits of just men made perfect."

Brother Ludlum suffered much from his extreme bashfulness, naturally retiring to the rear instead of coming up to the front, where his influence would have been felt far beyond what it was. He was a man of more than ordinary ability. His discourses were thoroughly studied, well arranged, clearly and impressively delivered. As a friend he was warm-hearted and confiding. His religious convictions were strong, his experience clear and satisfactory, and his piety deep. Though his trials and sore afflictions sometimes seemed to depress him, yet he was cheerful, and trusted in God for support here and salvation hereafter. He lived and died in the faith of the Gospel. When told by his companion that Jesus had come for him, he responded, "I am so glad," and gently passed away. His end was peace.

J. H. Hopkins, R. E. Sidebottom—2.

1. JOSEPH HAMILTON HOPKINS was born in Clarke County, Ind., Aug. 5, 1821. He removed with his parents in his early youth to Illinois, and settled near Lexington. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church in the fall of 1839, and was soon after licensed as a local preacher. He was admitted on trial into the Illinois Conference in 1842; was admitted into full connection and ordained Deacon in 1844, and Elder in 1846. When the Missouri Conference was reorganized and held its first session in connection with the Illinois Conference in 1848, Brother Hopkins then and there united with it, and was appointed to the Booneville Circuit. In 1849 he was appointed presiding elder of Osage, afterward Independence, District, and so continued till removed by constitutional limitation; in 1854 he was appointed to the Platte District, which he traveled four years under indescribable difficulties, but with unfaltering devotion to the cause of his divine Master. Very few men have displayed more moral heroism or made a grander record of unswerving fidelity to the cause of God, than did Brother Hopkins during his presidency on this district. It is not too much to say that his life was in peril during his entire term on the district. It was during these trying years that he was united in marriage with his now bereaved wife, who, it is proper to say, has, with courage and patience worthy of imitation, willingly shared with him in the trials and persecutions incident to the life of an itinerant Methodist preacher during the last quarter of a century of the eventful history of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Missouri. On the expiration of his time on the Platte District, he was appointed to the Saint Louis District, and labored on successfully and acceptably one year. It was then thought by the Bishop and his council that Brother Hopkins was the only man in the Conference peculiarly adapted in all respects to take the oversight of the work in the bounds of the Platte Purchase in its then perilous and distracted condition. He was accordingly appointed to the Saint Joseph District; here again he served the Church acceptably for four years. At the end of his term on Saint Joseph District Brother Hopkins went into the service of his country as chaplain in the army, and did good service. In 1864 he was appointed to Chillicothe Circuit, in the bounds of the Saint Joseph District. In 1865 the Chillicothe District was formed, and Brother Hopkins was appointed presiding elder of the new district. Here, as usual, his indomitable energy and zeal was manifested in bringing into organic shape the scattered material of which the Church then consisted. He served four years on this district. Next he was sent to Broadway Church, in Hannibal, where he remained two years. During his incumbency in this charge he succeeded in building the largest and best church edifice in the Conference. Next he was appointed to Hannibal District, and remained on it four years; then he was placed in charge of Plattsburgh for one year. Then appointed to Saint Joseph District again, where he labored with his accustomed zeal until the 25th day of January, 1879, when God said, "It is enough, come up higher."

It is evidence of the high esteem in which Brother Hopkins was held by his Conference, that he was elected five times as a delegate to the General Conference, namely, in 1852, 1856, 1860, 1868, and in 1872. He was a wise counselor, and always voted on all the great questions that threatened the peace, harmony, and stability of the Church on the side which time has shown to have been right. He died away from his earthly home, but he had a conscious realization of his title to a home in heaven. His death was peaceful, joyful, triumphant. He realized in his last hours the fullness of the blessings of that Gospel which he so long and so faithfully preached.

2. ROBINSON E. SIDEBOTTOM was born in Green County, Kentucky, April 12, 1809, and died February 23, 1879. He was converted in 1831, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1833, when he was licensed to exhort. In 1834 he was employed to travel and preach on the Livingston Charge until Conference. In the fall of 1834 he was received into the Kentucky Conference, and appointed to the Hickstone Circuit. His next charge was Danville, one year, and Burksville, one year. He was married in 1836, and appointed thereafter to the following charges: Hodsonville, two years; Danville, one year; Madison, two years; Germantown, three years; Glasgow, two years; Madison, two years; Minerva, two years; and Flemingsburgh, one year. He located in 1835, and removed to Missouri in 1857 and settled in Linn County. Subsequently, joining the Missouri Conference, he labored on the Laclede, Meadville, and Linneus Charges, until 1867, when he took a superannuated relation. Although superannuated, he labored almost constantly, when able, until his sudden death. Just two weeks before he died he preached his last sermon at Meadville, Mo. on February 9, 1879. His text was Matt. vi, 9, 10. During the class-meeting which followed he got very happy, and stated to the class that he felt strong enough to preach another sermon. He accompanied the pastor to the District Conference, held at Laclede, Mo., February 6, 1879. On the way, traveling some six or seven miles in the buggy, his theme was the religion of Christ. He said, "I am growing stronger in the Lord every day. Though the outer man perish, yet the inner man is renewed day by day." He was a faithful, able, energetic preacher, and greatly beloved by his family and all who knew him.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?
Abraham D. Merrill, Isaac Jennison, Phineas Crandall, Bartholomew Otheman—4.

1. ABRAHAM D. MERRILL was born in Salem, N. H., March 7, 1796. His parents were Major Joshua and Mehetabel Dow Merrill. He had as good an education as was afforded in those days to children of the most respectable classes. His young life was passed with his parents at the old homestead farm, which had long been in the family, and is at the present time. He was married in 1816, and was settled upon a farm adjoining the homestead, which was given him by his father. The seriousness of his wife's mind had some effect to restrain him from the habits of amusement so common in his neighborhood, and her efforts to incite him to religious matters were unceasing, though she was not a professor of religion at that time. In 1820 he became seriously disposed, and there being at that time a powerful revival in the northerly part of the town, some three miles from his residence, he was much interested in the meetings, and at one of them, Nov. 19, 1820, became conscious of God's approval. He immediately began to speak of the wonderful work that God had wrought in his heart. So great was the change, he desired that all his relatives and friends should know of it. He first visited his father and mother, and told them of the glorious change he had experienced, and exhorted them to become partakers with him of the same grace. He then took his horse and rode from ten to twenty miles, publishing to all, as he went, what God had done for him. In almost a miraculous manner he was convinced of his duty to preach; and he concluded to avail himself of every facility to improve his mind, and to make arrangements to prosecute biblical study. He was not long allowed to rest from public religious services; and was finally obliged to abandon consecutive study, for he was invited and urged to preach, not only in the neighborhood, but in the school-houses of the town, and also in other towns of the county. His name was presented to the New England Annual Conference in 1822, and he was received on trial, and appointed to Landaff Circuit, N. H.; and there for forty years, with scarcely an interruption, he served the Church in the following fields of labor: Unity, Wethersfield, Barnard, Barre, Needham, Duxbury, Lynn Common, North Boston, Needham and Weston, Lowell, Springfield, Andover and North Reading, Marblehead, West Providence, Webster; Lowell, Worthen-street; Springfield, Wesley Chapel; Boston, Church-street; Lynn, Wood End; Cambridge, Harvard-street; Medford, Salem; Lynn, Maple-street; East Cambridge, superannuated one year, Chelsea, Mount Bellingham, superannuated one year, Melrose, Topefield, superannuated one year, supernumerary one year, and superannuated from 1865 to 1878.

About April 1, 1878, he was attacked with pneumonia. His powerful vitality resisted the disease, and in a little over a week he was convalescent. The disease left him feeble in body, but peaceful and serene in mind. He said to one of his sons: "I would not turn my hand to live or die; I submit to God's will." From some accidental exposure he suffered a relapse of the disease, and it became a question of serious doubt as to its termination. A few days sufficed to convince his wife and children that he could not recover. He had possession of his senses till within a few hours of his decease. The physician who had so faithfully attended him was summoned to his bedside, and, in the presence of his family, told him he could not live but a few hours. He reached out his hand, and, taking that of the physician, said to him, "Doctor, I am satisfied with your administration in my case; I die at peace with God and all mankind." At nine o'clock P.M., April 29, he passed away.

2. ISAAC JENNISON was born in the town of Natick, Mass., March 28, 1790. He was born ten years before the first session proper of the New England Conference. In 1806, when he was sixteen years old, he, with three other young men about his own age—Tyler Harrington, Isaac Fish, and Joel Pierce—were attracted by curiosity to go to a Methodist prayer-meeting held in a private house in the edge of Weston, on the evening of the 22d of June, and were all deeply convicted of their need of a Saviour. After others had prayed, and Jennison had prayed for himself without obtaining an evidence of his acceptance with God, he said to those present, "If salvation is for me, I am not going to leave this house till I have found it." He wept, and sought earnestly God's forgiving grace, till, just as the old clock struck eleven, God spoke pardon to his soul, and filled his heart unutterably full of his love. He used to say in relating his experience, (which he frequently did,) "I was converted on the evening of the 22d of June, and as that is the shortest night in the year, so it was to me the shortest and happiest night I had ever seen." All four of the young men from Natick were converted that night, or about that time, and all engaged at once in exhorting the people, and telling what God had done for them, and as a result a precious work of grace followed in that community. These young men worked together so harmoniously and successfully that they were styled by their worldly friends the "four apostles." Jennison and Harrington were soon licensed to exhort, and in due time to preach as local preachers. To the labors of these two men may be attributed largely the organization of the old Needham Circuit. Isaac Jennison joined the New England Conference in 1818. His appointments were as follows: Somerset and Mansfield, Malden, Barnstable, Scituate, Duxbury, Norwich, Wilbraham, Brookfield, Needham, Dudley, Needham without appointment, Needham. In 1836 he located, and continued in that relation till 1841, when he was re-admitted and stationed at Saxonville, Natick and Needham; and in 1842 at Hopkintown. In 1843 he located again, and continued so till 1858, when he was re-admitted and given a supernumerary relation, which was continued till 1861, when his relation was changed to that of superannuate, which relation he sustained to the time of his death.

Father Jennison was twice married; first, to a Miss Felch, of Natick, in 1814; she died in 1847. In 1848 he married a Mrs. Osgood, who survives him. He leaves three sons, two of whom are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Natick. After years of feebleness, increasing with age, he came to life's close, not with anxiety, but with full assurance, and calmly sank to rest Sept. 13, 1878, in his 89th year. He had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for over seventy-two years. The earnest, expressive face had grown thin and was full of furrows, but upon it was the look of one who sleeps in Jesus.

Father Jennison had his peculiarities, and in referring to these we cannot do better than by an extract from "Zion's Herald," written by one who knew him well, and who has presented the good man in his true light: "Our brother had a clear and blessed apprehension of his relation to the great atoning sacrifice, and humble trust in the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour brought him abiding peace. He had a high ideal in regard to those who held relationship to the Church. Doubtless it had been formed in those days of simplicity when great plainness of dress and modes of worship characterized the denomination. Many felt the good old man was old-fashioned and behind the times; but he had adopted, with both head and heart, the customs of those happy days, and he was ever loyal to that early preference. He had the rare courage, in the face of opposition, to exhort, rebuke, or denounce. A gentle word would often sway him, but he who drew his blade on the old man would soon find himself confronted by a foeman worthy of his steel. He believed in the tradition of the fathers, and was, perhaps, at times too inflexible; but this granite will, if inconvenient sometimes, is one of the grandest elements in human history and in human souls. What Father Jennison deemed wrong, in the Church or out of it, he rebuked with flashing eye and tempest voice. He was earnest to gather sheaves for his Master, and would sometimes censure that faith that did not constantly reap. He was not one who would be styled a great preacher, but there are few who could give upon the spur of a moment a more appropriate or moving exhortation than he. We shall miss Father Jennison from our Conference and our camp-meetings which he so richly enjoyed; but he has gone, we trust, to the company of the pure and the holy, and now rests in the bosom of Jesus."

3. PHINEAS CRANDALL was born in Montville, Conn., Sept. 12, 1793, and died in Moosup, Conn., Nov. 5, 1878, aged eighty-five. He was converted in Hopkinton, R. I., when about twenty years of age, and in the following year united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Waterford, Conn. He was licensed as an exhorter in 1817, and as a local preacher in 1818. This license was renewed in New York city in 1819, whence he entered Ashburnham Circuit under Presiding Elder Erastus Otis. In 1820 he joined the Conference, and was appointed to Stanstead and Saint Francis, Canada, and was subsequently appointed to Dansville, Vt., New Market, Nantucket, Portland, Gorham, Kennebunk, Gardner, and Readfield. In 1829-31 he was located, and in 1832 appointed to Bridgewater, Mass., and subsequently at Andover and Bradford, Newburyport, Dorchester, New Bedford, and Fall River, Worcester District, Millbury, Lynn, Wood End, Salem, Boston District, Worcester District. In 1854 he received a supernumerary relation, and in 1856 became superannuated. After retiring from full work he labored in the ministry to the extent of his ability and with acceptability and usefulness.

In his death the New England Conference has lost one of its oldest and most honored members. For fifty-eight years in the ministry, he was greatly esteemed and beloved. He was an able preacher and theologian, always ready to defend the truth when assailed, and a faithful, devoted minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. His Christian character was not of the demonstrative type, but possessed those Christian elements which gave it great beauty and completeness. He was a diligent student, and his knowledge was varied and extensive. In all his relations to the Church, and in the discharge of all his official duties, he was sincere and faithful; firm in what he considered duty, and unwavering in his purpose to do what he believed to be right. His friendships were true and constant; his manner simple and unassuming; and his attachment to the Church strong and abiding. He was charitable, kind, and benevolent; genial, pleasant, and gentlemanly in social intercourse. He possessed great strength and firmness of character, and was loyal to both Church and nation. He was always hopeful for the future triumphs of truth, and broad and consistent in his views of plans and methods for saving the world. His judgment was sound, always commanding the respect and confidence of his brethren. The poor always found in him sympathy and a helping hand, and in the great anti-slavery struggle he stood nobly among the bold, fearless champions of the oppressed. That he stood with the immortal fourteen abolitionists in the General Conference of 1836 was ever after his joy, as it was also his pleasure to speak and work in successive Conferences, and to write much and speak ever for the slave until emancipation was proclaimed. He early entered the temperance movement, and assumed the editorship of the "Genius of Temperance," commenced at Hallowell, Me., in 1828, whence he transferred his base of operation to New York city, where he was associated with the late William Goodell, philanthropist, in similar editorial labors during the period of his location. Later in life he again became publisher and editor of a temperance paper at Worcester. But few of our members have left with a better record. He was three years Conference Secretary, delegate to the General Conferences of 1836-48, trustee of Wilbraham Academy, and of Park-street Church, Worcester, alderman of Worcester one term, and received numerous other tokens of consideration in social, civil, and ecclesiastical life.

His presence as presiding elder in Quarterly Conferences gave assurance at once of wise administration, and important Church property was secured. During his second term upon Worcester District the Sterling Camp-meeting was established under his counsel, which immediately gave new importance to the institution in the interior country, and became the model for permanently located meetings.

Brother Crandall was twice married—first to Miss Deborah B. Tinkham, in Jewett City, Conn., April 9, 1814, she dying March 3, 1864, at the age of sixty, greatly beloved; and second to Miss Martha G. Starkweather, of Moosup, May 16, 1865, who survives. One son, John N. Crandall, by whom are two granddaughters and two grandsons, also survives. He continued the devoted man of God that he ever had been till death, sharing in all the interests of Zion, interestal in his own Methodist Episcopal Church, and living in a continual state of preparation to meet God. Within the last two years his deafness became so great that he could not hear the preacher; so he remained at home, and each Sabbath would read two, and sometimes three, printed sermons. He was systematic in all his devotions, and had read the Bible through in course above fifty times. His bodily health was good generally, though his friends could see a gradual failing. He kept about, doing the chores upon his little place without assistance, and in the few days preceding his death seemed to be more than usually well. That day, after returning from the polls, he went out at five o'clock to take care of his cows, when, being absent a little longer than usual, his wife went out and found him lying on the stall floor with life extinct. Neighbors and physician were summoned, the latter pronouncing death instantaneous and caused by heart disease. "In the midst of life we are in death."

4. BARTHOLOMEW OTHEMAN was born in Boston, Mass., Sept. 19, 1795, and died in Duxbury, Mass., Jan. 25, 1879, aged 83 years. One month before his birth Jesse Lee laid the corner-stone of the first Methodist chapel in Boston. To it his father, Anthony—born at Salon, near Marseilles, Provence, France—was led by the personal invitation of Epaphras Kibby, in 1803, and converted. His mother died in 1802, when he was but seven years old. His father was again married in 1807, to Mrs. Susannah Clark Beales. From the date of this second marriage the home was a place for prayer and social worship, and its hospitalities were largely enjoyed by the preachers. Edward Otheman, an esteemed member of Conference, is offspring from this parentage—half brother of the deceased. The conversion of Bartholomew occurred in his father's house in 1813. He was seventeen years of age. Receiving license to preach, he opened his commission at Truro, Mass., Sept. 13, 1813, and was admitted on trial at the Conference at Durham, Maine, June 2, 1814. His appointments have been as follows: Wellfleet, Needham, Scituate, Needham, Poplin, Dorchester, Providence, Bath, Charlestown, Duxbury, Newbury, Newbury and Newburyport, Dover, Cambridge, Lynn Common, Newburyport, Springfield, Boston District, Providence District, Providence District, (Prov. Conf.;) New Bedford District, Sandwich District, Newport, Falmouth, New London District, Sandwich, Fair Haven, (New England Conference;) Spencer, Woburn and Burlington, Natick, Auburndale, Marblehead, supernumerary three years, Duxbury as supply, Ashdod in Duxbury as supply, preaching his last discourse early in the summer, sixty-four years from the beginning of his ministry—thirty-seven years as pastor in effective service, seventeen as presiding elder, and ten as supernumerary.

Brother Otheman married first, Sept. 24, 1816, Mrs. Mary Stickney Cartwright, of Wellfleet, daughter of Thomas Gross. Six children were born to the itinerants, of whom Bartholomew, of New Bedford, only survives. The eldest daughter, Margaret, was the first wife of the Rev. Dr. Abel Stevens. After nearly sixty years of wedded life the sacred union was broken, and the beloved wife was buried in his cemetery lot at Wellfleet, where now his earthly remains repose by her side. His second marriage was to Abby J. Hoxie, of Sandwich, in Feb., 1878, less than a year before his decease. The termination of his life was gradually approached, after prostration in the summer, through Sabbath service, from which he partially rallied in autumn, only to make more manifest that the vigor of his strong constitution was gone. His last attack was short and sudden. The hope of again serving his congregation had been cherished in weakness extreme, from real love of labor—"the ruling passion strong in death"—and it is probable that he was unaware of the nearness of the dissolution. To the Conference he wrote at its last session: "The life I am still living in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God." He had said in preaching at Truro, in June: "The religion of Christ is just as good and satisfying now as sixty-four years ago," when he first preached to the people then residing there. And now he has entered into his award.

Brother Otheman was a Christian gentleman, neat in person and apparel, of slight figure, dignified, resolute and brave in look and manner, self-reliant and self-helpful, quick in his discernment of the proprieties of place and occasion, confident in the way of conviction and duty, keen in his sensibilities, and strong in his attachments and aversions, honorable in all his dealings, ever ready with assistance in cases of need and suffering, and affable alike to all classes and grades of society, the geniality of his social intercourse winning the kindest regard and highest esteem of his neighbors. He loved and gloried in his work. He was an instructive and faithful preacher—scriptural, doctrinal, expository, evangelical, practical, clear, and forcible in statement—convincing in argument, earnest, and persuasive. His heart ever on fire with love for souls, his hearers were the burden of his solicitude, and they perceived that he had a message from God unto them. In his pastorates he was active in all departments of Church work; specially attentive to any part that lacked; saw and approved the good in Christians of every name. Rarely was there a field which was not more fruitful through his cultivation. In Providence and Newburyport the first churches were erected during his terms of service, and through his ministry many were converted and added to the Church. He was a model presiding elder, punctual and prompt, systematic and thorough in the line of discipline. He did much by example to improve the system, develop the power, and raise the tone of his own and of other districts. Official members turned out well for his Quarterly Conferences, especially if it was stormy. Written reports and accurate records were ever in order under his supervision. In passing from a district he gave his successor full information, and remarked to one, at least, that he usually spent two days in each appointment. His counsels were safe and reliable, and not unfrequently sought by chief ministers and officers, as well as by those under his guidance. He was a delegate to the General Conference of 1832, and reserve delegate to those of 1848 and 1852. Other honors were not wanting at many points in his lengthened service of the Church.

G. C. Beeks, F. A. Sale, T. M. Bell—3.

1. GREENBURY C. BEEKS died at Maitland, Orange County, Fla., October 23, 1878, aged seventy. He was born in Virginia, November 7, 1809, and joined the Church when but a boy. With his father he moved to Brookville, Indiana, when a youth; was early licensed to preach, and was received into the Indiana Conference in 1836. After a time, his health failing, he studied medicine, graduating at Indianapolis, and afterward at the Louisville (Ky.) Medical College. He practiced for a few years; yet, loving the ministry, he again entered the effective ranks of the itinerancy in 1856. He was stationed that year and the year following at Centerville, Indiana. From 1858 to 1860 he was presiding elder of Fort Wayne District, from which place he entered the army as chaplain, afterward as surgeon, where he served until he was brought home to Fort Wayne, as was supposed, to die. He measurably recovered, and removed from Fort Wayne to Battle Ground, Indiana, where he again practiced medicine for eight years. He then went to Texas in search of health, returned, and then went to Florida, whence he passed to his reward above. He was stricken insensible on the night of the 21st of October, and remained so until his death. He said to his friends the day before he was stricken down that he would not be with them long. He leaves a wife and four sons to mourn.

Brother Beeks was a man of method and system, believing that whatever was worth doing at all was worth doing well. As a preacher he was a man of mark, and was possessed of more than usual ability in his pulpit labors. As a man he was genial and companionable, and strongly attached to his brethren in the ministry.

2. FRANCIS ASBURY SALE was born near Xenia, O., June 7, 1816, and died in Marion, Ind., Feb. 12, 1879, aged nearly 63 years. He was the son of Rev. John Sale, whose memory is still fragrant as one of our powerful pioneer preachers, and who is said to have organized the first Methodist society in Cincinnati. Raised in the midst of such surroundings, Brother Sale was soundly converted to God when he was eleven years old. Though soon impressed that he was called to the ministry for a number of years he resisted these impressions; but, as they still continued, he yielded after mature consideration, and commenced his life-work. For twenty-eight years he did the work of a faithful itinerant minister, pointing sinners to the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." During this time he filled some of the best charges in the North Indiana Conference.

He was a man of strong convictions of duty, who ardently believed what he preached to others. His faith was strong, and hundreds of souls acknowledged him as their spiritual father, and were added to the Church under his ministry. He not only preached, but enjoyed, the blessing of perfect love. His sermons will long be remembered by those who were so happy as to hear him. He was able to continue in his abundant labors until almost the very last, for he was superannuated at the last session, only ten months before his death. During the few months of his superannuation he was very cheerful and happy, and was a sweet-spirited companion in the ministry. He still preached frequently in the town and in the country, and but a few weeks before his death he held a revival meeting, in which much good was done. As a superannuate, there was nothing sour or censorious about him, but he was kind and pleasant. His illness was of eight days' duration only, and he spent nearly all that time in conversation upon the interests of the Church and of the ministry. He died in the triumph of faith. He leaves a devoted companion, who had long shared all his toils and anxieties, and who, although in feeble health, is resigned to the will of God. Three sons mourn their loss. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

8. THOMAS M. BELL died Sept. 2, 1878, in Miami Co., Ind., after being in feeble health for many years. He was born July 4, 1832, in Pennsylvania, where he spent his youth. In early manhood he came to Indiana. At eighteen he was converted and joined our Church. Almost at the very first of his membership he was appointed a class leader. He was married to Miss Martha A. Piper, Nov. 8, 1854, at Terre Haute. Nine children blessed this union, four of whom died in early infancy, and five, with his widow, survive him. He worked at his trade until the breaking out of the civil war, when he enlisted and served three years. The exposures incident to the army laid the foundation of the disease which finally proved fatal. In the spring of 1869 he was admitted on trial in the North Indiana Conference. On account of his feeble health he was able to labor for six years only. His appointments were La Gro, Paw Paw, Akroh, Lincoln. In 1875 he took a superannuated relation. In spite of his distressing malady, he forced himself to go about, and to attend to the duties of his family and of the Church.

Prior to the last session of his Conference, he said to his pastor that he wanted to see his brethren once more, and, although very feeble, he attended the Conference, and enjoyed its sessions very much. About seven weeks before his death he dragged himself to the quarterly meeting, and attended every service. At the love-feast he spoke with deep emotion of his consolation in Christ, and expressed his conviction that it was the last meeting of the kind that he should ever enjoy. He was confined to his home for a few days only, and was able to sit up to the very last. Such remarks as could be understood during his last hours gave assurance that with him all was well. On the 2d of September, at night, God unloosed his weary soul.

Among his fellows he was honest and just; in the army, brave and true; in his family, loving and attentive; in the Church, watchful and devout; in the ministry, zealous and effective. One by one our brethren are exchanging labor for reward. May we rejoin them in the Church triumphant!

D. O. Edgerton, J. R. Moore, J. W. Jones, F. A. O'Farrell, A. Chapin—5.

1. Daniel O. Edgerton died at Ava, N. Y., June 22, 1878. He was born July 2, 1850. He was converted in the month of September, 1868, and soon after united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He steadily advanced in the divine life, and on June 17, 1870, he obtained the blessing of perfect love. In 1870 he received license to preach, and in February, 1871, was employed to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Rev. William Jerome, at Court-st. Church in Rome, N. Y. At the ensuing session of the Central New York Conference he was admitted on trial and appointed to Court-street Church, and in 1872 was re-appointed to the same charge. His pastorate was one of marked success. He was beloved by his Church and congregation, and his re-appointment for another year was greatly desired, but was prevented by the disciplinary rule of limitation. By the re-adjustment of Conference boundaries at the General Conference of 1872 he fell into the Northern New York Conference, and at its first session, held in Utica, N. Y., he was admitted into full connection, ordained deacon, and appointed to Jordanville, N. Y. On May 9, of this year, he was married to Miss Dollie Nisbit, daughter of Rev. Samuel Nisbit, of Lee, N. Y. In 1874 he was re-appointed to Jordanville. In this year he was prostrated by disease, which, in the judgment of physicians, was caused by severe mental exertion, and which finally terminated in partial paralysis. He was obliged to relinquish his charge, an event greatly regretted by his Church and congregation, who sincerely loved him. In 1875 he was granted a supernumerary relation, and the same relation was continued in 1876. In 1877 he was returned superannuated, and also in 1878.

Brother Edgerton was a young man of rare promise. He was eminently a child of nature, and when animated and inspired by the great themes of Gospel truth he would show power of eloquence rarely surpassed by the most eminent orators of the Church. His imagination was vivid, his fancy luxuriant, and he possessed the magnetic power of the true orator. As a Christian his piety was deep, earnest, and unaffected. He walked in the clear light of duty and of privilege, and rejoiced in the blessed experience that "the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin," and that his soul was filled with all the fullness of God. As a pastor he was diligent, earnest, faithful in his work, and successful in leading souls to Christ and building up the Church in the holy faith of the Gospel. During the most of his illness he was a great sufferer, yet he endured all with great patience and resignation. As he neared the close of life his soul was filled with holy triumph, and angels and heaven were very near. His last words were "Angels! angels! sing!"

Several weeks before his death he gave his last testimony in class-meeting as follows: "I stand on the platform waiting for the heavenly train, satchel in one hand, and ticket in the other. I know it will take me through, for it is stamped with the blood of Jesus." Just before he was stricken with paralysis, he said to his sorrowing wife, "I know that I am not going to live, heaven seems so much brighter and more real than ever before, and the plan of salvation is so clear. It is like starting on a journey. You see the city in the distance, then nearer, until it is in full view. So it is with heaven, grand and glorious. Many more things I would like to say but I am so weak. Do not weep for me when I am gone, but sing the doxology." Thus, with intellect clear as noonday, he passed to his heavenly home.

2. James R. Moore died at the Soldiers' Home, Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 8, 1879, aged 42 years. He was an only son of Rev. W. D. Moore, of this Conference. His childhood was one of rare beauty. His father says, "He was never guilty of an act of disobedience to his parents." When between five and six years of age he was happily converted at the family altar, and to the end of life walked with singular fidelity the path of duty, without a murmur at the roughness of some parts of the journey. Having graduated with honor from Fairfield Seminary in July, 1859, the following autumn he entered Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. The war coming on, he heard the call of patriotism. Many of his fellow-students enlisted. He had just commenced his junior year in college when he felt impelled to leave all and go to the front in defense of his country. He went out in the Thirteenth Connecticut Volunteers, served faithfully amid many dangers and hardships until, utterly broken in health, he was honorably discharged. After he returned home his health was partially restored. He was happily married to Miss Sarah P. Phelps, of Hopkinton, Saint Lawrence Co. In 1863 he united with the Black River Conference, in which he served faithfully seven years. In 1870, with the hope of benefit to his health, he was transferred to the Colorado Conference, where he remained four years, when he became hopelessly disabled by the disease contracted in the army. He returned east, suffering beyond description. In June last, with the hope of benefit from the treatment of experienced surgeons, he sought and obtained admission to the Soldiers' Home, where he lingered part of the time in great pain. The immediate cause of his death, as certified by the surgeon, was "exhaustion, the result of chronic rheumatism." He endured his sufferings with surprising patience and sweetness of spirit. His end was most glorious. A smile of heavenly radiance overspread the countenance of the dying hero, and shouts of exultation burst from his lips. The chaplain writes, "I never witnessed so grand a death."

Brother Moore was a diligent student, an instructive preacher, a kind husband. For the service of the Master, and from love to those who were so dear to him, he desired to live, but when it became evident that his work was done, there was perfect resignation to the divine will. All his letters to a brother minister, and those written to his dear companion, breathe the sweetest, fullest trust in the Saviour whom he served.

3. John W. Jones died at Chicago, Ill., Aug. 31, 1878, aged 81 years. He was born at Cefullys Gryddun, in the parish of Slanddeiniolen, Carnarvonshire, North Wales, in 1796. He was the eldest of nine children, only two of whom survive him—William, in Wales, and Rev. Erasmus W. Jones, of this Conference. His parents were among the first-fruits of early Methodism in Wales, and John gave his heart to God when quite young. When about eighteen years of age he went to Manchester, England, where he married. Some years later he returned and settled in Carnarvon. Here he remained in business until the year 1831, when he came to America. In New York city, where he settled, through his instrumentality, assisted by the late Samuel Watkins, David Roberts, and a few others, a small Welsh Methodist Episcopal Society was organized, holding its services in the old Forsyth-street Methodist Episcopal Church. It was with this little Church, in 1832, that Brother Jones began to preach. In 1834 he moved to Trenton, N. Y., and engaged in business. Up to this time his preaching had been in Welsh, but now he was led, by the advice of his brethren, to begin preaching in English. Such was his acceptability as a local preacher, and such were his convictions in regard to giving himself wholly to the work of the ministry, that he closed up his business, and removed to Cazenovia, to prepare himself more fully for the English work. Here he remained until 1836, when he was admitted to the Black River Conference on trial. During his connection with the Conference in the effective ranks, he served Steuben, Canisteo, Williamstown, Welsh Settlement, Welsh Mission, Newport, Boonville, Oriskany, and Trenton. For more than twenty-five years last past Brother Jones was unable to do effective service on account of physical disability; but his zeal and devotion in the Church of Christ, and especially in the social means of grace, never abated. He was a friend and help to the pastor and the Church wherever he resided. He buried the wife of his youth in Trenton in 1864. He afterward married again, and was called to part with his last wife while residing in Utica, in the summer of 1876. These were both noble women, and they contributed largely both to the happiness and usefulness of our departed brother.

In July last he went to Chicago on a visit, and it is feared the long journey and the extreme heat which followed shortened his life. His sickness was brief. His mind was calm and peaceful. If he was to die in this sickness, he said to his daughter, he was glad to be with her and have her care. He was all ready, having arranged his affairs both temporal and spiritual.

As a preacher Brother Jones possessed more than ordinary strength. He was clear, methodical, scriptural, and earnest. He was sound in doctrine, and practical in its application. He knew how to handle the word of God skillfully and effectively. As a Christian man he excelled. There was true nobility about him. He was faithful in all his relations among men. He was unobtrusive in his deportment, but he never assented to error nor excused sin through fear to confess his Master or defend the truth. As a man and a Christian he commanded respect wherever he was known. There was no other subject so welcome to his heart as the subject of religion. His presence was welcomed by the Church, either in the social meetings or in the public congregation. It seems a pity to spare such a man when there are so many who would improve society by leaving it. But God has taken him. A good man has fallen. He "rests from his labors." "How blest the righteous when he dies!"

4. Francis Asbury O'Farrell was born in Fabius, Onondaga County, N. Y., July 24, 1806, and died in Sterling, Cayuga County, N. Y., October 22, 1878. His childhood, from earliest recollection to the age of six years, was much given to sacred song, prayer, and religious exercises. He was daily in secret communion with God, and with great delight rejoiced in him. Then school and bad companions drew him away from this early piety, and not again until his twenty-fifth year was he reclaimed, and called to prepare for and preach the Gospel. Years of delay, mental struggle, financial conflict, passed before this call was entertained other than as a class-leader, steward, and local preacher, for ten years, in the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1851 he was admitted on trial into the Black River Conference, and for over twenty-five consecutive years he labored faithfully to publish the truth as it is in Jesus, and lead men up to the high plane of true, prompt, intelligent, and self-denying piety. By the change of Conference boundaries he was connected with Black River, Central New York, and Northern New York Conferences, his first charge being Central Square, his last Vermillion, only ten miles distant. By appointment he served the following charges: Central Square, Cleveland, Moira, Malone, Norfolk, Lawrence, Sackett's Harbor, Washingtonville, Governuer, Parishville, Depuyster, Oswego Center, Fair Haven, Hannibal, Jordanville, Cedar Lake, Starkville, and Vermillion. In his superannuated relation he resided at Sterling Center.

At Hannibal his wife died, and he was subsequently married to Miss Jane Cole, of Fair Haven, with whom he lived, and from whom he received, with grateful acknowledgments to God, most efficient help in his ministerial labors, and the most faithful and tender care in failing health and final sickness.

Brother O'Farrell was a man of strong and decided convictions, prompt action, frank expression, and unselfish purpose. What to him seemed right was more dear than all things else. From it he never swerved. He was a man of method. For years previous and subsequent to his entrance upon the ministry he was known to be the best teacher in sacred vocal music that part of the State in which he resided ever had, and he desired all action in Church and society to move with the same grand system of sacred harmony. He was a deep thinker, close reasoner, and skilled in the theology of his chosen Church, of which he was an able advocate and defender. As a preacher he was clear, sound, instructive, and convincing. His sermons, essays, and conversations were always plain and full of meaning. Among his brethren he was retiring and unobtrusive, never thrusting himself or his interests into unseemly frontage, but quietly and well meeting expectation in the trusts committed to him. The three years of his superannuation were years of great and varied suffering, especially the last. Continued sickness, in which his life was often despaired of, attended him, until, fully ripe as the "corn of God," and refined as the gold in his furnace, he came to life's closing hour. All through this he was sustained by grace, and in each season of suffering triumphed in his Redeemer. No regret at his ministerial work or doubt in his religious experience, but again and again crying out, "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith," and then, as if he saw it with more than mental vision, he would say, "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." To a brother minister, at a midnight interview just before death, he said, "Your work is before you; mine is finished. Be faithful. Jesus never forgets those who fight his battles." To another, as he took his hand for the last time, he said, "Farewell, brother, farewell;" and then, with an indescribable flash of the eye, and a tone of voice more a command to a battle charge than words of parting, he added, "Go on and prosper." Triumphant in the last hour, he passed to his eternal rest with the precious word "Jesus" lingering on his dying lips."

5. Almon Chapin left Sandy Creek for the courts of the Lord's house in heaven, about two o'clock Sabbath morning, Dec. 1, 1878. He was born Nov. 25, 1809, in Kirkland, Oneida Co., N. Y. His parents being devoted members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and his father a minister of the same Church; his earliest recollections were of the ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He could not recall the time when he was not the subject of serious impressions, the result of prayer, judicious counsel, and religious example of a devoted father and mother. The memory of those days to him were very precious. When about six years of age his father moved to Vernon, and remained there twelve years. Here Almon attended district school more or less, and at the age of nineteen he began teaching. At the age of sixteen Brother Chapin was converted, lived well for a time, but, not uniting with the Church, after a little time he backslid. Yet, by the good example and precepts of home culture he was kept from immorality. He regularly attended Church and worked in the Sunday-school. In December, 1833, at the age of twenty-four, he was married to Miss Lucina Sturdevant. In the fall of 1834 the Lord gave them a son, their first-born, who still lives. In 1835 he, with wife and son, settled on a farm in the town of Richland, Oswego County, expecting to make that his permanent home. In 1839, at a meeting held at Port Ontario, he was reclaimed, and he states that the next morning, after public declaration of his faith, by the aid of his good wife, the family altar was erected. He immediately joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the winter and spring of 1840 a grand revival, in which fully three hundred were converted, was held in Pulaski, Brother Chapin helping what he could in the same. In the summer of 1840 he was licensed as an exhorter. From that time, as an exhorter and local preacher, he continued to hold meetings frequently for about two years. In the spring of 1842 he let out his farm, and at the session of Black River Conference, held at Watertown, in July, he was employed by Rev. L. Whitcomb, presiding elder, to take charge of Colosse Circuit. About this time his daughter, about six years old, was so injured by being thrown from a carriage that she soon died. Mrs. Chapin, who witnessed the accident, was so prostrated by the shock that she never more than partially recovered her strength, and permanent debility and suffering ensued. In February, 1843, another daughter was given them, who still survives. On this first charge, during the first year he records two hundred and thirty joined on probation. He successively served with great acceptability Colosse, Palermo, Lysander, Wolcott, W. Oswego, Camden, Mexico, and many were added to the Church. In 1855 Brother Chapin took a superannuated relation and moved to Sandy Creek. In 1856, at the earnest request of the Church at Sandy Creek, he took an effective relation, and was appointed to Sandy Creek. Here he was pastor for three years, and at the end of that time, by his own request, he was put upon the superannuated list, which relation he sustained until his death. During those years about one hundred were added to the number of the faithful, many of whom are still pillars in the Church. After retiring from the regular work, he continued frequently to preach at different points for quite a number of years. A severe subsequent sickness, from which he barely recovered, left him with a permanent difficulty about the vocal organs, which rendered him unable to take part in the work of the ministry. This was a great trial to him. The subsequent years of his life were passed in business pursuits, with some degree of success, until the last year of his life, when he gave up all business, and rested in the home he and his children provided. In his diary he refers frequently, with great tenderness and affection, to his family. He says: "I rejoice to know that those God has given us and spared to us revere and love him, love and honor their parents, and in their turn are, with their life-companions, trying to lead their children in the way of life."

Brother Chapin was, at the last session of Conference, full of anxiety for the Church in Sandy Creek, and took great interest in having a new church edifice for the society. He remained intensely interested in this until the last of his mortal life. In his diary, Sunday, August 18, he says, "My soul longeth for the courts of the Lord's house;" Sunday, September 1, "Another week of suffering is past, and I am gradually nearing my final home—I am trusting, Lord, in thee;" Sunday, September 8, "Another lonely Sabbath; shall I ever again go up to the house of the Lord until I pass to the temple not made with hands?" November 17, with several of the brethren, he went to the house of the Lord, and enjoyed a communion season, which was his last on earth. From this time he rapidly declined, until he went to that heavenly home where our superannuated preachers, as well as young ministers, put on immortal vigor. Brother Chapin lived well. He was a good preacher, a kind pastor, a judicious counselor, and was greatly loved and cherished in his home. He died well, and now lives in heaven.

Christopher W. Lucas.

CHRISTOPHER W. LUCAS was born in Colleton County, S. C., on the "Round O," and at the time of his death was about thirty years of age. Soon after his conversion to God he felt called to the ministry, and was licensed as a local preacher. He joined the South Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1870, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Simpson, in 1871, under the Missionary Rule. He was a faithful worker for the Lord. He was first appointed to Walterborough C.H., where he built a church, there being none there previous to his appointment. He was ordained elder by Bishop Wiley, at Camden, in 1875, and appointed to Walterborough and Upper Ashepoo. Here he built a comfortable house of worship. His last appointment was Hickory Hill, where he fell, in full vigor of manhood, a victim to exposure and over-work, contending earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints. Just before he departed he called his family around his bed, and sang, "Safe in the arms of Jesus."

Eleazer Smith, Lyman E. Gordon, David M'Indoe.*—3.

1. ELEAZER SMITH was born in Marlow, N. H., March, 1802, and died in Concord, N. H., Feb., 1879, aged seventy-six years and ten months. Dedicated to God in infancy, he was baptized in the Congregational Church. Converted at the age of twenty-three, he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at Lyndon, Vt. From this period his mind was drawn toward the Gospel ministry as his life work. With him duty was law. The call of God was recognized and responded to from his inmost soul, and he entered upon a profession to which he consecrated all his powers, and continued faithfully therein for more than half a century. Never having had in early life the advantages of a thorough education, he conscientiously labored as a student that he might be the better fitted for the prosecution of his chosen work. His first sermon was from this text: "The goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance." And this was the key-note of all his subsequent life. The goodness of God constrained him, permeated his whole spiritual nature, and out of this grew a love for souls so ardent and intense, that his efforts for their salvation were crowned with abundant success. At that time, what is now the New Hampshire Conference, rich in membership and material prosperity, was but a feeble branch of the New England Conference. He was received on trial into this Conference at Lynn, Mass., in 1828. In 1830 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Hedding at Barre, Vt., and in 1832 was ordained elder by Bishop Roberts at Lyndon, Vt. During the term of his ministry, he filled in order the following appointments: Saint Johnsbury, Sutton and Burke, Lyndon, Danville, in Vermont; Portsmouth, Great Falls, Dover; Montpelier, Vt.;

* Obituary not received.

Chelsea, Vt., Claremont, Hanover, and Concord. From 1846 to 1855 he was chaplain to the New Hampshire State Prison. In 1855 he was stationed at Fisherville, and then went in succession to Epping, Salmon Falls, East Salisbury, Mass., Greenland, South . New Market, North Salem, Raymond, and Goffstown. From 1872 to 1877 he was again chaplain to the New Hampshire State Prison. In 1845 he was superannuated on account of ill health, but served as agent of the New Hampshire Bible Society. During his first term of service as chaplain to the State Prison, he wrote a book entitled "Nine Years among the Convicts," which passed through two editions, and had a large circulation. In 1848 he represented his Conference in the General Conference at Pittsburgh, Pa.

He was first married in 1825, to Miss Laura Nay, who left to him two children—a daughter, wife of Rev. A. J. Church, D.D., of the Providence Conference, and a son, bearing his own name and now living in the West. His second marriage was with Mrs. Laura R. Tebbetts, of Lowell, Mass., who survives him, with her two children, a son and a daughter.

Brother Smith was eminently a modest man; unassuming in manner, yet a genial, courteous, and dignified gentleman. With rare conversational powers, his presence was an attraction, and his harmonious, symmetrical life exhibited the graces of the profession he adorned. He was a good preacher; his sermons evinced much painstaking in their preparation, and were logical, thoughtful, spiritual; more than most preachers, he illustrated his subject with appropriate scriptural quotations. Every point was made luminous by some well-chosen text. His style was lucid and easy; his choice of words was chaste and scholarly, and his hearers were interested and instructed. As a citizen he was universally esteemed and beloved for his modesty and simplicity of manners and his purity of character. As a preacher he was earnest and faithful; as one has well said of him, "He was a loyal, royal Methodist minister, descended to us from the heroic age of our Church." For many years he had been in feeble health; but he labored on with a zeal and energy that triumphed over physical weakness.

His last sickness (pneumonia) was of short duration. From the first he was impressed that the time of his departure had come, and he was ready and anxious to hear the summons: "Child, thy Father calls; come home." Surrounded by his wife and children, with the song of victory sounding in his ear, he feebly uttered, "Jesus coming," and peacefully breathed his last.

2. LYMAN E. GORDON was born in Lawrence, Massachusetts. He died in Manchester, N. H., March 30, 1879, aged thirty-two years. He received an academic education at Newbury Seminary, at the time Professor S. E. Quimby was in charge of that institution, through whose instrumentality he was brought to Christ. Believing that he was called of God to the Christian ministry, he immediately consecrated himself to that work, and was admitted on trial into the New Hampshire Conference in April, 1871. In that same year he was married to Miss Mary L. Allen of Ferrisburgh, Vt., by whom he had four children; only one of whom—Anna E.—survives him. He was ordained deacon in 1873, and elder in 1875. He served with great acceptability and usefulness the following Churches: South Tamworth and North Sandwich, Milan, Fisherville, and Tabernacle Church in Manchester. How short, how busy, how successful a career! How full of promise, in the midst of life's great and holy warfare, and eager for its prosecution, but how suddenly fallen! His greatest victory, thank God, was his last, his victory over death. His faith stood the test of the last hour—the faith which allies one with God, and requires no recantation or amendment in death.

A deeply afflicted widow, an infant daughter, sorrowing parents, an only sister, an only brother, a stricken Church, a bereaved Conference, and a wide circle of beloved friends, are plunged into lamentation and mourning. It is seldom that such profound and wide-spread grief is manifested in the death of so young a minister. O may we each, through rich grace in our Lord Jesus Christ, when our life-work is done, be enabled to have a record as spotless, a death as peaceful and as triumphant!

Reuben Nelson, William N. Cobb, W. Wyatt, J. Pomeroy—4.

1. REUBEN NELSON was born in Andes, in the State of New York, Dec. 13, 1818, and passed away to his great reward Feb. 20, 1879, being at the time of his death in the sixty-first year of his age. While yet in life's bright morning, at the age of fifteen, he gave his heart to God, and his life to his Church, and all that life which followed was a projection of beautiful years of love and toil and triumph. At the age of seventeen he was made an exhorter, at eighteen a preacher, and the next few years were spent in the acquisition of such an education as he believed neccessary to make a pious young man useful to his fellow-men. At twenty-two he was received on trial in the Oneida Conference, preached one year on Otsego Circuit, and one on Westford, and during both of these years fulfilled also the duties of Principal of the Otsego Academy, at Cooperstown. In 1842 he was admitted into full connection in the Conference, ordained a deacon, and appointed Principal of the same academy.

In 1844 the Oneida Conference laid the foundations of Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, Pa., in the beautiful valley of Wyoming. Reuben Nelson was chosen its first principal—a fitting union of a man that must be successful, with an institution that was to make an illustrious history. With the exception of one year, during which he was presiding elder of the Wyoming District, he was principal of the Seminary for twenty-eight years, until called to a still more responsible trust.

In 1872 Dr. Nelson was elected agent of the Methodist Book Concern, in the city of New York, and also treasurer of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1876 he was re-elected to these same positions of trust, and continued, with eminent success, to discharge the duties thereof, until God was pleased to pronounce his earthly work completed, and to invite him to enter into possession of his inheritance above. And now we are left to gaze upward on the bright path he made to heaven, our sorrow alleviated by the single reflection that our irreparable loss is his inestimable gain.

Our concern with the history of our beloved brother begins more especially with the commencement of his public life. He was from the start an educator of the young. His success in his first institution, at Cooperstown, pointed to him as the man to take charge of the new institution in the Wyoming Valley already mentioned. It is a great work to build up an institution of learning, and make it as famous as he made the Wyoming Seminary. Such a work is enough to make one life distinguished; and the Wyoming Seminary will, for generations, remain a monument to the energy and influence of Reuben Nelson.

As an educator he had but few equals, and probably no superiors. He knew the definition of an education, and he also knew how an education is to be acquired. He had wonderful power to make his students love him. To make them good scholars was, of course, his great desire, but to win them to Christ was also his perpetual effort, and in multitudes of cases his great success. And while all men rejoice at the numbers that have been educated there, the thoughtful Christian will still more rejoice at the numbers that have been converted there.

Dr. Nelson's views of the religious truth were clear and evangelical, and his sympathetic nature gave him great advantage in urging those views upon the attention of men. His own Conference delighted to do him honor. For ten several years he was chosen secretary, and in five successive General Conferences he was a delegate from the Wyoming Conference. Dr. Nelson also had rare abilities for business, a circumstance uncommon among men whose lives, by solemn vows, are devoted to the ministry of the word. Whoever had business transactions with him found him prompt, correct, and competent; indeed, in this respect he was the peer of those who had been all their lives trained to business pursuits.

As a friend he was sympathetic and true, as a Christian he was consistent and faithful, as a member of this body he was a leader, and no other one, passing away, would have left as large a void.

It is fitting that the projector of such a life should sleep at last in the beautiful valley where his principal achievements were won, and rise at length amid its enchanting scenery to put on his immortality.

2. WILLIAM NEWELL COBB died at Harford, Pa., Aug. 3, 1878, aged 60. He was born in M'Lean, Tompkins Co., N. Y., July 15, 1818. Removed in his infancy to Dryden, a common school supplied him in childhood and youth with as much instruction as was usual in that day; but, evincing a taste and capacity for learning, he attended the Ithaca Academy. That he greatly profited by his connection with the academy is abundantly evident from all his subsequent history. Such was his knowledge of practical mathematics that he was engaged in civil engineering at the early age of eighteen: in this calling he acquitted himself so satisfactorily that he was employed some half dozen years in connection with the completion of the Genesee Valley Canal. Though dates are wanting, it must have been sometime during this period that he professed religion and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for in 1840 we find him filling the office of class-leader. Suffice it to say, his all was now laid upon God's altar, and his life unreservedly devoted to his blessed service. He was admitted on trial into the Genesee Conference in 1842, and appointed as junior preacher to the Belfast Circuit. During that conference year his father died, and as it was deemed needful for him to be near home, at least for a season, he obtained a transfer to the Oneida Conference. Having been admitted to full membership in that body, and ordained deacon in 1844, he felt himself at liberty to consummate a pending marriage contract with Miss Harriet Gress. This excellent Christian lady, after having enjoyed thirty-four years of unalloyed conjugal happiness, is now left alone; she certainly deserves well of the Church which she and her sainted husband served so long and with so much fidelity, and is earnestly commended to the sympathies and prayers of all good people. They were favored with three children, one son and two daughters.

During the thirty-six years Brother Cobb was connected with the itinerancy he served Belfast, Cayuga, Mentz, Dryden, Groton, Homer, Skaneateles, Asbury, Newfield, Ledyard; Ithaca, Seneca-street; Vernon, Clinton; Auburn, Hall-street; presiding elder of Chenango District, presiding elder of Otsego District; then as pastor at Athens and Sayre, Gibson and Harford.

In nearly all of these charges he remained his full disciplinary term, and in every place the people were satisfied with his pastoral fidelity. In the pulpit he was always sensible, logical, and eminently edifying. Thoughtful people who heard him were sure to be profited. He studied to show himself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. And he succeeded—God blessed him, and blessed those that heard him. He had abiding fruit, leaving his mark wherever he went. As presiding elder, he was faithful, discriminating, judicious, and generally successful.

Brother Cobb was several times secretary of his Conference, always acquitting himself in that office very satisfactorily. He represented the Oneida Conference at the Chicago General Conference, the session at which Oneida lost not only its designation, but a part of its territory: this latter was annexed to Wyoming, and with it came the subject of this memoir, as well as many other excellent brethren. From the preceding brief history a tolerable idea will, perhaps, be formed as to the estimation in which our late conference associate was generally held. Good man! he has entered into rest. May we follow him as he followed Christ. His health had been some time failing, but, notwithstanding his extreme debility, he toiled on until a few weeks before his death, when he surrendered his charge. This done, he directed his attention solely to what seemed appropriate to the close of his life. Himself calm and confiding, trusting implicitly in the great atonement, he tenderly advised his family, and all about, to hold themselves in a state of constant readiness to follow him to the world of the blessed. His death was a forcible comment on that beautiful scripture: "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace."

3. WILLIAM WYATT was born February 20, 1812, to use his own language, "amid the tall pines and uncultivated fields of Danby, Tompkins County, in the State of New York." His parents were poor, frugal, industrious, honest, and pious. They were the pioneers of Methodism in that then sparsely settled portion of the Empire State. His father was of English descent, and his mother was French. In him the hot, precipitate, stirring blood of the latter predominated; from her he took his type, physique, and vim.

From his Christian parents he early received religious culture, and under the paternal roof he received his first religious impressions. In his "Life" he says: "Thanks be to early Christian training that I am out of prison, and out of a drunkard's grave, and out of hell to-day." The good seed sown by his loving godly parents did not long remain dormant. It soon germinated, and brought forth fruit to the glory of God. In the month of June, 1824, in the thirteenth year of his age, at a camp-meeting held in the town of Lansing, Cayuga County, N. Y., he experienced the pardoning love of God. In speaking of his conversion he says: "The work was done—well done! so that in a half hundred years a doubt has never been entertained—saved, gloriously saved!" There and then he received his commission for his life-work. Who that was familiarly acquainted with Brother Wyatt could have any doubts as to his being a converted man? Nothing less than the grace of God could have kept his French blood in a state of equilibrium. With Paul he could say, "By the grace of God I am what I am."

In 1831, when nineteen years of age, Rev. Morgan Sherman gave him license to exhort. Immediately he made appointments for himself, and although the business of exhorting was new to him, he prayed and worked with all his might, and God gave him souls for his hire. At the age of twenty he was licensed to preach. On the 1st of August, 1833, he bade farewell to home and friends, and entered upon the arduous duties of an itinerant minister. His first field of labor was Slaterville. It was a large four weeks' circuit, containing ten or twelve appointments. In October, 1834, he was received as a probationer into the Oneida Conference, and appointed junior preacher to Greene Circuit. Brother Pearne, the father of Drs. W. H. and T. H. Pearne, was his colleague. Windsor Circuit was his next field of labor. During this conference year, namely, June 9, 1835, he was united in marriage to Mary Almena Reynolds, the daughter of Rev. Reuben Reynolds. Talented and estimable, she proved a "helpmeet" indeed, and very much of his success as a minister was unquestionably the result of her pious zeal and co-operation.

Our departed brother served the following charges in succession in the Oneida Conference: Slaterville, Barton, Speedsville, Canton. In 1842 he was transferred to the Black River Conference, and stationed at Adams. Watertown and Lowville were his next fields of labor. In June, 1847, he was retransferred to Oneida Conference, and stationed at Oxford. He was also stationed at Utica, Honesdale, Carbondale, Wilkesbarre, First Church; Wyoming and Honesdale Districts, Henry-street, Binghamton. While stationed at Binghamton he was appointed chaplain of the 109th Regiment of Infantry, New York. While in the army Brother Wyatt's health became so impaired that he took a superannuated relation to the Conference held in Carbondale, April 12, 1865, and continued in that relation until his decease. His ministerial life of forty-six years embraced thirty-two in the active and fourteen as superannuate. He was not idle, however, during his superannuation. He preached frequently, and served several important stations with great acceptability during that period. His last work was the preparation and publication of his "Life and Sermons," a book deeply interesting, instructive, and valuable as a portion of Methodist history. Brother Wyatt was not a scholar according to the standard of the schools. His early advantages for the acquiring of an education were extremely limited. Common schools, seminaries, and colleges did not dot the country as now. He states in his "Life" that he only received three months' instruction in a common school, advanced as far as the word "Baker" in Dilworth's "Spelling Book," and the "Rule of Three" direct, in Daboll's "Arithmetic." By industry and close application he however became a good English scholar, and was well read in English literature. During his chaplaincy he was asked by a young man—a fop—in the employ of the Christian Commission: "At what college were you educated, and where did you graduate?" He replied: "In my father's lower meadow, sir, one of the grandest institutions in the world!" Brother Wyatt was never ashamed of, nor did he ever disgrace, his Alma Mater. As a preacher he was sui generis. There was but one William Wyatt. Although not a genius, he was strikingly original, and he never lost his individuality. His sermons were written, elaborate, and thoroughly memorized. It is supposed that he could repeat a sermon without varying a single syllable. His style was eccentric and very impressive. His voice was clear and strong, and his enunciation distinct. He usually introduced his sermons with great deliberation, but as he proceeded his heart and intellect became enthused with his subject—"baptized with the Holy Ghost and with fire sent down from heaven." His sermons were arousements. Who that has ever heard him preach on "The Closet," "Jacob's Ladder," "Samson," "Stone Kingdom," "The Church in thy House," or "Can these Dry Bones Live?" can forget the impressions made by these discourses? But he has preached his last sermon, offered his last prayer, pronounced his last benediction, and entered into the joy of his Lord. The Church above has been enriched by the impoverishment of the Church below. When ministering angels announced the arrival of the redeemed spirit of Wyatt at the pearly gates of the New Jerusalem, we may well imagine that Doctors Nelson, Abbott, and Cobb would joyously greet the newly arrived, and, amid the purity and bliss of the heavenly, rapturously sing: "By faith we are come to our permanent home."

Brother Wyatt's life and ministry were, through the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, a grand success. To say that he was without infirmities would be to say that he was not mortal. "Take him for all in all," we may say he was a good man, and, like Enoch, walked with God, and he is not, for God hath taken him. On the last page of his "Life" he says: "We have the best of church privileges, with comfortable health and a good hope of the resurrection from the dead and life everlasting. As I sit in my pleasant home, with the foliage in its 'sere and yellow leaf,' with increasing infirmities pressing upon me, and look back upon the years of my life spent in the ministry, I could wish I had been a better man and brought more souls to Christ. Yet is it not enough that the servant be as his Lord?" A few months after these words were penned the summons came that called the "waiting" prophet from toil and suffering to triumphant reward. In the city of Albany, on the 19th day of March, 1879, on the tidal-wave of sacred song, the spirit of the weary yet victorious itinerant passed into the "unchangeable home of the soul." His remains were deposited by the graves of his loved ones on the banks of the Susquehanna, near the city of Wilkesbarre, Pa. There they await "the resurrection of the just." May the blessing of the great Head of the Church rest upon the surviving widow and children of our glorified brother!

4. Jesse Pomeroy, long a superannuated member, first of the Oneida Conference, and then of the Wyoming, died in Stephenson County, Ill., on the 14th day of September, 1878, aged 93. Though for some time blind, he waited in patience and submission the day of his departure, frequently expressing a desire to depart and be with Christ. Of the place of his nativity, and of most of his early history, we have been able to obtain little satisfactory information. He was received on trial in the New York Conference in 1822, and during his novitiate was appointed successively to the Delaware and Jefferson Circuits. Being then admitted to full membership in the Conference, he was appointed to the Sharon Circuit. At the General Conference of that year (1824) the Sharon Circuit was set off to the Genesee Conference, and, of course, the preacher in charge came with it, remaining in that circuit two years. The next two he was in Hartwick, the next two in Litchfield, and the next two in Vienna, then successively in Westmoreland, in Steuben, in Vienna, and in Cortland, each a single year, when he took a superannuated relation. This was in 1836; but the very next year he resumed an effective relation, and was again appointed to Cortland. This, however, terminated his effective labors among us: so that for forty-three years his name has remained in the list of superannuates. As a Methodist preacher Father Pomeroy really belonged to a former generation, only a few now having any recollection of his sermons. Some of us, however, remember distinctly not only the personal goodness and official fidelity by which he was so distinguished, but his faithfulness in the pulpit, which is better than brillancy. It will be seen that during the short time he performed effective work he was almost uniformly two years in the same charge—the then disciplinary limit—thus authorizing the inference that he stood well with the people. From our knowledge of the man, we cannot doubt that he maintained great purity of character and steadfastness of Christian principle to the last, and that he is now with the redeemed of the Lord in the heavenly temple.

It may be proper to add that his venerable companion, now about ninety-one, still remains with the living.

Bartholomew Weed.

Bartholomew Weed was born in Ridgefield, (now called Danbury,) Conn., March 6, 1793, and died in Newark, N. J., January 5, 1879. His parents were Congregationalists until his father's death, in 1800, when his mother became a Baptist, which Church he also joined in 1809, being then sixteen years of age. Two years afterward he joined the M. E. Church under the ministry of Rev. Seth Crowell, preacher in charge of Redding Circuit, Conn. In 1812 he was licensed to exhort, and shortly after began to hold meetings in Milford, Pa., where he then resided, and worked at the blacksmith's trade. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1815, and entered the traveling connection in the Philadelphia Conference in 1817, at the age of twenty-four. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts, in 1819, and elder by Bishop George in 1821. He filled during his active ministry the following appointments: Sussex and Hamburgh, Essex and Staten Island, Freehold, Trenton, Bergen, Staten Island, Pemberton, St. George's, Philadelphia, Kensington, Bridgeton, West Chester, Pa.; Western Church, Philadelphia; Galena, Ill.; Presiding Elder of Iowa District, Rock River Conference: Presiding Elder of Burlington District, same Conference; St. Louis, Haddonfield, N. J.; Bridgeton, Long Branch, Pemberton, Penn's Neck, Asbury, S. I.; Madison and Whippany, Newark City Mission, and Warren-street, Newark.

In 1864, at the expiration of his forty-seventh year in the effective ranks, he took a supernumerary relation at the Conference held in the city of Paterson. But his ministerial labors were not suspended on changing his relation. He preached at every opportunity, aided his brethren in protracted meetings, and visited the sick and afflicted, feeling still that the responsibility of souls was upon him. For the last eleven years of his life he was Chaplain of Essex County Jail, in which capacity he gave religious instruction to many who were sorely in need of it, including three who were hanged. His entire ministry, including the two years in the local ranks, extends over a term of sixty-four years; forty-four of these were given to New Jersey, and mostly within the territory of the Newark Conference.

In 1826 Anthony Atwood, then a young man, was his colleague on Bergen Circuit, and he speaks warmly of the fatherly interest Brother Weed took in him, especially exhorting him to keep himself unspotted from the world. In 1829–30, at St. George's, Philadelphia, he had as colleagues Manning Force, Levi Scott, and Anthony Atwood.

Many hardships and afflictions entered into the life experience of Father Weed, particularly in the early part of his ministry, with long distances to travel, small salaries, much of the time away from home, and sore bereavements. His first wife, a sister of Dr. Brunson, of the West, died while Brother Weed was the presiding elder of a large western district, and far from home. Having left her in health, to go to his distant appointments, he returned to find her dead and buried. But it pleased God to crown his subsequent years with the faithful companionship of a most estimable, intelligent, discreet, and brave-hearted Christian lady, who survives him, and with three excellent children, a son and two daughters, in whom he had only comfort, delight, and grateful pride; a family deeply sensible of the priceless legacy they receive of the counsels, character, and example of a father who was an honored, revered, and faithful minister of Christ. Brother Weed was a delegate from the Rock River Conference to the General Conference of 1844 in New York. His appointment to St. Louis, in 1845, grew out of his sympathy for brethren in that city, who requested to be served by a pastor not identified with the M. E. Church, South.

Father Weed was a Methodist of the old style; his early Christian life was among the fathers and pioneers of our connection. He was born only two years after Wesley's death, and while his spirit was still rife among his followers. He was a local preacher two years before the death of Bishop Asbury, and was, therefore, a living link between the first and the present generations of Methodists in this country. He was not sour nor censorious in respect to the present type of Christianity. Yet for himself he retained to the last a strong preference for the simple manners and plain dress of his early associates; he had also a special relish for the spirituality, earnestness, and warmth of devotion of the fathers. He saw neither room nor reason for any improvement or change in our doctrines, and so he steadfastly held and faithfully taught the entire scheme of truth laid down for the connection by its founder. He rejoiced particularly in the doctrine, and, we believe, in the experience of Christian holiness. He was a man of strong convictions. Who ever knew him to be on both sides of a question, or who ever doubted his position after he had stated it? Nor did he lack courage and ability to defend his convictions. The roots of his character grew in the fearless years of the heroes of the Revolution and of Methodism. But he was magnanimous, and allowed others to hold their opinions, however diverse from his own, without losing his friendship. He had a delicate sense of propriety; any thing out of taste or place or time grated harshly on his feelings, when he might be seen to shake his head and shrug his shoulders with disapprobation. When dictating the arrangements for his funeral, which he did to the last detail, he said: "Public funerals are often a bore, by reason of their great length; do not continue mine until the people are weary."

Father Weed closed his life amid the comforts of his own home and the gentle ministries of his loving family. The last sermon he heard was in Central Church, Newark, on the morning of October 27, from the text, "Because I live ye shall live also." The last time he preached was at the jail on the afternoon of the third of November from the words, "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation."

Then for the last nine weeks of his life Providence shut him in doors that he might set his house in order, because he should die. There were no contrasts between his life and its close. In his illness the persistency of spiritual qualities and habits was illustrated. The passions and principles of his life were dominant in death.

His love for the Bible amounted to a passion; he sought to live by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. The holy book was to him the university of all essential knowledge, and to the end he was an ardent scholar. Perhaps the greatest passion of his life was preaching: he preached well, never entered the pulpit unprepared, and was always listened to with interest and profit. His manner was to state his leading points clearly and calmly, but he always warmed as he went on, and closed with appeals which were pointed, pathetic, and powerful. Though in his seventy-second year when he became supernumerary, he often afterward regretted that he had left the effective ranks so early; his sermon before the Conference last spring, at the close of the sixty-first year of his ministry, was listened to and is remembered now with much interest and appreciation. When the physician told him at the beginning of his last illness that his work was probably done he burst into tears, exclaiming passionately, "What! am I never to preach the Gospel any more?" It has been well said that, "It was harder for him to stop preaching than it was to die." Father Weed had a habit, especially in his later years, of blessing people. Hundreds of men and women scattered over the land remember how, when they were children, this holy man laid his hands on their heads in sacred benediction, and they who received his patriarchial blessing with the imposition of hands felt a twofold spell of love and sanctity. The dear affectionate old man blessed every body who came near him in his last sickness. And when he supposed he was finally parting with his physician and pastor he tremblingly lifted his wasted hands to their heads and pronounced upon them his last consecration and good-bye. He had also an intensifying passion for prayer. When no longer able to kneel he would conduct the household worship leaning on his staff, and continued this when he was so weak that he would sink into sudden unconsciousness in the midst of his prayer; and when his family sprang to see if he were dead he would resume his prayer at the first return of consciousness. The last night of his life, in the very hour and article of death, he summoned all to kneel around his bed, and with clasped hands led, with his dying breath, the family prayer. The final ministerial act of his life made a most impressive scene. It was the baptism of two grandsons and one grandnephew. All that December day he was elate with the prospect of one more deed of service, and seemed anxious lest he should die before the hour came. The veteran minister rose from his death-bed, had himself dressed as if for the pulpit, and, rallying by force of will all his remaining strength, tottered into the front chamber where the three babes were waiting. All knew, and he was conscious, that this was the closing act of a ministry of sixty-four years. His dim eye seemed to burn with the last glow of energy as, leaning heavily upon his staff, he placed his trembling hand on the little heads, giving to one of them his own name. When it was done he sank into a chair and talked. "I did not expect to be here so long," he said; "now I am only waiting on the shore; but there is no alarm, I find firm footing." He was helped to his bed, from which he rose no more, and a week later he peacefully passed into the heavens as the Sabbath was dawning.

1. J. M. WORCESTER was born in Boston, Mass., June 14, 1826, and died in Griswold, Conn., May 30, 1878. He was too young when his father died to have any remembrance of him; but his mother, a faithful, earnest member of the Baptist Church, kept him in the Sunday-school, and trained him to reverence God's word and day. He manifested a love for books and desire for knowledge at an early age; and was easily persuaded to toil, save his scanty earnings, and thus avail himself of advantages for education. When fifteen years of age, while at Wilbraham Academy, under the labors of Rev. C. Adams, he was persuaded to give his heart to the Saviour and became a practical Christian. The next year he was baptized, and received into the Church by the same pastor and at the same place. On leaving the academy he entered Union College. This he left for the purpose of completing his course at Harvard University, but was prevented by feeble health. He received an exhorter's license at North Bridgewater in October, 1846, and his first license to preach at the same place in March of the year following. Having been a candidate for holy orders in the Protestant Episcopal Church, he was for a time under the tuition of Drs. Croswell and Wells and Bishop Eastburn, thereby acquiring a good literary and theological preparation for the ministry.

Brother Worcester joined the Providence Conference on probation in 1848, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Morris in 1850, and elder by Bishop Waugh in 1852. His appointments were: Barnstable, East Greenwich, Taunton, First Church; Abington, Scituate Harbor, Cocheset, South Yarmouth, Sachem-street, Norwich; Colchester, Fairhaven, Plainfield, Warehouse Point, South Manchester, Mystic Bridge, Burnside, five years superannuated, Moodus, Gale's Ferry. From this time he was continued in a superannuated relation.

Brother Worcester was twice married. First, to Fannie Stuart, of Edgartown. She died in 1856, while he was stationed at Norwich. He afterward married Fannie Bentley of Norwich. She and her four daughters mourn his loss, and claim the sympathy and assistance of his associates and fellow-laborers. Never physically strong, yet hopeful and cheerful, Brother Worcester lived and toiled longer than could have been expected when he entered the ministry. In 1869, while in Washington, he received an accidental injury from which he never recovered. One year later, while stationed in Moodus, he was thrown from a horse and again disabled. These two injuries were the direct cause of the long, tedious suffering, which he endured from this time until death brought the desired release. The patience, peace, and restful security of his last earthly experiences were truly wonderful. Grace is indeed yet sufficient against the hot breath of the furnace. Slowly, steadily, and bravely he suffered, then deliberately and victoriously grappled with the last enemy, and Christ's strength was made perfect in the human weakness.

As a Christian, his convictions were deep, his faith firm and his hope irrepressible. In fact, the prominent characteristic of the man was a hope which seemed even from disaster to manufacture cheery expectations. As a preacher he was laborious and faithful. After thorough preparation by study and writing upon his themes he entered the pulpit, and modestly preached plain, instructive, systematic gospel sermons. A low estimate of his own productions, and a retiring disposition, kept him from prominence among his brethren. The results of his life and its labors cannot be expressed in a list of revivals or persons baptized. Earthly annals seldom record the seeds sown, though carefully counting and publishing the sheaves of the reapers. Heaven crowns faithful plowing and tearful sowing as well as joyous harvesting.

2. JOHN COOPER.—Early in the year 1842 the region of Woodstock, Conn., was the scene of one of those marvelous manifestations of religious interest and spiritual power which the fathers called "reformations." The Churches united in special revival meetings; and all classes became interested in the great subject of salvation, very many making a profession of faith. Among the remarkable conversions was that of John Cooper, a young man recently from Leeds, England, who had come to this country to engage in a special branch of woolen manufacture, with which he was familiar. He had married in October, 1841; and was now a partner in a manufacturing establishment just entering upon a prosperous career. He began at once to labor for the conversion of those around him. In July, 1842, he was received into full membership in the Church, and soon after began to hold meetings. In the following November he was licensed to exhort, and the gift thus recognized by the Church was faithfully used. After some months of careful reading, in connection with continued public labor, he was licensed to preach, May 9, 1843, and a month later was admitted to the Providence Conference. He entered upon his work with a Christian experience not eighteen months old, but real and rich. His mind was clear and vigorous, and he gave himself wholly to his divinely-appointed work. Probably no man for thirty-five years a member of our Conference has been so little known by his brethren. His freedom from every thing like self-assertion, and his singular reticence, kept him from the place he deserved in our esteem. With the exception of his excellent Conference sermon, at Warren, R. I., in 1873, few of us ever heard him preach. From the beginning of his ministry he was a diligent student. His means did not permit him to accumulate a very large library; but his books were well-selected, carefully read, and thoroughly digested. His labor was "not in vain in the Lord." It is true that he was not what is commonly called a great revivalist. But wherever John Cooper preached the Church "grew in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ." In all the communities where he labored he is remembered as a good preacher and a laborious and faithful pastor. His charges were as follows: Marlborough, Hopeville, Willimantic, Mystic, East Hampton, Uncasville, South Manchester, Norwich North, Nantucket, New Bedford, Elm-st.; North Bridgewater, East Weymouth, Provincetown, Wesley Chapel, West Thompson, East Hartford, (Hockanum,) Warehouse Point. In 1869 he was returned, after an absence of eleven years, to Mystic, where he remained three years. He went to Centerville, R. I., in 1872-73, the only years he spent in the State. After one year more at Eastham, Mass., he felt that he must reside where his children could have educational advantages. He therefore removed his family to Hartford, Conn., thenceforth supplying pulpits in the region of his home. At the Conference of 1878 he was appointed to Haddam Neck. There he found opportunities for usefulness which fired him with new zeal. His preaching was marked by even more than usual earnestness and unction, and made a deep impression. As far as possible he attended the social meetings and performed pastoral labor. The congregations increased, interest deepened, and his heart was cheered by tokens for good. One Sabbath in September his sermons were specially earnest and tender, evidently coming from a heart all on fire with a desire to do the people good. The impression was more than ordinarily profound. Little did preacher or hearers think that our brother was uttering his last messages. Yet, if the speaker had known it, he could scarcely have spoken more earnestly or appropriately. All that day he was troubled by what seemed a boil coming upon his shoulder. Returning on Monday to his home, he startled his wife by saying, "I am almost dead." Weeks of torture from a malignant carbuncle followed. His whole frame was shattered by the disease; but at length it yielded to treatment, and he began to rally. When he had so far recovered as to be able to sit up most of the time, the writer spent a half-hour with him. After a brief account of his sufferings, the burden of Brother Cooper's conversation was a recent precious experience of divine grace. During a night of great physical agony his life passed in review before him. Said he, "I could not find one act of my life worthy of the divine acceptance." After this overwhelming view of his own unworthiness came such a revelation of the glorious fullness of saving power in Christ Jesus as made his soul exult with joy unspeakable. His characteristic reserve was all gone, and with glowing words and tearful eyes he told of God's goodness so amazing. But the absorbing feeling was a desire to get back to his work, to tell of Jesus and his love as he had never done. For this we prayed as we lingered together. To this the stricken man looked forward with joyful anticipations. That interview was to me one of the bright and blessed events of a lifetime. Never will its impression be effaced. The presiding elder called upon him about the same time, and received a like testimony. A week later the invalid thought himself well enough to walk out in the street. He had slept well the night before, and his wife said, "Rest a little this morning, and go out this afternoon." Acting upon the suggestion, he retired to his room. A few minutes after his little daughter passed his door, and, hearing a groan, asked him if he wanted any thing. Alarmed that he did not reply, she called her mother, who found him unconscious. A few moments later "he was not, for God took him." The vision of "Jesus only," on the mount of transfiguration, was not to fit him for labor, but for translation. As was said of one similarly removed, "What a blessed surprise it must have been to him to find himself in heaven!" His death occurred October 18, 1878. His faithful wife is left to mourn, and to merit—and, it is hoped, to receive—from the ministry and the Church proofs of sympathy and regard. Eleven of his thirteen children survive him, four under sixteen years of age. Cherishing his memory as a beloved and faithful minister of the New Testament, the last lesson of his experience must come to us with great impressiveness. Surely we shall be more than ever determined not to know any thing among men save Jesus Christ and him crucified.

3. CHARLES HENRY TITUS was born in Monmouth, Kenebec Co., Me., April 11, 1819, and was the son of Samuel and Betsey Titus. He was converted at the age of seventeen years, in the place of his nativity, under the labors of Rev. Ezra Withey, by whom he was received on probation, baptized, and in due time received into full membership. We say "in due time," for it appears by the record that he was converted September 11, and received on probation the same month, baptized in October, and received into full communion the following March, showing that the promptness and order that characterized him in other relations were specially manifest in his religious life and duties, even in their very beginnings. He was educated at the Maine Wesleyan Seminary, Asbury University, Ind., where he graduated in 1842, under the presidency of Rev. Dr. (now Bishop) Simpson, and at the Bangor Theological Seminary. He was some time tutor of languages at Asbury University, and was subsequently principal of a seminary at Madison, Ind. On the evening of the day on which he graduated he was married, by President Simpson, to Miss Martha, daughter of Hon. William Dunn, of Maine, who, with a son and a daughter, still survives him. He received a license to preach at Bangor, Me., in 1839, and had used his gifts as a preacher, more or less, until 1844, when he was ordained deacon by Bishop Hedding, at the Maine Conference, in Bangor, the same place where he had received his license five years before. In 1847 he was ordained elder by Bishop Janes, at the Providence Conference, in Fall River, Mass. He joined the Maine Conference in 1844, and was stationed two years at Frankfort; and, having been advised to seek a somewhat milder climate on account of his health, he was transferred to the Providence Conference, and stationed successively at Pleasant-street, New Bedford; Woonsocket, R. I.; Edgartown, Mass.; East Weymouth, Taunton, Central Church, from which place he was appointed to the charge of Providence District, which position he occupied four years. He was then appointed to Warren, R. I.; Newport, Marlborough-street; Phenix, and the second time at Warren. The health of Brother Titus had become considerably impaired, and what was regarded as a providential opening now presented itself by his election to the secretaryship of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons in Massachusetts, an institution in which he was deeply interested, which office he filled with great ability and acceptance, as indicated by his unanimous re-election to the position eight successive times. At the Conference session in 1872 he was granted a superannuated relation, which he continued to sustain until called to the employments and beatitudes of heaven. There was no decline of interest in the welfare of the Conference on the part of our departed brother, nor of love for the brethren, simply because he had ceased to have an effective relation among us. This interest was shown in various ways. His effort, at a good deal of trouble and some expense, to collect and preserve copies of the "Annual Minutes" of the Conference, and which he had bound compactly and neatly and presented to the Conference, was a thoughtful act, which can hardly be too highly appreciated by us. It is not too much to say of Brother Titus that his mental endowments were of a high order, and he had acquired good literary culture that fitted him for much usefulness in many positions. He was one of the most modest and unpretentious men we ever knew, and was entirely devoid of all ambitious scheming and self-seeking. He was a Christian gentleman, and, if his devout spirit would not allow him to resent a wrong, no man ever felt one more keenly than he. His sickness was long, and at times distressing; but he bore all with true Christian resignation. He had much to attract and hold him here. His pleasant, cheerful home, and large circle of loved and loving friends, had almost inexpressible charms for a nature like his; but through grace he was enabled to part with them all without a murmur. To his intimate friends and his family he spoke of the solid foundations on which his faith rested, and his readiness to depart. In the midst of a season of great suffering he was heard to say, in a low tone, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." A few days before his death, after most touchingly imploring the blessing of God upon himself, he repeated the Apostles' Creed, and then said, "How glad I am that I have not waited until now to learn all these things!" When he could no longer speak, he pointed heavenward, as if to indicate his abiding faith and hope, and at a little past the meridian of October 29, 1878, wearied with the incessant struggle, he gently fell asleep in Jesus. Though absent from our fraternal gathering, he still lives with us in memory, the same pleasant, affable, Christian gentleman, and loving friend and brother. His voice, which is hushed to the music of earth, now swells the songs of the redeemed in the heavenly Zion. Thus, when our work is done, may we joyfully lay down the burden of life, and ascend to heavenly mansions and victorious crowns.

4. David Patten, D.D., died March 26, 1879, in Boston, the city in which he was born, October 10, 1810. He was of excellent Methodist parentage, his father, the late revered David Patten, from whom he inherited many of his best and most characteristic traits, having been for many years a leading member and officer of the Bromfield-street Church. At its altar he and Mrs. Patten were joined in marriage by the late Rev. Daniel Webb; and here David, Jun., was, in his infancy, consecrated to God in holy baptism by the same godly man. Amid the genial scenes and associations connected with this ancient church he grew to young manhood, and was molded for his life-work. He received his early education in the public schools of Boston, and from its high school was graduated as a "medal scholar." At this time he was offered a position which promised a successful career in mercantile pursuits; but, with his mind fixed on a collegiate education, he declined the offer, and entered the Wilbraham Academy, to complete his preparatory studies. There, in his eighteenth year, he was converted, as was at the same time his life-long friend, Osmon C. Baker, who was his room-mate both at Wilbraham and at college. Having been admitted to the Church by the Rev. Dr. Fisk, he was soon after licensed as an exhorter, and began to deliver discourses, which were marked by a tender and winning character, at the meetings of the students. In these early essays, as well as in his more mature labors, he was under the necessity of conquering a sensitive modesty and a retiring disposition, amounting almost to timidity. Yet he continued to obey the call, and to exercise his gifts, throughout his entire course of both preparatory and collegiate studies; and, in the villages around Middletown, persons still living remember the earnest and affectionate appeals, as well as the consecrated lives of the youthful exhorters and inseparable companions, Baker and Patten. In 1832 the Rev. George Coles, who was stationed at Hartford, having been appointed assistant editor of "The Christian Advocate," Mr. Patten was called to supply the vacant pulpit. There, from the hand of the Rev. Laban Clark, he received license to preach, and continued to supply till the end of the conference year. Also, during his last year in college, he preached in Providence, filling a vacancy at Power-street Church, occasioned by the illness of the Rev. C. K. True. Mr. Patten graduated at Wesleyan University in 1834, the valedictorian of his class, and was at once called to the principalship of Wilbraham Academy. He immediately entered upon the duties of that office, and in 1835 was admitted a probationer in the New England Conference. In regular succession he was advanced to the orders of deacon and of elder, on both occasions passing under the apostolic hands of Bishop Elijah Hedding. He successfully administered the office of principal seven years, winning and retaining the universal esteem of his associate teachers, of the trustees, students, and patrons of the institution, and molding, by his precepts and his example, the characters of many who have in turn well served society and the Church. At the expiration of this period, in 1841, he severed his connection with the academy to enter the pastoral office. The same year he was united in marriage with Miss Marcia A. Marcy, of Greenwich, Mass., who, with two sons, survives him. Becoming, by transfer, a member of Providence Conference, he was stationed in 1841 and 1842 at Providence, Chestnut-street, and subsequently at Nantucket; New Bedford, Elm-street; Fall River; Providence, Mathewson-street; Warren—two years in each place, except the last-named. At all these places his name is "as ointment poured forth." His gentle spirit, refined manners, warm sympathies, spiritual-mindedness, polished, instructive, and persuasive sermons, all combined to win the hearts of his people, and to leave in their minds impressions which time can hardly efface; and the influence of his words remains and is seen, not only in those who were brought to Christ through his efforts, but in the improved tone of religious thinking and living which prevails in the parishes which he served. "By it he, being dead, yet speaketh." In several of his fields of labor he was cheered by revivals, which greatly built up and strengthened the Churches, and in none did his labors fail of promoting the interests of the Church. At the close of one year's service, in 1852, he was appointed presiding elder of Providence District. He occupied this position three years, but before the end of the third year was elected professor of theology in the Biblical Institute, at Concord, New Hampshire, and entered on his new duties in the autumn of 1854. The intense interest which Mr. Patten had always cherished in the improved training of our ministry, was an important accession to his other qualifications for this position; and it led him to unceasing efforts to secure an enlarged endowment of the "school of the prophets," in order to insure its removal to Boston, and its establishment on an assured financial basis, as a department of Boston University. For this purpose he spent his vacations and every available hour in extensive travel and ceaseless toil, soliciting aid, appealing to laymen and to conferences; and, when he saw the school established in Boston, and opened under the presidency of Dr. Warren, he one day said to a friend, his face almost radiant with joy, "I feel like saying, with old Simeon, 'Now, Lord, lettest thou thy servant depart in peace; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation.'" He retained the chair of homiletics and pastoral theology in the University from its opening, in 1867, until 1873, when, on account of impaired health, he relinquished these labors, and became agent of the University and secretary of the Board of Trustees, devoting to its interests his unfailing love and unflagging zeal to the end. Dr. Patten's last illness was protracted, and for several months was attended with much suffering, but no complaint betrayed to others his distress. Once only, when spoken to about his difficulty of breathing, he replied, "So tired!" His wonted patience and thoughtfulness for others were as marked in sickness as in health, as was also his well-known reticence in regard to his personal experience. He often said, "I trust entirely in my Saviour. I lean upon the almighty Arm." One day, about three weeks before his departure, after a season of silent meditation, he said, with earnestness, "I lie in the arms of a loving Saviour, and he keeps me safe." Then he added, "It will be a wonder of grace if I am saved. I trust in the merits of my precious Saviour." Three or four days before he died he appeared to be looking upward, and suddenly asked, "Is that the procession of angels I see, coming to gather the elect? I hope I am one." The following day the vision, if such it was, was repeated, and he reiterated the inquiry in nearly the same words. After the painfulness of these months, his friends, who were in dread of a distressing final struggle, were almost taken by surprise when he passed away so quietly that they hardly knew when the last breath was drawn, when his useful and beautiful life came to its end and his pure spirit went to God. The opinion of his character and worth which this Conference has entertained is evinced by his three elections to the General Conference in 1848, 1852, and 1864, and his estimation among his fellow-alumni, by the degree of Doctor of Divinity conferred on him in 1855, by his Alma Mater.

Memoir of Rev. Edward Raymond Ames,

BISHOP OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

REV. EDWARD RAYMOND AMES, D.D., LL.D., one of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was born near Amesville, Adams County, Ohio, May 20, 1806, and died in the city of Baltimore, Maryland, April 25, 1879.

The parents of Bishop Ames were born in Massachusetts. In 1789 they emigrated to Ohio, and were among the first settlers, near Marietta, the oldest city of the State. In 1827 Bishop Ames was a student in the State University, at Athens, Ohio, and at a revival of religion occurring that summer he was brought to a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church on the 28th day of August, the same summer of his conversion. He left college the next year, before graduating, and became the first principal of the Lebanon Seminary, which had been established at Lebanon, in the State of Illinois, and which has since grown to be the M'Kendree University.

In process of time he was licensed to preach, and in 1830 he was admitted on trial into the Illinois Conference, which at that time embraced the entire States of Illinois and Indiana, and he was appointed junior preacher on School Creek Circuit, in Illinois. At the Conference of 1831 he was stationed at Vincennes, in Indiana. In the spring of 1832 the Illinois Conference was divided, and that portion lying within the State of Indiana was constituted a separate Conference, bearing the name of the State, and he fell to the new Conference, and at its first session was appointed junior preacher on the New Albany and Jeffersonville Circuit. In 1833 he was stationed in Jeffersonville, and in 1834 in Indianapolis. At the Conference of 1835 he was appointed Agent of the Preachers' Aid Society of the Conference, and in 1836 was re-appointed to the same agency. In 1837 he was transferred to the Missouri Conference, and stationed in the city of Saint Louis, where he continued one year. He was then transferred back to the Indiana Conference, and stationed at Madison, Indiana. At the session of the Conference held in 1839 he was appointed presiding elder of Greencastle District, and served in that capacity till the May following, at which time he was elected by the General Conference one of the three Corresponding Secretaries of the Missionary Society, Doctors Pitman, of New York, and Capers, of South Carolina, being his colleagues in the secretaryship. This office he held for four years. In the autumn of 1844 he was appointed presiding elder of New Albany District, and was re-appointed in 1845. In 1846 he was appointed presiding elder of Indianapolis District, and was continued on that district for the full term of four years. At the Conference of 1850 he was appointed presiding elder of Jeffersonville District, and was re-appointed in the autumn of 1851. In May, 1852, before the next meeting of his Conference, he was elected to the office of a bishop of the Church, and thenceforward, until he ceased "at once to work and live," he gave himself, with tireless energy and with conscientious carefulness and devotion, to his duties as a general superintendent.

He was a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the space of twenty-seven years, during which time he traveled extensively, visiting all parts of this country, overseeing the temporal and spiritual interests of the Church, planning and directing her most important movements, preaching much, holding within that period two hundred and forty-one Annual Conferences, and appointing thousands of ministers to their fields of labor among the Churches. The last two Conferences over which he presided—the Washington and the East German—were held in the city of Baltimore, near his home, and within six weeks of his death. At that time he was in great feebleness of body, yet he declined any aid from his colleagues, and presided over every session of these Conferences, meeting the presiding elders regularly in council, and arranging the appointments for the coming year with his accustomed sagacity and carefulness. After reading the appointments of the East German Conference and signing the Journal of its proceedings, he sat down and watched the brethren as they left the church for their several fields of labor; then, turning to a friend sitting by his side, he said, "My work is done." He returned from the Conference room to his home, and in a few days passed away from the labors of earth to the rest and rewards of heaven.

"Life's labor done, as sinks the clay,
Light from its load the spirit flies,
While heaven and earth combine to say,
'How blest the righteous when he dies!'"

God blessed Bishop Ames with a powerful physical frame and a commanding presence. In his earlier years he had a strong voice, with great oratorical power and pathos; and as, in clarion notes, he rang out the great truths of God, men were moved under his appeals, great religious revivals every-where attended his preaching, sinners were awakened and brought to Christ, and believers were strengthened and built up in the faith and hope of the Gospel. In his later years his voice was more subdued, and its tones more soft and sympathetic, but the old fire and the old power pervaded his sermons to the last, and the preachers and the people always heard him with great delight, and were abundantly instructed and blessed under his ministry.

The salient points in his character, and which qualified him for eminence and success in his office as a bishop, were quickness, clearness, and comprehensiveness of perception, enabling him to grasp almost any subject at once, and to perceive also its collateral relations and bearings; a strong, unbending will to maintain the right as he saw it, which, when sanctified to God, as it was, made him a master over men; to which may be added an intuitive perception of human character, enabling him to see through men, scarcely ever misjudging them, and scarcely ever failing to judge rightly in estimating their capacity to succeed in any given line of action; so that in his superintendency, having formed his plans, he selected his agents to execute them; and the result almost always justified the wisdom of his plans and the sagacity of his appointments.

Take him all in all, he had few equals and no superiors in the Church he loved so well. "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel!"

D. N. Smith, J. W. Todd—2.

1. DAVID N. SMITH was born in the State of New York in 1812, and died in Burlington, Iowa, July 24, 1879. He was licensed to preach in 1841, by Rev. E. W. Walker, admitted to the Ohio Conference in 1842, and stationed successively at Lewisburgh, Fletcher, Fremont, and Newark. In 1847 he was transferred to the Iowa Conference, and stationed at old Zion, Burlington. At the end of two years he was removed to Fairfield, Iowa. Afterward he labored for a time at Saint Louis, Mo., and then returned to Fairfield. During his second term at Fairfield his health failed, and he received a special appointment as agent of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-School Union, and traveled at large in the State, establishing Sunday-schools and preaching whenever his health would permit.

In the division of the Iowa Conference, in 1860, Brother Smith's name appears upon the roll of the Des Moines Conference as a superannuate. He was appointed by Bishop Ames in 1863 to Fifth-street Church, in Des Moines, for the especial purpose of redeeming the Church property at that place, which had been sold under an execution. He succeeded in this enterprise, and at the expiration of six months resigned the charge. He represented the Des Moines Conference in the General Conference of 1864. Since then he has held no regular appointment in the Church.

Brother Smith as a preacher possessed much more than ordinary ability. Under his labors the Church was thoroughly organized and at work. Gracious revivals followed, and many precious souls were garnered for usefulness here and glory hereafter. By his superior executive ability the temporal interests of the Church were well cared for. Because of physical disability for pulpit work he has for several years devoted his time chiefly to secular pursuits. Here he displayed superior judgment, indomitable energy, and force of character. For years he filled an important and responsible position in the employ of the C. B. & Q. R. R. Company. More recently he has devoted his attention to mining interests in the West, and was at the time of his death president of a mining company, having its head-quarters at New York city. During the years of his separation from the regular work of the ministry he has continued to labor in many ways for the promotion of the cause of Christ, preaching whenever able to do so, and contributing liberally of his means to the support of the Church. He took especial delight in aiding Christian young men to prepare themselves for business, and especially for the ministry. He interested himself constantly in the educational interests of our Zion, serving some years as college trustee in his own Conference, and providing in his will that after ample provision had been made for the support of his wife, who survives him, the residue should be devoted to the endowment of colleges, two of which were designated. A good man, a strong and successful worker, has passed to his reward. A profound unconsciousness characterized his last hours. Had he been permitted to speak, his dying words would doubtless have been those of hope and victory.

The Church mourns the absence of a zealous worker and devoted friend. The counsels of a clear, strong mind are missed from our business circles. A hand always liberal lies palsied in death; while a lone widow mourns as the only immediate survivor of a noble, affectionate husband. May the God of all grace supply all the loss we suffer, and especially comfort the widowed heart, into whose great sorrow none but he can enter!

2. JOHN WESLEY TODD, son of Smith and Lucy Todd, was born in Morgan County, Illinois, November 11, 1831, and died at his post, in the Winterset Station, Des Moines Conference, June 21, 1879. In 1853, in company with his brother, Madison, he emigrated to Iowa, and settled in Warren County, where, in 1855, at a meeting held by Rev. Brother Pring, he was happily converted to God. He was soon licensed to exhort, and in 1857 he received license to preach. At the session of the Iowa Conference, held in Des Moines, September, 1857, he was admitted to the traveling connection and appointed to Adel Circuit as junior preacher, with Rev. A. W. Johnson as colleague. In 1858 the Adel Circuit was divided, and he was returned to the Beaver Circuit, which had been erected out of part of his former circuit. In 1859 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Simpson, at Muscatine, Iowa, and assigned to Adair Mission. In 1860 he was sent to Loudon, with the saintly William Goode as his presiding elder. This year the Conference was divided, and Brother Todd became one of the charter members of the Western Iowa Conference. In 1861 he was ordained elder by Bishop Scott, and appointed to Council Bluffs, where he remained two years. In 1863 he was stationed at Glenwood; in 1864 at Wesley Chapel, Des Moines; in 1865–66 he served the Osceola Station, and in 1867 was sent to Garden Grove. From this pleasant field of labor he was sent to one of the largest districts then in Iowa, the Fort Dodge District, which embraced twelve counties in the northern part of the State. In 1872 he returned again to the pastorate, and was sent to De Soto Circuit. In 1873 he was again placed in charge of district work, and assigned the Chariton District, in the south part of the Conference. In 1877, having finished his four years on the district, he returned a second time to the pastorate, and was assigned Monroe Station. In 1878 he was assigned his last field, Wintersett Station, Des Moines District, thus coming back nearer the point where he started twenty-two years before than he had been since his itinerancy began.

From the beginning of the year God seems to have been preparing him for his last change. He said to his physician early in his illness, "If you think my sickness fatal, tell me so, for I have been twenty-three years preparing for it, and I am not afraid to die." To the writer he said, as he pressed my hand, "Now, thanks be unto God, who giveth us the victory through the Lord Jesus Christ." His life was one of toil and triumph. He never shrank from duty. He was true and faithful. As a preacher, he was entertaining and forcible; as a pastor, earnest, loving, thorough; as an administrator, wise and judicious; as a citizen, loyal and true to all community interests, to which he gave lively attention; as a parent and husband, noble, loving, tender, true; and though his ardent nature made him a warm friend and caused him to bestow wealth from friendship's store, yet his richest jewels were given his home and family.

Elijah H. Field, J. M'D. Matthews, Alexander Meharry, John C. Deem, J. A. Reeder—5.

1. ELIJAH H. FIELD was born in Sharon, Vermont, October 3, 1796; came to Ohio in 1820; was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1821, and in the same year was licensed to exhort; was subsequently licensed to preach, and was admitted into the Ohio Conference in 1824. He was married to Miss Ann Taylor June 8, 1828, by Rev. William Simmons. From the time of his admission to the Ohio Conference until 1866 he was an active, laborious, and successful traveling preacher. During the period of forty-two years he served the following charges: Deerfield, Sandusky, Black River, Milford, Greenville, Oxford, Adelphi, Galliopolis, Burlington, Chester, Kanawha District, Deer Creek, Milton, Tremont, Fletcher, East Liberty, North Lewisburgh, Worthington, Dunbarton, Rockville, Aberdeen, Winchester, Tremont, Vienna, Jamestown, Union, Lynchburgh, New Market, and New Lexington. These fields of labor, though extensive, were well and thoroughly cultivated, and many of them were made to yield abundant fruits to God's glory. The most laborious, and in some respects the most important, of all was the Kanawha District, which at that time extended over ten of the mountainous counties of West Virginia. The district was so mountainous that it could be traveled only on horseback or on foot, and was so extensive that the presiding elder was obliged to be away from home sometimes for six weeks together. Once, while on a long trip, a deep snow fell, followed by intense cold. The roads up and down the mountain steeps were difficult and dangerous, and Mrs. Field knew that the drifting snow would render them still more so. Although in prayer and faith she had committed her husband to the care of her covenant-keeping God, it was impossible for her to drive away the fear that in all probability he had perished or would perish in the wilderness. He had named the day when he expected to be at home—and he was remarkably prompt in keeping his engagements—but when that day passed, and another, and still another, and yet he did not arrive, that fear became painfully intense, and was shared by her neighbors. A kind-hearted brother harnessed up his team, and, providing every comfort that was practicable under the circumstances, volunteered to go with Mrs. F. in search of her husband. But just as they were ready to start the presiding elder arrived, safe and sound, though greatly fatigued. On his way home he had come to the Kanawha River, which, at that time and place, could be crossed only on the ice. Recent rains had swollen the river, and there was a space of open water of several feet between the shore and the ice on each side. What could he do? His wife and children were on the other side of the river, and would expect him at the time appointed. Common worldly prudence would have said, "Remain on this side." But all that little world of love which he called "home" was on the other side, and that attraction urged him forward. He procured planks and laid them across the open water between the shore and the ice, and, leading his horse over this temporary bridge, he reached the ice in safety; but in attempting to cross the open space in the same way on the other side his horse fell into the stream, and was saved only by the greatest exertion. In another field of labor, while absent from home, one of his children died, and the distance was so great and the way so difficult that word could not reach the father, and did not reach him until seven days after his child had been laid in the grave. Other illustrations of the hardships and perils of the itinerancy in that day might be given, if necessary. These are only specimens of what were common in the heroic age of Methodism. The last pastoral charge was New Lexington Circuit, Hillsborough District, in 1866. In the spring of that year he became convinced that he was physically unable to do the full work of a traveling preacher. Hence he felt it his duty to ask for a superannuated relation, which he did at the next Conference. His letter to the Conference, asking for a change in his relation, was a model of good sense, good taste, and Christian submission, and attracted unusual attention. The Conference, of course, granted his request, and his relation as a superannuate was continued from year to year for twelve years. During that time he resided in Saint Paris, and, though able to preach but seldom, the silent influence of his example was felt and recognized by all classes. About three months before his death, somewhat unaccountably, the weary wheels of life began to revolve slowly. No clearly marked disease was discoverable, but only a general prostration of strength and vitality. In a few weeks he rallied a little, and for a time was able to walk about the house, though he did not regain his former strength. About ten days prior to his death he was again prostrated, and continued to grow weaker until October 1, 1878, when he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus.

Brother Field was a man of marked intelligence. In science and literature he was exact and critical. On all subjects which interest intelligent men he was a close and original thinker. In theology and philosophy he called no man master; but whatever the Bible taught—the Bible interpreted by that reason with which the Creator had endowed him—that he received implicitly as the truth of God. To that authority he bowed, and on that book he built his hopes of everlasting life. His Christian character and life were distinguished by firmness. He was not emotional, but there was an unyielding tenacity in his faith and in his faithful observance of Christian duties. He had some peculiarities of mind and habits. Though always "sober-minded," he was never sad or gloomy. Cheerfulness—a sort of humorous playful cheerfulness—was habitual to him, and was one of his marked characteristics; and that element in his character was a constant well-spring of joy, diffusing light and gladness wherever he went. He was kind and generous. No man was more ready to bestow favors upon others to the full extent of his abilities and opportunities than he. In his relations as husband, father, neighbor, and friend he was just what one would expect in a conscientious and manly Christian. In the Church and in all Church duties his example was worthy the imitation of all. At the public services and at the class-meeting his seat was never vacant when he was able to be present. During all his sickness, as well as during the fifty-seven years of his Christian life, his faith in Christ was unwavering. In his last sickness he talked but little, because of the great difficulty of articulation; but whatever he did say in relation to his religious state showed that his faith was unyielding and his hopes bright and buoyant. When very near the brink of the river of death he was asked, "Is Jesus still precious?" to which he promptly responded, "Yes." This was the last distinct utterance that was heard from his lips on earth.

2. Joseph M'Dowell Matthews, D.D., son of John and Sallie Matthews, was born in Augusta County, Va., December 8, 1804, and died at his residence, in Hillsborough, Ohio, August 5, 1879. When he was ten years old his parents moved to Kentucky and settled on a farm. Fortunately he was favored by Dr. Lewis Marshall, brother of Chief-Justice Marshall, with the privilege of his private school or academy, a school said to be very thorough in its course of instruction. Here he acquired that degree of culture which justified the Augusta College in conferring on him the honorary degree of A. M. Later in life the Ohio University conferred on him the title of D. D. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church before he was eighteen years of age, and began occasionally to exhort. In 1825 he was licensed to preach. In 1827 he began a school or academy for boys in Hillsborough, O., which he continued until 1831, when he resigned his charge of the academy and joined the Ohio Annual Conference. His first charge was Chillicothe, Ohio, where he spent two pleasant and successful years. In 1833 he was stationed in Cincinnati, and during the winter of that year his health failed. His colleagues in Cincinnati were Jas. B. Finley, John Collins, Dr. Thos. Sargeant, and Joseph M. Trimble. Thomas M. Morris, afterward Bishop, was then presiding elder of the Cincinnati District. After his health failed he retired to a farm, where he spent nearly six years. Then, casting about to see in what field he could accomplish most good for the Master, he chose the educational work, and in 1839 opened the Oakland Female Seminary, where he remained, successfully prosecuting his work, until 1856, when he took charge of the Hillsborough Female College. In 1860 he resigned the presidency of the college, and took charge of the Jessamine Female College, Nicholasville, Kentucky. He opened his school in Kentucky with fine prospects of success, but the war soon threw every thing into such confusion that in 1863 he returned to Hillsborough and opened a private boarding-school. In 1872 the presidency of the Hillsborough Female College being made vacant by the resignation of Rev. David Copeland, A.M., Dr. Matthews again accepted the presidency of this institution, where he remained until September, 1877, when, on account of failing health and feebleness, he retired to his home, in the suburbs of Hillsborough, where, in the bosom of his family, who watched and cared for him with unwearied attention, he closed his long and useful life. Dr. Matthews was married three times. October 28, 1828, he was married to Miss Elizabeth A. Barry, a daughter of Andrew Barry. In March, 1852, he was called to part with the wife of his youth. In 1855 he was united in marriage with Mrs. Martha Saunders, sister of Judge P. B. Swing. In 1858 she died, leaving two children—a son, Joseph, who died in his nineteenth year while attending Oberlin College, and Sallie, who survives, and is his only living child. December 25, 1859, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Mary B. Harman, who survives to mourn his loss and cherish his sainted memory. Dr. Matthews has been long and favorably known as one of the leading educators of Ohio, and especially in the education of young ladies, for which he seemed to possess a peculiar fitness. He combined mildness and firmness in a remarkable degree. To the young women under his care he was both an instructor and a father. He had a clear and well-stored mind, full of common-sense and rich in classic lore. He was gentlemanly in his manners, reserved, and yet approachable. All who associated with him respected and loved him. He was free from piques and eccentricities, and through all the years of his life as a minister and teacher he was "blameless and without reproach." In the later years of his life, on account of debility, he seldom preached. But when he did all ears were open to catch the feeble utterances, and even whispers, which fell from his lips. His clear views of God and truth, his rich stores of learning and wisdom, all adorned and beautified with a saintly life, made him a power in the community where he had lived so long and was known so well. He has not lived in vain. He has prepared and sent out scores of young women, who have become centers of power in their new homes. And in some instances he has graduated two generations—the mothers and their daughters—so that his name will live through the years, and "though dead he yet speaketh." While his own voice is hushed, and his lips are silent in the stillness of death, hundreds of living tongues trained by him do speak and tell of God's goodness and his power. Dr. Matthews has set in operation causes which will continue to work for God and the Church until the reapers shall gather in the final harvest, when he can say, "Here am I, Lord, and those whom thou hast given me." There is a sublimity in such a life, a life spent in preparing the heads and hearts of sisters and mothers to act well their parts in life's great drama. He died of cancer. Worn down with age and toil and care, he was assailed by a cancerous affection in the face, which developed gradually and steadily, and after a lingering and protracted illness he closed his useful and beautiful life, and passed up to join the many friends dear to his heart in that country where "the inhabitants shall not say, I am sick." His last sickness and death were in beautiful harmony with his former life. In the bosom of his family, without much pain, in the full possession of his powers, cheered by the frequent visits of his friends, he gradually descended into the valley. It was with difficulty he could be heard on account of debility, but he again and again expressed himself in the fullest assurance of hope. When he saw that this was to be his last illness he gave all into the hands of God; laid hold of Christ as the Paschal Lamb, his only sacrifice. God heard his prayers, and removed all darkness and doubt and fears, and he rested from that on like a babe in the arms of its mother. Calm and peaceful and ready, he only waited the time of his departure. At the annual meeting of the alumni of the Hillsborough Female College, June 11, 1879, Dr. Matthews sent by President Lyon the following message, which thrilled all hearts: "May you have success in all good work, and help to contribute to the conversion of the world. Tell them Jesus supports me during my sickness." The expressions that fell from his lips were gems of beauty and of worth. We only need mention, as specimens, a few spoken the last three or four weeks of his life. During one visit he said, "I am wonderfully sustained; sky clear, thank God!" Another visit, "A thousand ways has Providence to bring believers home. Christ sustains my soul. For six months there has not been a cloud to darken my sky, through the merits of Christ." Still later he spoke of Christ stilling the tempest, and quoted, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." Among his last utterances was this, so appropriate and beautiful, "Almost home, almost home," repeating it several times. Life's fitful fever is over, and Dr. Matthews is now safe at home.

3. ALEXANDER MEHARRY, D.D., was born in Adams County, O., Oct. 17, 1813, and died at the residence of Mr. H. Unger, in Germantown, Nov. 18, 1878, in the sixty-fifth year of his age and the thirty-seventh of his ministry. Dr. Meharry was the youngest child of Alexander and Jane Meharry, to whom were born eight children, seven sons and one daughter. His parents emigrated to this country from Ireland in 1794, and settled in Pennsylvania, and in 1798 they removed to this State, where his father purchased a farm including three hundred and fifty acres of land located on Eagle Creek, in Adams County. His father who, even before his removal from Ireland, was a member of the Methodist Church and an earnest Christian man, was killed by the fall of a tree in the summer of 1813 while returning to his home from a camp-meeting held near Newmarket. His mother, who was an excellent Christian, full of zeal and devotion to the cause of Christ, and to whom he was indebted for his early religious training, died in great peace in 1844. Brother Meharry received his first religious impressions in early childhood, which impressions were encouraged and strengthened by the wise counsel and fervent prayers of his Christian mother, until they resulted in his conversion, which occurred in his thirteenth year, at a camp-meeting held at Ash Ridge, and where he also united with the Church. His convictions of a call to the work of the ministry followed soon after his conversion, and were deep and pungent, and grew steadily upon him, though he strove to free himself from them. In 1833, in his twentieth year, he went to Ripley and became a clerk in the business house of Mr. Archibald Liggett, and subsequently a partner with him in business. During these years his convictions of a call to the work of the ministry constantly followed him. In the house of God, in the hurry and rush of business, and in the silent watches of the night, these words were ever ringing in his ears, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel." His convictions having become too strong for further resistance without imperiling his relations to God, he yielded to them, closed his business, and on the 24th day of July, 1841, received license to preach at a quarterly meeting held in Decatur, O., Rev. Michael Macley, presiding elder. In the fall of the same year he was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference, and on the 14th day of September he started from Ripley to his first circuit; stopped a few hours at the house of his widowed mother, received her blessing, and then, with tears in his eyes, turned away from the home of his childhood, to engage in the work of an itinerant minister. His first appointment was Blendon Circuit, with Rev. James Donahoe as senior colleague. Afterward he filled in succession the following appointments: Bainbridge Circuit, Jacksonville, Deer Creek, Frankfort two years, and Augusta Circuit, Ky. He was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon by Bishop Soule in Chillicothe, in 1843, and in 1845 was ordained elder by Bishop Hamline, in Cincinnati. On Aug. 13, 1844, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Anna E. Boswell, daughter of Robert Worthington, Esq. This union was terminated by the death of his wife, June 22, 1847. In 1848–49 he had charge of New-street and East Cincinnati Mission. His next appointment was as agent for the Ohio Wesleyan University. In this work he spent six years, part of which time he was also agent for the Springfield High School. Having lived a widower nine years, on May 1, 1856, he married Miss Eliza A., daughter of Mr. E. Ogden, Esq., of Springfield, O. His next appointments were: Franklin, Middletown, Finley Chapel, Cincinnati, Wilmington. In 1866 he was appointed as agent of the Cincinnati Wesleyan College, giving two years to the agency, then as pastor to Eaton. In 1871 he was appointed presiding elder on Ripley District, and in 1872–73 he served as presiding elder on the Springfield District. By the close of his second year on this district his health had so far failed that the Conference in 1874 gave him a superannuated relation, which he held until the session of 1878, when, at his request, he was made effective, and appointed Financial Agent of Ohio Wesleyan University.

As a preacher Brother Meharry was always plain and practical, bold and uncompromising; never weaving garlands of flowers to please the people; never aiming to tickle the ear or charm the fancy at the sacrifice of souls; never uttering soothing lullabies amid Sinai's thunderings; and never smoothing the paths of transgressors with apologies, nor lining their way to hell with flowers; but ever preaching as a dying man to dying men. Declaring "the whole counsel of God;" advancing no adventurous positions, but "holding fast the form of sound words;" commending himself to the consciences of his hearers in the sight of God, he was an able minister of the New Testament, and God wonderfully blessed his ministry. And now, while the companions of his former labors raise upon earth the battle shout, he is away with "the Captain of our salvation," wearing the conqueror's crown, and enjoying the victor's reward. His is not a starless crown.

Dr. Meharry was a truly consecrated man. In the early years of his ministry he came to the point where he could truthfully say, "Here I give my all to thee." More than a tenth of all he made he gave to Christ and suffering humanity. He said to the writer, "When I began to give a tenth then the Lord gave me prosperity." Some years he gave all he made.

Brother Meharry was a man of great energy, an indefatigable worker. When the official board of Eaton Church contemplated the erection of their present church edifice, they asked the Bishop and his cabinet for the appointment of Dr. Meharry as their pastor. Their request was granted, and during his pastorate of three years they succeeded in erecting a beautiful church and parsonage at a cost of $40,000. Nov. 15 he left his pleasant home in Eaton to spend the Sabbath in Germantown. As he parted with his wife—a noble Christian woman who for twenty-three years had encouraged and assisted him in his work—knowing his feebleness she said, "Don't try to preach." He replied, "It wont hurt me to preach twenty minutes." At Carlisle Station he was met by Rev W. Thirkield, who conveyed him in his carriage to the home of Mrs. Maggie C. Kempt, the father, of whom he had received into the Church some years ago. He spent a pleasant evening with the family, closing with an earnest prayer before retiring. He was not feeling well, and his rest was somewhat disturbed during the night. Sabbath morning after breakfast he felt refreshed, and expressed a desire to occupy the pulpit and talk to the people for twenty minutes. After the opening services conducted by the pastor, Dr. Meharry arose and announced for his text these words, (Eccl. findeth to do, do it with thy ix, 10,) "Whatsoever thy hand might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave whither thou goest." The first words that fell from his lips were solemn and impressive, and in the light of the next twenty-four hours proved only too deeply prophetic, "I speak as a dying man to dying men." The entire discourse was an earnest, forcible, and solemn appeal to the Church, enforced by pertinent passages from the word, and by stirring illustrations and incidents from his own extended experience in the ministry; also pleading with sinners in his usual earnest and impressive way. Absorbed in his great theme, forgetful of self in his desire to do good, led on by the close attention and sympathy of his audience, he gave no thought to the weakness of his body, but preached in an earnest and impassioned manner for forty minutes, closing his sermon with these words, "I have preached as a dying man to dying men;" and then sank upon the sofa exhausted, clasping his head with both hands, as if in great pain. Monday morning, though feeble, he was in good spirits, and no unfavorable symptoms manifested themselves, until at breakfast he was suddenly taken sick, but soon recovered sufficiently to take some food. He then insisted on returning home, and had taken his seat in the carriage when his pain increased, and he was compelled to return to the house. A physician was called, but he pronounced his case hopeless.

A telegram was sent to his wife, who immediately hastened, hoping to render assistance, or at least receive his dying benediction, but before she reached his side the angel of death had placed his signet on his brow, sealing his lips in silence; his heart had ceased to beat, and the pure spirit of Alexander Meharry had soared up to God.

The consistency of his profession, the dignity of his deportment, the depth of his piety, his firmness of purpose, integrity of heart fidelity to duty, burning zeal for the cause of God, untiring and indefatigable labors as a minister of Jesus Christ, and tender and loving faithfulness as a pastor, endeared him to all committed to his care, and thousands will bless God in the day of eternity for the benefits received through his instrumentality.

4. JOHN C. DEEM was born in Campbell County, Ky., Aug. 23, 1802, and died at his home, in Eaton, O., Jan. 21, 1879, in the seventy-sixth year of his age. While yet a child, his parents, who were devout members of the M. E. Church, emigrated to Ohio, and settled in Madison township, Butler County. Brother Deem received his first religious impressions in early childhood. His conversion, which was clear and powerful, occurred in his nineteenth year, at a camp-meeting held on what was then known as White Water Circuit, and conducted by Rev. Samuel Baker and Rev. Wm. H. Raper. His convictions of a call to the work of the ministry followed soon after his conversion, and were deep and pungent. Feb. 12, 1824, he was united in marriage with Miss Anna, daughter of Rev. Moses Crume, of the Ohio Conference. Sept. 29, 1826, he received license as a local preacher from the district conference which held its session in Cincinnati Rev. John Collins presiding, Rev. O. M. Spencer, secretary. In 1830 he was ordained deacon by Bishop M'Kendree, and in 1835 was ordained elder by Bishop Andrew. During these years, serving the Church with fidelity and zeal as a local preacher, he became financially embarrassed, lost his farm, and was greatly bereaved by the death of his wife. His second marriage, which was with Miss Sarah D. Ailes, occurred in 1849. In 1854 he was received on trial by the Cincinnati Conference, and appointed to New Paris Circuit. Afterward he filled in succession the following appointments: Merrittstown Mission two years, New Carlisle, New Burlington, and Lewisburg. Here he was again bereaved by the death of his wife. His next appointment was Camden C cuit two years. During his seco year on this circuit he had a re vival at Camden, resulting in one hundred and six accessions, most of whom were converted. Aug 20, 1863, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Littell. In 1864–65 he had charge of Concord Circuit; then in succession North Lewisburgh, Fletcher, Catawba, and Addison Circuits. In 1874, at the Conference held at Wilmington, he received a superannuated relation, having traveled twenty full years. At the close of the session he went to the home of his son, Rev. R. K. Deem, of the Cincinnati Conference, where he had a severe spell of sickness, and where he remained until October 8, when he moved to Eaton, there to close his long and useful life, surrounded by a large circle of his relatives and friends.

As a preacher Brother Deem was practical rather than ornate; his command of vigorous and expressive language was ready, while there was apparent no effort at rhetorical effect, his utterances were always chaste and often elegant. Earnest almost to vehemence, he usually secured and retained the attention of congregation, and seldom lacked for hearers. His preaching was eminently scriptural, his great familiarity with the word of God enabling him to quote most aptly from the best of all writers—the inspired. His conceptions of truth were clear and definite, and his convictions of the importance of the great truths of God's word were so profound that there was no uncertain sound in the gospel message as he proclaimed it. He was, like many of the preachers of his day, often doctrinal, urging with great zeal the peculiar doctrines of his Church, especially the divinity of Christ, the universality of the atonement, free grace, justification by faith, spiritual regeneration, and full salvation. In exhortation he was always effective, and when enjoying, as was usual, the full baptism of the Holy Ghost, was often wonderfully eloquent. Many of his appeals to the unconverted seemed almost irresistible. Indeed, in the days of his power it was not infrequent for persons of this class to cry aloud for mercy while he spoke. The late Rev. Wm. Simmons, who once heard him in one of the happiest of his efforts of this kind, declared that while he was speaking he felt that he was as fully inspired as were the apostles on the day of Pentecost. For two years after he settled in Eaton he was able to attend church. He occupied an arm-chair on the platform to the right of the pulpit, and Dr. Meharry one on the left, and, like Aaron and Hur, they stayed up the hands of the pastor, and greatly assisted him in his work. The last year of his life, though utterly helpless, he was uniformly cheerful. I never saw a cloud on his brow, or heard a murmur from his lips. He was happy from morning till night and from night till morning. Christ was in his thoughts by day and his dreams and visions by night. He was "a good man and full of the Holy Ghost." His testimony, given to the very last, was clear and full, an abiding peace, a constant joy. His sun went down without a cloud.

5. Joseph Adams Reeder was born in Lebanon, Ohio, September 17, 1797. His father's name was David. When seventeen he was indentured an apprentice to Thomas Sullivan, of Cincinnati, who covenanted and engaged "to use his utmost endeavors to teach, or cause to be taught, the said apprentice in the art and trade of a tailor which he now uses, with all things thereunto belonging; and will also find and allow unto said apprentice, meat, drink, washing, lodging, and apparel, both linen and woolen, and all other necessaries fit and convenient for such apprentice," and he "doth further agree to teach, or cause the said apprentice to be taught, to read, write, and cipher as far as the rule of three, and that at the expiration of the said term he will give said apprentice a freedom suit of clothes." He was married April 2, 1818, to Miss Olive Langdon, and settled in Montgomery. There was much sickness and many deaths, and as the Presbyterian pastor lived several miles distant, and Mr. Reeder was the only man that professed religion in the village, he was frequently called upon to pray with the sick and at the burials. He instituted a Methodist prayer-meeting, which was frequently annoyed by wicked men, till a justice of the peace volunteered to keep order. They soon secured week-night preaching as an appointment on the circuit, and afterward an hour on the Sabbath. He was licensed to exhort, and made frequent appointments within the bounds of the Miami Circuit, and made it part of his business to induce the people to pay the circuit preachers promptly. At Chester, February 28, 1829, he was licensed to preach. At the session of the Ohio Conference, in 1829, he was received on trial, and appointed to Greenville Circuit, which included Preble and Darke Counties, the western halves of Montgomery and Miami, and the northern half of Butler. He had twenty-nine appointments to be filled in twenty-eight days, and three hundred and sixty miles to travel. He received $113 salary, and had an increase of one hundred and thirteen members. In 1830 he was sent to Brush Creek Circuit, with twenty-eight appointments, which were soon increased to thirty-two. He had a parsonage furnished him at West Union, and received $182. 1831 found him serving Hillsborough Circuit, with thirty-four appointments, soon increased to thirty-eight. In 1832 he was appointed to Deer Creek Circuit, and at the close of the year his life time rheumatism compelled him to ask a supernumerary relation. His friends on Miami Circuit loaned him money that he might enter upon a business among them. He preached often, and was the unfailing friend of the circuit preachers. In 1835 he reported himself effective, and was appointed to Wilmington Circuit; in 1836 to Eaton Circuit, a part of his first circuit. Here he found two class-leaders keeping taverns and selling liquor freely, and a steward owning and operating a distillery. He met the evil and conquered it. In 1838 he was sent to Circleville Circuit, and found the society rent on the slavery question. He made peace, and prosperity followed. In 1839 he traveled Piketon Circuit: in 1840, Washington Circuit; but Greenfield was made a station, and he preached there, the presiding elder appointing another man to the circuit. In 1841 he served Franklinton Circuit, though much afflicted bodily. At the close of the year he took a supernumerary relation a second time, and moved to a little farm in the bounds of his favorite Miami Circuit. In 1842 he preached regularly at Madisonville in connection with the circuit preachers, so that people had preaching every two weeks. In 1843 he was made effective, and appointed to Miami Circuit. 1844 found him, with Jacob Young as colleague, on North Bend Circuit. Here his life-long disease became so inveterate that he was sometimes carried from his horse to the pulpit, where he sat and preached. At the end of the year he was superannuated, and in 1847, at his own request, was located. By the Cincinnati Conference, in 1871, he was re-admitted, but remained superannuated till his death, which occurred November 24, 1878, at Westwood, in Hamilton County. He was a good man, his piety being of that cheerful type which diffused encouragement. His sermons were always edifying; his exhortations were tender, yet impressive; his prayers were the outbreathing of a soul that had much to do with God. The soul of honor in his business, the world respected him; always at his post, always consistent, the Church loved him. The last day of his life he left the family room at about half-past three P.M., to lie down in his own room. After a short time his daughter-in-law went in to see if he was comfortable, and found that he had passed through a severe hemorrhage; at ten o'clock he was unconscious, and in a short time breathed out his life at the end of eighty-one years. For more than sixty years he was a happy Christian.

He came to America in 1845; two years later he was converted under the labor of Brother M'Lane, and then joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Two years after this he received a call to enter the ministry. He entered into the German work of the South-east Indiana Conference, and at the formation of the Central German Conference he became a member of the same, in connection with which body he served the following appointments: Lagaree Mission, Indianapolis and Shelbyville Mission, Madison Mission, Fort Wayne Mission, Huntingburgh Circuit, Mount Vernon Circuit, including the present Mars appointment, Booneville Circuit, Huntingburgh Circuit, Santa Claus Circuit, Mars Circuit, New Albany Station, Booneville Circuit, Henderson and Salem Mission, and then again upon Mars Circuit, in which field of labor, in the third year, he finished his work upon earth, and entered into the rest of the people of God. 1. WILLIAM H. SMITH was born in Washington County, Georgia, April 12, 1796, and died at his home in Greencastle, Ind., September 28, 1878. He was baptized in his infancy by Rev. Josiah Randall. His parents were elevated Christians. His mother died when he was two years old; but his father carefully trained him in the doctrines of Christianity. In 1803 the family moved to the State of Kentucky, and settled where Bowling Green now stands. When fifteen years old he was converted and received into the Church by Rev. Marcus Lindsey. In 1816 the family moved to White County, Illinois. March 2, 1819, he was united in marriage with Miss Eleanor Lizenly, who yet, in very feeble and infirm old age, survives him. In 1820 he was licensed to exhort by Thomas Davis. In August, 1822, he was licensed as a local preacher by the Quarterly Conference of Mount Vernon Circuit, and in the fall of the same year was admitted on trial in the Missouri Conference, at its session in Saint Louis, and appointed to Wabash Circuit, to which he was re-appointed in the fall of 1823. In 1824 the Missouri Conference was divided, by the formation of the Illinois Conference, which also included the State of Indiana. The first session of this new Conference was held at Padfield, where Brother Smith was ordained deacon by Bishop Roberts, and sent first to Patoka Circuit, then to Booneville. In 1826 the Conference met at Bloomington, where Bishop Roberts ordained him an elder, and sent him to Paoli, a six-weeks' circuit, and during the year several hundred were converted. When stationed at Eel River Circuit—which included Greencastle, Spencer, Bowling Green, and Rockville—six hundred souls were converted and brought into the Church. He was then sent successively to Carlisle, Paris—which included Edgar, Coles, and Clark Counties, in the State of Illinois, and Vigo and Vermillion Counties, in the State of Indiana—Rockville, Carlisle, Bloomington, and Columbus. In 1835 his health failed, and he was granted the superannuated relation. This year he bought a farm in Park County, to which he moved his family, and where they continued to reside until the fall of 1859. In 1839 his relation was changed to supernumerary, and he was sent to Greencastle Circuit with H. Vredenburgh. Next year he was made effective, and sent to Putnamville Circuit, where his labors were blessed with a great revival; then to Newport, where he organized the circuit. In 1842 he superannuated, and remained so until the fall of 1844, when he was made effective, and sent to Roseville Circuit, then to Russellville, Otter Creek Mission, Greencastle Circuit, and Lebanon. From 1850 to 1859 he was superannuated, at which last-named date he was made effective and sent to Sanford, then to Otter Creek, with O. C. Haskell as junior preacher, to Morton, Fillmore, Cartersburgh, and finally, in 1865, to North Salem. From 1866 to the close of his life he sustained the superannuated relation to the Conference. In 1859 he moved to the city of Greencastle, where he continued to reside the remainder of his life. During his last days he delighted to speak of the past, with its labors and triumphs. He never seemed happier than when talking of the noble and glorious band of men with whom he had battled and won so many victories for God and the Church. He sent kind words to all his brethren. His death was quiet, peaceful, and triumphant. He leaves a wife, three sons, and two daughters.

2. AARON CONNER was born in Peru, May 22, 1822, and died in great peace at the residence of his son-in-law, Rev. E. B. Dille, in Santa Clara, Cal., on the night of Sept. 28, 1878. His parents removed to Akron, Ohio, when he was seven years old. Here he was converted and joined the Church at the age of sixteen. He was married Dec. 2, 1843, to Charlotte A. Giberson, who with two married daughters survives him. In 1853 he removed to South Bend, Ind., where in a short time he was licensed to preach, under the pastorate of Rev. T. S. Webb. In 1860 he entered the traveling connection in the North-west Indiana Conference, of which he remained a member till his death. He filled successively the following charges during his twelve years of effective labor: Knox, Pulaski, Hebron, Valparaiso Circuit, Brook, Clark's Hill, Rossville, Burlington, and Logansport Circuit. In 1872 he took a superannuated relation, and in the following spring removed with his family to California. During the five years of his residence here he was in the agency of the California Bible Society. Under its auspices he traveled over a large portion of the State, preaching and distributing the word of God. About eight months ago he began to show symptoms of failing health, and retired from active labor for two months, hoping that rest would restore his exhausted energies. At the end of that time he again entered upon his labors, though in no condition to do so. He traveled for six weeks in the mountains, although much of the time he was so feeble that he was often compelled while traveling to stop his carriage and lie down by the road-side to rest. He preached on the last Sabbath in June, although scarcely able to stand, and on the 9th of July came home and took his bed, which he never left till the Lord said to him, "Come up higher." His disease was a most distressing one, as he was unable to take enough nourishment to sustain his body, and was an almost constant sufferer. But through it all he "endured as seeing Him who is invisible." His rare patience and fortitude were the subject of remark by all who visited him. Not a murmur escaped his lips, but so serene and peaceful was his spirit that his sick-room seemed the very antechamber of heaven. The last two days of his life were especially marked as days of holy and ecstatic triumph. He frequently repeated during his last conscious hours the words:—

> "Happy, if with my latest breath
> I may but gasp His name,
> Preach Him to all, and cry in death,
> Behold, behold the Lamb!"

In his last conscious moments he said, "It grows dark here, but it is light ahead." His last words were, "Praise! praise!"

3. RICHARD HARGRAVE closed his career of great usefulness at the residence of his son-in-law, near Attica, Fountain County, Ind., June 23, 1879. His last illness was attended with great suffering, lasting for over two months. Almost all his life he had been a great sufferer. He said to a friend on one occasion, "I have been sounding the profoundest depths of death all night long." Amid all this he felt the consolations of religion, and quoted the victorious hymns of our church and the precious Bible promises. On the morning before his death an unusual rapture of trust, hope, and joy lifted his mind above his sufferings, and in waking moments found expression in Scripture and hymn, and those terse expressions of victorious faith of which he had such command. The morning before his death he said to a friend, "I hope to be dead when you return to-morrow evening." He was not only conscious up to within a few minutes of death, but his mind was vigorous and clear. His exit was peaceful.

Brother Hargrave was born in Caswell County, North Carolina, Dec. 5, 1803, and emigrated to Indiana with his parents at the age of fourteen. When nineteen he was converted and joined the so called "O'Kelly Christian Church." At the age of twenty he joined the M. E. Church, and one year after began to preach. His first license, granted by the O'Kelly Church, was dated June, 1821. His first license from the M. E. Church was dated in 1823. He was married to Nancy A. Posey, March 10, 1829, with whom he lived in harmony until "God took her," June 12, 1871. They now lie side by side in the old Bethel grave-yard east of Attica, near which Brother Hargrave held a camp-meeting forty-seven years ago.

As near as can be gathered from data at hand, the following is the list of his appointments: Patoka, Salem, Henry Creek, Sangamon, superannuated, Paoli, Franklin, Carlisle, Crawfordsville, La Fayette, La Porte District, La Porte, Shelbyville, Manchester, Ladoga, Crawfordsville, Newtown, Indianapolis District, Greencastle District, La Fayette District, Shawnee Prairie, Perrysville, Pine Village, Frankfort, Delphi District, superannuated, (from 1860 to 1863,) Thorntown, Battle Ground, Monticello District, Battle Ground District, Terre Haute District. In 1871 he superannuated, but his labors were as arduous as at any time of regular work, preaching about two hundred sermons a year. From the time of the last Conference to the middle of March he preached a hundred and four times.

Perhaps the strongest features of Father Hargrave's character were, acute fear of offending God, an implicit reliance upon God for efficiency in his work, and an intense sympathy for the sufferings of others. This sympathy, together with his fear and his faith, produced a burning zeal to save souls. He could hardly bear for the sinner to suffer for his sins, believing God would save if called upon.

As a preacher he was in many respects the peer of any. Up till death he held his place in the admiration of Indiana audiences with Strange, Armstrong, and others. With a voice full of melody and force, clear articulation, and phraseology so unique as to charm the ear, he uttered great doctrinal sermons, which in other hands might have been dry and stale, with the enchantment of tales of the heroic. This was not all. He drew argument and illustration from the common scenes observed by common-sense men, and convinced the mind. Then, so rapidly as to startle the sinner, he made him conscious of his guilt, and left the soul with a loving Saviour. On many occasions numbers fell around him as if dead, and remained so in some cases for hours, coming to consciousness with the song of salvation on their lips.

4. PHILIP I. BESWICK was born in Harrison County, Indiana, December 20, 1818, and died in the city of Indianapolis, August 15, 1879. He was licensed to preach in 1840, was received on trial in the Indiana Conference in 1841, and was appointed successively to Rome, Rockport, Cynthiana, Elizabeth, Nashville, and Edinburgh. In 1848 he was transferred to North Indiana Conference, and appointed to Rochester, Warsaw, Clinton, Numa. By the division of the Conference he became a member of the North-west Indiana Conference in 1852, and was appointed to Frankfort, then to Harrisonville and Lockport. In 1855 he was made professor of Greek in Fort Wayne College. In 1856 he re-entered the pastoral work, and was appointed to Russellville, then to Second Church, Terre Haute; Cartersburgh, North Salem, Medaryville, and Pine Village. In 1868 his health failed, and he asked for and received the superannuated relation to the Conference. His health was never restored; he remained an invalid to the close of his life. His death was quiet, peaceful, and full of glorious expectations. He was a good and useful man; and many of those who have been blest by his ministrations will doubtless meet him in the Celestial City.

L. Havens, Elisha B. Cadwell—2.

1. LANDY HAVENS was born in Fleming County, Ky., Jan. 31, 1815, and died at Arlington, Ind., March 3, 1879. He was the son of Rev. James Havens. He emigrated with his parents to Indiana in 1826, was licensed to preach in 1835, and admitted to the Indiana Conference in 1838. In this and subsequently in the South-east Indiana Conference he labored until 1872, when, health failing, he was superannuated. In 1875 he again took work, but on account of ill health from 1877 to death was superannuated. The following were his appointments: Columbus, Centerville, Liberty, Brookville, Milford, Milroy, Burlington, Mount Auburn, Franklin, Mount Auburn, Morgantown Orleans, Milford, Clarksburgh, Manchester, Sugar Creek, Milford, Vernon, Mount Carmel, Clarksburgh, Greenwood, Burlington, Saint Louis, Southport, Mount Auburn, Columbia, Milroy, Hartsville, Morristown. From 1872 to 1874 he took a superannuated relation. In 1875 he was again made effective, and sent to Saint Paul, and in 1876 to Lawrence.

In 1843 he was married to Miss Lucinda Richie, who survives him. He had much zeal for the cause of Christ, and his labors were crowned with success. Many were converted under his ministry and added to the Church. As a preacher, in manner he was earnest; in style hortatory rather than doctrinal, always aiming to lead the unconverted immediately to Christ; as a pastor he was diligent, looking after all the interests of the Church, and imitating the Saviour by visiting the sick and comforting those in distress. His affliction was protracted and intense. While suffering he said: "Is it because I have been so great a sinner? Yes, I have sinned, but Jesus has pardoned my sins; I know he has." When almost stepping into the Jordan he was asked, "Do you feel that the Lord sustains you?" "Yes," he said, "He leads me every step of the way," and in this faith he fell asleep in Jesus.

2. ELISHA B. CADWELL, A.M., was born in Warrick County, Indiana, November 29, 1850, and died at the residence of his father, Rev. E. W. Cadwell, in Canton, Washington County, Ind., March 13, 1879. He was converted in 1861; licensed to preach in 1871; admitted on trial in the South-east Indiana Conference, and appointed to Wilmington Circuit September, 1874; appointed to Vernon Circuit in 1875; ordained deacon and admitted to full membership in the Conference, September, 1876; married to Anna E. Conner September 17, 1877; and ordained elder September, 1878. After receiving instruction in primary and preparatory branches from his father and mother and in the schools in his father's neighborhood, he pursued a full classical course in Moore's Hill College, graduating with the degree of A.B. in June, 1875. Like many others, he labored under financial embarrassments in prosecuting his college course. Sometimes he performed manual labor, sometimes taught, to replenish his empty treasury. Toward the close of his course he borrowed $100 from the Conference Educational Board, which he soon afterward returned. Moore's Hill College has had few better students, and has sent forth few better scholars, than E. B. Cadwell. Part of the year, while still a student, he was, by appointment of the presiding elder, pastor of Delaware Circuit. He pursued his senior studies and graduated while in charge of the Wilmington Circuit. He spent three years on Vernon Circuit, with almost universal acceptability. In April, 1878, after a winter's campaign of protracted meetings, he had an illness, from which he never fully recovered. He sent to his presiding elder and to his Quarterly Conference his resignation as pastor; but the Conference declined to accept his resignation, requesting that an assistant be employed to relieve him of the heavy labor. In the summer of 1878 the trustees of Moore's Hill College elected him Professor of Ancient Languages, which chair he filled for two months, but failing health compelled him to resign it. He sought health in a southern clime, but he soon returned to die under the parental roof. He was an earnest Christian, a faithful pastor, a sound and instructive preacher. In his last illness his sufferings were intense. For the last two weeks he was unconscious much of the time, and died in that condition. In his lucid intervals he manifested full confidence in the divine promise and unshaken trust in the Saviour. He quoted such Scriptures as Rom. viii, 18, 28: "The sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us;" "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God." The promises which he had preached to others were his solace when dying.

Andrew Ericksson.

ANDREW ERICKSSON was born in Bollnas Gefleborgstan, Sweden, 1815. He came to America in 1850, joined the young Scandinavian mission of the M. E. Church, at Victoria, Knox County, Ill., and became Rev. J. J. Hedstrom's first assistant preacher; in that relation he traveled over a circuit in Illinois that extended through six or seven counties. He was appointed to New Sweden, Iowa, 1854, on a circuit of over two hundred miles. In 1856 he was stationed at Swede Bend, and traveled four years, then appointed in turn to Leland, Ill., and to Andover. In the last charge his faithful wife died, and he was left alone to care for his six young children. He then had to give up the itinerancy and take a superannuated relation, which he sustained to his death, Sept. 11, 1878.

Brother Ericksson resided at Swede Bend, Iowa, during his later years, and was a most useful member of the Church in that place. He was a truly pious man, a pillar in the Church of God, holy in his conversation, always cheerful, always ready to preach and exhort, liberal according to his ability, steadfast and immovable; when others wavered he remained firm in his devotion to God and to the M. E. Church. He will live in the memory of his many friends. He preached his last sermon Sept. 1, 1878, from 1 John 1, 7. He attended Church the following Sunday, Sept. 8; but on Sept. 11, among his dearly loved friends, he sent his last petition to his Redeemer, and fell asleep in the Lord. His age was sixty-three years. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away: blessed be the name of the Lord!"

W. L. Deneen, D. Williamson, A. Campbell—3.

1. WILLIAM L. DENEEN was born at Bedford, Mifflin County, Pa., Oct. 30, 1793. Before he was three years old his parents moved to Liberty Township, Trumbull County, Ohio, where he spent the years of his boyhood. When about twenty years of age he moved to Vevay, Ind., and for a few years he taught school and studied law. In the year 1827 he professed religion at Charleston, Ind., under the ministry of Rev. Geo. Locke. He united with the M. E. Church, was soon licensed to preach, and was admitted to the Illinois Conference at its session held in Madison, Ind., in October, 1828. His first appointment was with Rev. Samuel H. Thomson to Shoal Creek Circuit, which included nearly all of the Alton and Lebanon Districts. His next work was the Salt Creek Circuit. He was also appointed to the following fields of labor: Lebanon Circuit, Kaskaskia Circuit, Brownsville Mission, Waterloo, Belleville, Edwardsville, Upper Alton, Alton Station. To some of these charges he was assigned twice, and to one of them three times. In 1845, on account of failing health, Brother Deneen took a superannuated relation; after which his health was never sufficiently restored to justify him in engaging in the regular itinerant work, although for a number of years he frequently preached as occasion offered, and the cause of Christ demanded. For more than thirty years he lived in Lebanon, and all concede him to have been an honest, faithful, pure, and strictly conscientious man. As a preacher he was able, searching, and very instructive. He loved all the doctrines of the Bible, and for many years was a living witness to the cleansing power of the atoning blood of Christ. For near six months prior to his decease he was mostly confined to his room, yet he never became impatient, nor did a repining word escape his lips. In visiting him his pastor always found him deeply interested in the advancement of every good and noble cause, but especially with regard to the welfare of our own Zion, and in their last interview he stated that "he had no fear, no anxiety, no cloud," and that no thought nor will of his conflicted with the will of his heavenly Father. Near the hour of noon, July 11, 1879, he passed from earth to heaven, to be forever with the Lord.

2. DAVID WILLIAMSON was born near Abingdon, Va., May 6, 1825, where he received a liberal education. He joined the M. E. Church when a small boy, and began to preach at the age of seventeen. In 1846 he joined the South-eastern Indiana Conference, where he labored efficiently for seven years. In 1852 he was united in marriage with Miss Mary J. Brown, near Gosport, Indiana, and unto them were born three sons and three daughters. The second child is not, for the Lord took her.

In 1853 Brother Williamson joined the Southern Illinois Conference, where he continued faithfully in the work of an itinerant until the year 1866, when, on account of impaired health he was, at his request, given a superannuated relation. Upon retiring from the active duties of the ministry he settled two miles east of Watson, in Effingham County, where he gathered about him such means as enabled him to live comfortably.

Brother Williamson was an earnest pastor, and a preacher of sound doctrine. He was devoted to his work and to the various interests of the Church, and was universally recognized as a good man. During the last years of his life his afflictions were severe, yet he continued to labor as strength permitted, and endured "as seeing him who is invisible." On Sept. 30, 1878, at 6 o'clock in the morning, this faithful servant of God fell asleep.

S. Abraham Campbell was born in Pennsylvania, June 11, 1811, and died, of consumption, at the parsonage on Freeburgh Circuit, Feb. 10, 1879. His parents moved to Ohio when he was an infant. His father was a soldier in the war of 1812, and was killed at Fort Meggs. His mother was a pious woman; was converted and joined the M. E. Church when fifteen years of age. She dedicated her children early to God. It was through her prayers and religious instruction that her son was converted at nine years of age. He joined the Church under the labors of Rev. Asahel Phelps, at Athens, Sangamon County, Ill., when about nineteen years of age. Brother Campbell was twice married, first to Miss Phœbe Shepherd, daughter of Rev. John Shepherd, of Southern Illinois Conference, with whom he lived happily until her death, March 21, 1864. He was married the second time to Mrs. Adaline Charles, in 1866, who now survives him. It was hers to share with him the toils and privations of the closing years of his itinerant life.

Soon after Brother Campbell's conversion he was licensed a local preacher; in that capacity he served the Church until the session of the Illinois Conference, at Bloomington, Ill., 1850, where he was admitted on trial and ordained deacon. At the session of the Southern Illinois Conference, at Alton, 1855, he was ordained elder. For fourteen years he continued in the itinerant work, receiving his appointments cheerfully as from the Lord, and went uncomplainingly to many of the hardest fields of labor in the conference. He located in 1864 and remained in that relation for four years. At the Du Quoin Conference, 1868, he was re-admitted, and has been in the active work of the ministry until called from labor to reward. We find by reference to the minutes of the conference that he served the following charges: Olney, Albion, Rosiclare, Equality, Walnut Hill, Spring Garden, M'Leansburgh, Hickory Hill, Bible Grove, Villa Ridge, Jonesborough and Anna, Xenia, Saint Elmo, De Soto, Nashville Circuit, and Freeburgh Charge. Several of these charges he served two years. Brother Campbell was a good man; his preaching was clear and forcible. His conversation was always pleasant, and often abounded with wit. His social qualities made him a successful pastor. He administered the discipline prudently. He was ardently attached to his Church, and especially to the members of the Southern Illinois Conference. He missed the Conference roll-call but once in thirty-four years of active service, and that was his last Conference at Alton. His last appointment was to the Freeburgh Circuit. The Church there received him and his family very kindly. In his last sickness the Church and friends did all that could be done for him and his family; he found himself truly among friends. Though his health was failing he continued to preach and visit his people until within one month of his death. He preached his last sermon in February from "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." From this service he went home to die, feeling his work was done. Though a great sufferer, he was conscious until the last. His death was a scene of triumph. His message to the Conference was, "Tell the brethren of Southern Illinois Conference that on entering the work of the ministry I consecrated myself to the service of God and the Church, and I have continued through poverty, hard fields of labor, and much affliction, until this day; but now I surrender my charge to the great Head of the Church." He said that the Gospel he had so often preached to others was a great comfort to him. "I am fully prepared to die. For me to live is Christ, to die is gain." And thus he triumphantly passed away.

H. L. Spindler, W. S. Lunt, L. T. Clark*—3.

1. HENRY L. SPINDLER departed this life on the 6th day of October, 1878, at Hicksville, Defiance County, O. He was born in Fairfield County, O., Feb. 15, 1840, and with his parents removed to Defiance County, a number of years ago. Working on the farm of Judge Patten, near Hicksville, Brother Spindler obtained some means to take him to Delaware, to attend the university, where, working his way, he acquired a good education. In 1869, when the Central Ohio Conference held its session at Findlay, he was admitted on trial, and appointed to Shawnee Circuit, in Lima District, the year following to Port Jefferson, and then to Kalida. Following this work, his health failing, a supernumerary relation was granted him, and the year following that of a superannuate, which relation he held at the time of his death. Locating at Lima, Allen County, O., very much broken in health himself, he last year saw and passed through deep waters of affliction. In a few weeks of each other his wife and youngest child were taken from him. In July, 1878, Brother Spindler went to Iowa to engage in business, but in a short time was compelled to return to his native State, where, after a brief stay of a few days, his spirit took its departure, and left us the remains of what had been a noble mind in a diseased frame. By Brother Spindler's request the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to him on Tuesday before he died. When, with brethren of different denominations, we came around the bed, we could but sing:

"Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love."

With rejoicing and praises to God for what he had done for him, Brother Spindler partook of the emblems of the broken body and shed blood of the "Mighty to save." He has gone to the land where "the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

* See page 99.

2. WILLIAM S. LUNT was born in Mendon, New York, May 25, 1817, died in Fostoria, O., April 24, 1879. He was converted at the age of about 18, and immediately united with the M. E. Church. His conversion wrought an entire revolution in his life, and was so clear as never to permit him to doubt its genuineness. From that time on he was a devout and earnest Christian. Called of God to the ministry, he was licensed as an exhorter Feb. 12, 1837, and at once began to hold meetings for prayer and exhortation. In this office he was acceptable and useful, and March 17, 1838, was licensed to preach. He labored as a local preacher with great zeal and usefulness for eight years. During this time he also completed a full course of study in medicine.

On March 19, 1840, Brother Lunt was happily united in marriage with Miss Phila Benedict, of Chautauqua County, N. Y., a niece of the late Bartholomew Weed, of the New Jersey Conference, who shared with him in all the toils of his itinerant life, and who, with his venerable mother, now nearly eighty years of age, are commended to the sympathy and prayers of the Church to which he gave his life.

In 1840 he came to Ohio, and commenced the practice of his profession, in which he continued with increasing ability and success until the fall of 1846, when he was admitted on trial in the North Ohio Conference, and appointed to Jeromeville Circuit. His subsequent appointments were: Defiance, Maumee City, Findlay, Sidney. In 1854, his health being greatly impaired, he was granted a superannuated relation to the Conference, in which he continued for three years. During this time he was elected to the Senate of Ohio, and filled this office of public trust with honor and great acceptability for two years. In 1857 he was made effective, and appointed (for the second time) to Maumee Station; then to Fremont, Fostoria, and Arcadia Circuit, where he closed his work as an itinerant. In all these years Brother Lunt's labors were very successful, and through his faithful efforts in saving men very many souls were converted and added to the Church. In person Brother Lunt was tall and muscular; had a clear, pleasant voice, and a dignified manner in the pulpit. His congregations listened to his solemn utterances of gospel truths with admiration and delight. His sermons, prepared with great care and diligent study of the Scriptures, were systematic and strongly fortified with appropriate questions from the word of God. He had a clear discrimination in dealing with men. As a faithful pastor he knew all his people, old and young, rich and poor, by name, and remembered whatever was peculiar in their circumstances. His nature was magnetic and emotional. He had a great heart, warm with the love of God and man, which greatly endeared him to a large circle. He was held in high esteem by both ministry and membership of his own as well as of other denominations. In 1864 he was granted a superannuated relation, in which he continued for more than fourteen years, reaching the time of his death. Most of this time he was a citizen of Fostoria, where he had so acceptably served the people as pastor; now continuing to preach for them whenever occasion offered, also assisting his brethren in the ministry in adjacent charges. He was a regular attendant upon worship as long as his health would permit, giving his full sympathy to the pastor and people. His last sermon was preached in the Methodist Church in Fostoria, Sept. 10, 1876, during the session of the Conference in Defiance. He was impressed at the time that it was his last public effort, and so referred to it in his sermon. In feeble health he would still come to the house of God, and assist in the holy sacrament, and speak in our love-feasts with full confidence in the atoning blood as his only hope. The writer of this visited him often and continuously until the evening before his death, and to him the last words spoken by Brother Lunt were, "All is bright beyond."

H. L. Parrish, Jacob A. Brown —2.

1. HUGH L. PARRISH was born in Pembrook, Genesee County, N.Y., Nov. 29, 1812, and died at his residence in Rome, O., June 17, 1879, aged sixty-six years. He was converted when fifteen years of age. He entered the ministry in 1837, and was in active service from that time till his death, with the exception of the last two years of his life, in which he sustained a superannuated relation, having been rendered unable to do further work from a stroke of paralysis affecting his limbs, and impairing, in some degree, his mind. He was greatly in love with the itinerant work. In visiting him the year before his death, I found him while helpless yet not hopeless of still working in the Master's vineyard. He was an indefatigable worker. He was usually selected for the hardest work and the least pay. Few ministers have done more and harder work than Brother Parrish. He was a man of sterling worth, a good preacher, a true friend, and a deeply pious man. And this gave impulse to all the actions of his life. To know him was to love him. He had been failing sensibly for the past two years of his life, and it was evident to all he was nearing his end. He suffered much, but without a murmur, and on Tuesday morning, June 17, 1879, after a painful night, his spirit winged its way to that world where the inhabitants will never say, "I am sick."

2. JACOB A. BROWN was born in Morristown, N. J., Sept. 15, 1810, and died at his residence in Delaware, O., Jan. 26, 1879, in his sixty-ninth year. In his early manhood he became a Christian, and through a long life devoted himself to God and his Church in earnest and active service. He was licensed to exhort by Rev. James M'Mahon, and soon afterward was licensed to preach. On May 15, 1839, he was united in marriage with Miss Nancy A. Graham, who for many years shared with him in the toils and privations of the itinerancy, and still survives him. He was received on trial in the Ohio Conference in 1834, being one in a class of forty-three admitted at the same time; was ordained deacon by Bishop Soule in 1836, and was ordained elder by Bishop Waugh in 1838. His first appointments were in Southern Ohio and in Western Virginia. When the North Ohio Conference was formed he fell within its bounds, and for many years, with honor to himself and with usefulness to the Church, he filled appointments in different parts of the Conference. His last appointment was Clyde, but owing to declining health he was compelled to retire from the pastorate, and was granted a superannuated relation. He then removed to Delaware, Ohio, where he engaged in mercantile business, and by his integrity, fair-dealing, and solid piety, won the esteem and affection of the people. Owing to a pulmonary affection he seldom preached. He loved the Church, was faithful in Christian duties, and both as a minister and business man has left to his family and the Church the rich legacy of a "good name," which "is better than precious ointment." For some time previous to his death he was impressed that his end was nigh. On Friday, Jan. 24, he was at his store all day actively employed in closing up the annual invoice of his stock. Having finished his work and adjusted his business affairs for another year he went home. In the evening he was attacked with congestion of the lungs, and from the first he was impressed that he would not recover; but though the call was sudden his "house was in order," and he was ready "to depart and to be with Christ." He took a tender and affectionate leave of his wife and children; he prayed for them all, and in the bosom of his family, whom he loved so well, he peacefully "entered into rest." "When I saw him struggling in the throes of death," said Dr. M'Cabe, in the funeral service, "so happy, so resigned, so bright with hope, so thankful for all he had received, so fearless of the king of terrors, he seemed to say, 'I have seen thy throne, O Lord, from afar, and would fain be with thee. Gladly would I commit to thee, thou Creator of my spirit, my weary life.'"

The preaching of Brother Brown was marked by clearness of thought, scriptural illustrations, and by a sweetness and tenderness of spirit which won the hearts of the people; and the fruits of his labors were abiding. He has left a wife, four daughters, and two sons, one of whom, Rev. O. A. Brown, now of the New England Conference, is perpetuating in the family the ministerial calling.

1. JAMES LYONS CRANE was born in Mount Eaton, Wayne County, Ohio, August 30, 1823, and was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Cincinnati, Ohio, in December, 1841. He came to Illinois in 1842; attended a seminary under the control of Rev. Mr. Venable, in Paris, Ill., for about three years; was licensed as a local preacher in 1846, and in the autumn of the same year was admitted on trial into the traveling connection in the Illinois Conference. He was married to Elizabeth Mayo, daughter of Colonel Jonathan Mayo, at Paris, Illinois, on June 29, 1847, and died in Shelbyville, Ill., on July 29, 1879. His first ministerial appointment was to Danville Circuit, as junior preacher, with Dr. Hiram Buck as preacher in charge. This was in the fall of 1846. His subsequent appointments were Grandview Circuit, Hillsborough, Alton, West Charge in Jacksonville, (now Grace Church,) Fifth-street in Quincy, (now Trinity,) First Church, Springfield, and Paris District. He was elected delegate to the General Conference of 1860, which met in Buffalo, New York, and served with credit both to himself and to his Conference. He was appointed in 1860–61 presiding elder of Danville District. In July, 1861, he was appointed chaplain of the 21st Regiment Illinois Volunteers, of which U. S. Grant was colonel. In the fall of that year he resigned his chaplaincy, and was appointed by Bishop Ames to East Charge, now Centenary Church, Jacksonville; then again to First Church, Springfield, Springfield District, and Second Church, Springfield. In the spring of 1869 he entered government employ, sustaining in the meantime a supernumerary relation to the Conference. From 1876–78 he was stationed at Island Grove. At the Conference held at Jacksonville, in September last, he was appointed to Shelbyville Station, and here he "ceased at once to work and live." His health, always delicate, had been a matter of concern to his friends for some two or three years previous to his death, and probably the labor and anxiety connected with a protracted meeting which he conducted, and which continued for something like two months during the past winter, was too much for his waning strength. His last sermon was preached in his own pulpit, in Shelbyville, on Sunday, July 13. On the following Wednesday he was stricken with paralysis, and after twelve days of most intense suffering "the Lord gave his beloved sleep." On Saturday preceding his death his brother-in-law, Rev. E. D. Wilkin, informed him that his physicians had abandoned all hope of his recovery. After a pause he said: "It is all right; I have no fears of death. I have trusted in the Saviour the greater part of my life, and he has never forsaken me, and I know he will not forsake me now. Except for my wife and children I would rather go than stay. Tell the Conference that I love every one of them. They have always been good to me; have given me better appointments than I deserved. My life and labors and heart have been with them. Tell them that I love them all." That love was most fully and cordially reciprocated. More hearts were saddened by the announcement of the death of J. L. Crane than probably would have been saddened by the death of any other one member of the Conference, and his stricken widow and fatherless children have the tenderest sympathies and the most ardent prayers, not only of his brethren in the ministry, but also of the thousands of our membership all over the Conference who knew him long and loved him well, and with whom his name was "a household word." In the city of Springfield, where he lived longest and was best known, he was a universal favorite. His popularity was confined to no sect in religion, to no party in politics, and to no grade in the social scale; all united in "liking Mr. Crane," and when his death was announced thousands in the city felt that they had lost a personal friend. He had the happy faculty, possessed by but few men, of not only entertaining, but, when occasion demanded, of stoutly maintaining, his opinions on all subjects, doctrinal, ecclesiastical, or political, in such a way as to give no cause of offense to any one. His appearance on the Conference floor in debate was always hailed with delight by the preachers, and no matter what side he might take on the most exciting questions, or how sturdy the blows he might deal upon his opponents, at the close of his speech every body was in a good humor, and ready for a new debate, provided Brother Crane could be induced to take part in it. As a preacher he was "a law unto himself," that is to say, he aped nobody, had no earthly model, and it is safe to say that no one will successfully copy him. Being a man of marked individuality, he was simply himself, and was true to himself at all times, in all places, under all circumstances. Thoroughly evangelical and Methodistic, he preached a pure Gospel, and had but little sympathy with what is known as "liberal views," "advanced thought," and "broad-gauge theology." True to God, true to the Church, true to humanity, true to his family, and true to himself, he was in the best sense of the term a true man.

2. N. P. HEATH was born at Urbana, O., Aug. 16, 1818. He was converted in early life, was called to preach the Gospel, but refused, and backslid in consequence; was reclaimed in the fall of 1836 at a camp-meeting held near Brighton, Ill. He was received on trial in the Illinois Conference in 1839, having previously traveled one quarter as supply on Carlinville Circuit with James B. Woodward as preacher in charge. His first regular appointment was to the Grafton Circuit as junior preacher. His subsequent appointments were to Petersburgh, Sangammon, Athens, Mechanicsburgh, (transferred to Rock River Conference in 1844,) Peoria, (1847,) Lewiston, Ottawa, State-street, Chicago. This last charge he served in 1851–52. Next year he was transferred to California Conference and stationed at Santa Clara, and at Sacramento. In 1857 he was transferred to Rock River Conference and appointed first to Dixon and then to Rockford. In 1860 he located, and early in the war became chaplain in the army. He was readmitted to the Indiana Conference in 1861, and appointed to Bedford, Bloomington, Centenary Church, and New Albany. Then in 1866 transferred to Missouri and Arkansas Conference and stationed at Second Union Church, Saint Louis, and at Chillicothe, Mo. In 1867 he was transferred back to the Illinois Conference and stationed at Griggsville, Centenary Church, Jacksonville; First Church, Decatur; North-street Church, Danville; Mattoon and Champaign. He died Aug. 24, 1879. He was a man of great force of character; of a clear and penetrating intellect and great kindness of heart; of a genial and sensitive disposition. He bent all his energies to the preparation of his sermons; was conscientious and painstaking in his preparation for the pulpit. The consequence was that his sermons were remarkable for their clearness of statement, and for the fullness and beauty of their illustration, and often illuminated in passages of impassioned and overwhelming eloquence. His voice was strong and clear and musical, and heightened the effect of his sermon. Beginning his career as an orphan amid adversity, he rose by the force of his own powers and by the grace of God to the highest point of influence, which he always used for the good of his fellow-men and the glory of his divine Master, and closed his life in peace and triumph, trusting in that God whom he had served through a long and useful life. The esteem in which he was held by his brethren and the authorities of the Church is shown by his frequent transfers from one post of honor and responsibility to another.

3. PHILIP CLIFTON CARROLL was born in Mercer County, Pa., Oct. 14, 1840. He was a descendant of one branch of the celebrated Carroll family, of Maryland, and inherited many of its historic traits of character. He was converted at Leroy, M'Lean County, Ill., in the month of January, 1868, and immediately began preaching the Gospel, to which work he had felt himself called of God. He was received on trial in the Illinois Conference in the fall of 1868, and was appointed to Hayworth Circuit; then in succession to Elkhart, Mason City, Monticello, Macon, Taylorville, Mahomet, and Urbana, at which place he died April 24, 1879.

Before his conversion Brother Carroll had studied law, and was just ready to be admitted to the bar, in which profession his abilities and culture would have given him a foremost position; but hearing the call of the great Master to preach his Gospel, he gave it all up, nor could he be induced to turn aside, though tempted by the most flattering offers of financial and social gain. Brother Carroll, as a preacher, was much above the average, clear, logical, and brilliant, with language chaste and elegant, with thought terse and crisp, with a heart in sympathy with his theme. He always preached acceptably, and sometimes with overwhelming bursts of impassioned eloquence. He was extremely modest and unassuming in his manner, and was on this account often unappreciated. He had to be known to be appreciated. Kind and quiet in his disposition, there was nothing gloomy about him; he was genial and warm-hearted, and behind this there was a vein of the quaintest humor, and the most sparkling and cutting wit. True as a friend, one among the people. When people once knew him they were drawn to him in unbroken friendship. He was a Christian in the truest sense; deeply pious, devoted to the Church and Christ; most profoundly conscientious; living every day in the smile of Christ. When death came it found him ready; and, though coming suddenly, with holy triumph conqueror through grace, he triumphed and passed over victor, "Sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb."

4. GEORGE M. SPENCER was born in Hancock County, Ill., Nov. 7, 1841. He was united in marriage to Miss Anna Vance, May 12, 1864. He was converted to God in the winter of 1870 at Tioga, Ill., under the preaching of the Rev. John Kirkpatrick. In the fall of 1872 he was received on trial in the Illinois Conference, and appointed to Mount Sterling Circuit. He was appointed to Detroit Circuit in 1873, then to Beverly Circuit, Bowen Circuit, and Fowler Circuit, in which appointment he labored faithfully till his death at his home in Lima, Ill., Feb. 3, 1879. Brother Spencer was a young preacher of brilliant promise. He leaves a wife and one daughter, twelve years old, to mourn the loss of a true husband and a kind father. And the Church cannot help lamenting the loss of so promising a preacher. But God has taken him.

L. Taft, J. P. Lacroix, W. Porter—3.

1. LOVETT TAFT was born at Farmington, Trumbull County, Ohio, August 23, 1824, and died October 15, 1878, at Columbus, Ohio. He was married December 31, 1846, to Miss Leah Harvey, by Rev. Granville Moody. Seven children were born of this union, five sons and two daughters; one son and two daughters preceded him to his heavenly home. At the age of eighteen Brother Taft was happily converted to God, in Reynoldsburgh, Franklin County, Ohio. He was baptized the same year by Rev. J. M. Trimble, and united with the M. E. Church in Town-street Church, Columbus, Ohio. From the beginning of his Christian life religion was made a thing of principle with him. In a journal kept by himself under the date of 1844 is found this record: "I am now past my twentieth year and shall soon be twenty-one. When I look into the future all seems dark to me. I have no trade, no profession, no money, little learning; but I have religion. I have a hope if I never acquire much here I shall lay up a treasure in heaven. I shall endeavor to cultivate my natural powers, hoping that God will bless my feeble efforts and give me the wisdom and knowledge I so much desire, that I may do some good in this world. It has always been my desire to be a man in understanding, and yet the prayer of my heart is that God will make me a good man and a useful man." How graciously God answered his prayer the abundant fruit which his Christian and ministerial life yielded fully attests. About four years after his conversion he was moved by the Holy Ghost to preach the Gospel. He was licensed as a local preacher in the M. E. Church. Two years later, in 1852, he was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Scott in Portsmouth, O., Sept. 10, 1854, and an elder by Bishop Ames in Newark, O., Sept. 7, 1856. He continued in the effective work from the time of his admission on trial until the late session of the Ohio Conference, excepting one year, during which he rested as a supernumerary. He preached his first sermon in Wesley Chapel, Columbus, O., from the text, "And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life." That text was the key-note of his ministry. He was a herald of life. Under his ministry many passed from death to life. Every year of his effective relation to the Conference was attended with revivals; some of these were very powerful and extensive. He served the following charges, embracing a period of twenty years: Groveport, Marysville, Westerville, New Albany, Bigelow, Columbus, Portsmouth, Granville, Zanesville, Newark, Lancaster; Columbus, Third Avenue; Agent Ohio Wesleyan Female College, Clintonville; Neil Chapel, Columbus.

Brother Taft always commanded the love and esteem of his brethren in the ministry, and he loved them in return. One of his last earthly requests was: "Let the Methodist preachers bury me." He was fully devoted to his work, often laboring beyond his strength, and consenting to lay down his charge only at the bidding of the Master. He was an honored, beloved, and successful Methodist preacher. As a man, Brother Taft possessed native nobility of soul, suavity of manner, and breadth of sympathy. As a Christian he possessed richness of experience, sweetness of spirit, and purity of life. The goal to which his earliest spiritual ambitions aspired was holiness of heart and life. In his journal, under date of 1845, he writes, "I pray God to increase and strengthen my desire after holiness." Again, in 1848, he records this resolution, "In the name of the Lord Jesus, whom I love, I have solemnly resolved to go forward in the path which I believe the Lord doth plainly point out to me, trusting in Him who is able to deliver and strong to redeem from all the thralldom of evil, that I may please him with a life wholly devoted to him." These were some of his hourly yearnings after holiness of heart which were not fully put to rest until five years since, while preaching at the Ohio Conference Camp-meeting at New Logan, O., from the text: "And put no difference between them and us, purifying their hearts by faith." The protracted hunger and thirst of his soul after righteousness was then satiated, and he there received by faith the grace and witness of entire sanctification. The power of that blessing continued with him until the last moment of life. August 23, 1877, the fifty-third anniversary of his birthday, he had an attack of typhoid fever. After months of suffering and prostration he became convalescent, but his enervated condition, together with threatening pulmonary symptoms, made it necessary for him to spend a few weeks of last spring in the South, from which he seemed to derive some temporary benefit. Shortly after returning home his decline became more and more perceptible to himself and his friends. Throughout his illness his mind was clear. He was perfectly conscious until nearly the last moment, and though death came sooner than he anticipated, yet he was not taken by it unawares. His house was in order, his temporal matters well attended to. He did not recoil from his last enemy. I said to him just before he became unconscious: "Is Jesus precious?" He replied very distinctly, "Yes, evermore;" then easily and peacefully leaned his head on Jesus' breast, and breathed his life out sweetly there.

2. John Power Lacroix, of French parentage, was born at Haverhill, Ohio, February 13, in the year 1833. In his boyhood, while at farm work, he displayed an insatiable thirst for book knowledge. His desire was first awakened, as he has told the writer, by the friendly advice and interest taken in him by a Methodist preacher on his father's circuit. His persistent wish to obtain an education was finally granted by his father sending him to the Ohio Wesleyan University, at Delaware. Here that concentration of purpose and application which so eminently characterized his entire after-life began and resulted in turning him out a graduate of great promise in the class of 1857. Soon after ward he went to New Orleans, where he spent two years in teaching. Having cleared himself of college debt, he returned to the North and was admitted on trial in the Ohio Conference, in 1859, and appointed consecutively to Tarlton Circuit, Spencer Chapel, Ironton, and Piketon. He was then elected tutor in our University at Delaware. In the summer of 1862 he was married to Miss Carry Irwin, a lady of extraordinary talent, and a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan Female College. Three years later he asked and received permission to pursue his studies further in the universities of Germany. He spent sixteen months of closest application there, and returned in the fall of 1866 to fill the chair of Modern Languages and History, to which professorship he was elected in his absence. Through his writings for our religious papers, monthlies, and reviews, he soon became extensively and popularly known throughout the Church and the land. The degrees of Ph.D. and D.D. were conferred upon him by the Kentucky Military Institute and the Kentucky Wesleyan University. His translations of De Pressensé's "Religion and the Reign of Terror; or, the Church During the French Revolution," Naivelle's "Problem of Evil," Wuttke's "Christian Ethics," together with his own "Life of Rudolph Stier," will perpetuate his name and memory in scholarly circles. The hundreds of students who came under his influence at the university, scattered now all over this land, and in other nations, will ever bear a cheerful testimony to his personal worth. He was the special friend of young men. He took an unselfish delight in encouraging them in the pursuit of knowledge. Many to-day, by their voluntary admission, owe to him a debt of gratitude for personal benefit received. No member of the honored faculty of the university commanded a more general respect for profound scholarly attainment, or kind, gentlemanly bearing than did Professor Lacroix. As a thinker and writer he was bold, independent, and progressive, which sometimes led him to be misunderstood by the more conservative. But no one who thoroughly knew Professor Lacroix could doubt his fervent attachment to truth, his unqualified admiration for the Church of his choice, and his ardent devotion to her interests. He was a man of broad charity for the views of others, and especially for their religious principles. He was incapable of prejudice against others, on the one hand, or of bigotry in his own favor, on the other, and this caused even his friends to fear that he went sometimes as far as defense in favor of Romanism, and of unnecessary concession against his own Church. The explanation of that is found in his answer to the author of this obituary, upon expressing such a sentiment: "I love to recognize whatever is good in every sect; my connection with my own authorizes me to try to correct its few errors, and my love for it urges me to do so; and at last I hope to be saved, not because I have always been infallibly right, and others wrong, but by the free merits and mercies of Christ alone."

Professor Lacroix's inner life and experiences could only be discovered by intimate daily acquaintance with him. His bodily maladies, from which he was almost a life-long and silent sufferer, led him to the practice of that same reserve in relating his spiritual experience and feelings. But those whose circumstances gave them access to his real life know that he was tenderly conscientious, and bore a profound reverence for God and his word. Time and again was the author surprised at the unequaled exhibition of these emotions in him, and made to feel self-condemnation by the contrast, in the associations of the last few weeks of his life. As a worker he was indefatigable. He knew not what it was to rest, as do other men. His mind was ever engaged on some new subject of worthy interest. He had no time for unprofitable conversation. At his physician's imperative direction he every summer, for the last several years, made a voyage to Europe. But while he went thus for rest, his rich contributions to the religious press showed incessant activity even then. He recognized when too late that he was to fall a premature victim to overwork. His labors last year outside of his collegiate duties were numerous and arduous. M'Clintock & Strong's Cyclopedia, in some of its latest and ablest articles, the Chautauqua Literary Circle's Manual on Ethics, and a joint work with a fellow professor on an Introductory Book of Latin, occupied hours that should have been given to physical recreation. One might have suspected from his habitual reticence on the subject of his health that he was not aware of its precarious state. But to several friends he had said quietly, months before it came, that he was liable to death at any time. His solicitude for his children, but one year ago bereft of their mother, together with his love of the work to which he felt called, constituted the only reasons why he expressed a desire to live. In his death the Church at large loses one of its most able ministers, the Ohio Wesleyan University one of its most widely known and learned professors, as also the first of its number removed by death. The city of Delaware has lost a citizen of whom it was justly proud, and the Ohio Conference in its charge at St. Paul's, a member, supporter, and worker whose place can scarcely be filled. In the Sabbath-school, the prayer-meeting, the public congregation, and especially in revival seasons, will be sadly missed one who, while health permitted, loved to labor in each, and whose efforts bore rich and abundant fruit. Paralysis first affected his right arm and limb, and soon occasioned the loss of memory of words, and the vocal powers of speech. This was on his return voyage from his last trip to Europe. He had enjoyed the voyage greatly up to that time, and was much improved in health in other particulars. After arriving at land the disease developed rapidly till he became irrational, and then unconscious, in which condition he remained till released by death at 6 o'clock on Monday evening, Sept. 22. He rests in peace.

3. WILLIAM PORTER was born October 24, 1814, in Muskingum County, O., and died near Zanesville, O., May 20. He was baptized in childhood. He was married to Isabella Boyle, who still lives, October 19, 1837, and they both joined the Church on probation at a quarterly-meeting at Gratiot, Licking County, Ohio, conducted by Rev. R. O. Spencer, in 1842, and he was soon after converted. He was licensed to preach by a Quarterly Conference held near the Wilbur camp-ground, near Zanesville, during the session of a camp-meeting, August 24, 1844, Rev. J. B. Finley being presiding elder and Samuel Hamilton preacher in charge. He was received on trial in the Ohio Conference, at Piqua, in 1846. His appointments were Johnstown, Blendon, Worthington, Hebron, Logan, Main-street, Chillicothe; Seventh-street, Zanesville; Wesley Chapel, Columbus; Lancaster, Athens, Logan, Chillicothe District, Zanesville District, South-street, Zanesville; Moxahala Avenue, Wesley Chapel, Ironton, when his health failed and he took a superannuated relation in 1877. He was twice a delegate to the General Conference of our Church, and filled every position assigned him in the Church with credit. He was six feet one and a half inches in height; had light hair, and was of fair complexion. Although of slender build, he manifested great physical energy and endurance. In the social circle he was genial and affable, commanding the respect and winning the love of all by his unaffected kindness and cheerfulness, and retaining their esteem by his uprightness and the transparent purity of his character. Those who knew him best never thought of him as being influenced by selfishness or sinister motives in any thing he did. He delighted in the society of his friends, ever extending to them the most hearty and generous hospitality. In his pulpit efforts he was systematic in his arrangement, careful and logical in his propositions and arguments, and solemn and impressive in his manner of address, expecting to accomplish good more through the power of the truth and the demonstration of the Spirit than by rhetorical flourishes or sensational discourse. Wherever he labored the Church was strengthened, and sometimes extensive revivals of religion were enjoyed. In the various charges which he has served it will be found that the most thoughtful and devoted are his warmest friends. While he was positive in his religious experience, and decided in matters of faith and doctrine, he was not a bigot, but appreciated moral worth wherever found, and some of his most esteemed friends were of other branches of the Church of Christ. He was modest and retiring in his manners, not from timidity, but from a nice sense of propriety and a generous appreciation of the worth of others. When he deemed it his duty he was prompt and fearless in asserting and advocating the truth. To him death was but passing from one mode of existence into a higher and better life; his sickness being protracted, he had frequent opportunities of conversing with his friends on his future prospects. "It is wonderful," he remarked, "how God sustains a poor mortal like me." In regard to his death he said, "That is wholly with the Lord; I am altogether in his hands; I am in perfect peace," and many other expressions of like import. He said, "Tell my brethren at Conference that my attachment to them continued to the last." He gave directions concerning his funeral, and peacefully fell asleep.

H. W. Beach, O. D. Bowles, T. C. Golden—3.

1. H. W. BEACH was admitted on trial in the Upper Iowa Conference, at its session held at Lyons, in 1858, and was appointed to Cedar Circuit. In 1860 he was received into full connection, and ordained deacon by Bishop Baker. On account of declining health he took in 1863 a superannuated relation, which he sustained for one year, when he was made effective and appointed to Buckingham Circuit. A year's labor convinced him that he was unable for effective work. Accordingly he asked a superannuated relation, which was granted and continued to the time of his death, which occurred Dec. 19, 1878. Besides the works mentioned above he had charge of Hebron, Springville, and Shellsburgh Circuits. He came down to the grave full of Christian hope. During his last hours he suffered much, but bore his suffering with Christian patience, and was heard to say: "What would I do if I had no Christ?" So may we all ask. His death was another evidence that "our people die well."

2. ORLYN D. BOWLES, the late pastor at Clarence, Iowa, was born near Nashville, Ohio, and died at Clarence, Iowa, March 18, 1879, aged about forty-three. His father, Carrington Bowles, descended from an English family of some note, and was a man of good education, who during early manhood was a teacher in the public schools of Ohio, and afterward a soldier of 1812, after which he became a farmer in Holmes County, O. His mother was of Scotch descent, of good mind and deep piety, and an earnest Christian lady. While yet quite young Brother Bowles, in company with other members of the family, emigrated to North-eastern Iowa. He was converted and united with the M. E. Church when about twenty-one years of age, under the labors of Rev. Isaac Newton. Soon after his conversion he felt called to preach the Gospel, and began to prepare himself for the work. He united with the Upper Iowa Conference in the year 1861, and remained an honored and much beloved member of the same until he was called from labor to rest, and from the fellowship of saints below to the more blessed fellowship of saints above. He was married to Rachel B. Shaw Sept. 8, 1863, with whom he lived happily until separated by death. He always seemed thankful that the Lord had provided such a helpmeet for him. Their home was one of the brightest and happiest of homes, and many hearts have been cheered and encouraged by entering there.

Brother Bowles spent seventeen years in the ministry before coming to Clarence, on the following named charges: Spring Creek, West Irving, Grundy Circuit, Toledo Circuit, Quito Circuit, Albion, Fairfax, Elwood, and Inland. On all these charges his labors were accompanied with extensive revivals and a general advancement of all the interests of the Church. He believed in aggressive warfare; he was ever ready to attack the enemy; felt perfectly at home in the heat of battle; he rejoiced to see victory turn on Israel's side, and was never satisfied without it; and though he has gone, yet truly his works do follow him, and many there are to rise up and call him blessed. An earnest worker, a faithful pastor, and an able minister has fallen, and though his loss will be most deeply felt at Clarence, where his labors ended, and where the Church is left without a pastor, and where dwell those who are nearest and dearest to him, yet we all feel the loss deeply. We shall miss him in our social gatherings, where he was always so genial and pleasant; we shall miss him at our camp-meetings, where his preaching was powerful, his exhortations earnest, his singing sweet. We shall miss him in our district and Annual Conferences, where his attendance was so regular, his counsel wise, his vote correct. But our loss is his immediate and eternal gain. Of this we are satisfied as we think of his triumphant death as well as his faithful life. Though useful and happy here, he desired to depart and be with Christ, which is far better. To him to live was Christ, to die was gain. He declared he was going to his heavenly Father. He loved to sing and talk of "Beulah Land" and the "Home over there," and desired these sung at his funeral. He was conscious to the last, and realized that his end was near. He addressed himself very tenderly and lovingly to the circle of near friends and loved ones that stood around him, taking an affectionate farewell of each one separately. Then, with unshaken faith and complete victory, he declared he was ready to go, and, glancing heavenward, with a bright and radiant look and holy triumph exclaimed, "Home, home, home!" with great emphasis, as if beholding with rapturous delight his heavenly home. Those who were present when he died agree in declaring the occasion to have been one that strengthened the faith and inspired the soul. He leaves a wife and two children.

3. T. C. GOLDEN, M.D., D.D., was born in England April 16, 1818, emigrated to America in 1849, and settled near Kingston, Wis., and the year following he entered the Wisconsin Conference, and was successively stationed at Cascade, Sheboygan Falls, Omro, and Fond du Lac, serving the Church two years at each place. He was then transferred to the West Wisconsin Conference and stationed at La Crosse. When the North-west Wisconsin Conference was organized he fell into it, and was appointed presiding elder of La Crosse District in 1859, and elected delegate to the General Conference of 1860. In the fall of 1863 he was appointed presiding elder of Eau Claire District, and again elected delegate to the General Conference of 1864. At the close of four years' service on the Eau Claire District he located, and removed to Iowa. In 1870 was re-admitted to the Upper Iowa Conference, and stationed at Mount Vernon, and remained three years, and was then appointed presiding elder of Vinton District. During his first year on that district he was attacked with the terrible disease that finally terminated his life. He died in great peace May 29, 1879, at his residence in Vinton, Iowa.

J. G. Blair, F. M. Hughes—2.

1. J. G. BLAIR was born in Marcellus, N. Y., in the year 1816, and died in Fairmount, W. Va., Dec. 23, 1878. His ancestry were old time Methodists, inculcating rigidly the doctrines and discipline of a Church whose adherents were willing to separate themselves from the world, to make sacrifices, and, if need be, to suffer persecution. His grandfather, Rev. Daniel Holmes, was an itinerant Methodist preacher for over fifty years. His mother was also a noble type of that early Methodism illustrated in the habits, manners, and simplicity of life sixty years ago. Dr. Blair from early boyhood was a student, imbued with an intense love of nature and of books; reticent in manner, and absorbed in thoughts which few comprehended or understood. His desire for culture was so great that he was willing to forego any pleasure or comfort to satisfy his intellectual cravings, and was known to walk miles, often under unfavorable circumstances, in order to recite a lesson or receive instruction. So all-absorbing were these pursuits, that manual labors and duties which he had been instructed to perform were often entirely forgotten. Many anecdotes are related of this early abstraction of mind, and inattention to physical occupations. Latin and Greek (himself being his own instructor) were studied and conned, often in the solitude of hours filched from recreation and sleep. The profound, persistent labor of the student, at that early period, was characteristic of his whole after life.

At a later period of his boyhood he was converted and united with the M. E. Church, and was at an early age licensed to exhort. In 1835 he was associated in Cazenovia Seminary, in a preparatory course, with Larrabee, Bannister, Wilber, and hosts of others whose names are prominent and familiar in the world of letters to-day. In 1839 he entered the junior class in the Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., graduated with collegiate honors in 1841, and from that time until 1843 was principal of the Blendon Young Men's Seminary, located at Westerville, Ohio. In this position he was eminently successful, as many young men whom he trained could abundantly testify. His tastes and inclinations, however, were all in the realm of theology; and to become a humble, self-denying, itinerant minister, to preach Jesus and him crucified, became an all-absorbing passion. He therefore took work, (having previously joined the Ohio, now the Cincinnati, Conference,) and in September, 1843, at the session of the annual conference held at Chillicothe, he was sent to the White Oak Circuit, comprising twenty-two appointments. In connection with Greenbury R. Jones, of sainted memory, as colleague, he passed his first year of itinerant life. With great zeal and ardor he went about his Master's work. Many were reclaimed and brought, through his instrumentality, into the light and higher life of the children of God.

He was married March 10, 1843, to Miss Olive J. Winslow, a lady eminently fitted, both by culture and education, to be a helpmeet and companion for him. Five children blessed this union, three of whom are already in the spirit-land. In 1844, at the session of Conference held at Marietta, Ohio, Bishop Soule presiding, he was ordained deacon, and stationed at Greenfield, where he labored two years, attending rigidly to his pastoral duties, besides instructing a class of young men preparing for the ministry, among whom were Bishop Merrill, H. H. Black, Middleton and others. Through the influence of his teachings, and the spirit they excited, a seminary was inaugurated, over which he presided six years. In 1846, at the Conference held in Piqua, Bishop Morris presiding, he was ordained an elder. In 1852 he was called to fill the chair of Vice-President and Professor of Natural Sciences in the Ohio State University at Athens. Here were passed twelve years of hard, persistent labor. Profound studies, lecturing, preaching often, teaching, in season and out of season, fill up with full and abundant mental toil all these years. From 1864 to 1870 were mostly passed in educational labors, both in Ohio and West Virginia. To his persistent, patient, severe toil in the Fairmount State Normal School it owes its great success and exalted position among the Normal Schools of the land. For its prosperity and the cause of education in West Virginia he lived.

Dr. Blair was a great lover of the doctrines and usages of early Methodism, and although neither sour nor censorious in respect to the present type of Christianity, yet for himself he retained to the last a strong preference for Christianity in all its simplicity and power. He was a Methodist after the olden type, warmly and firmly allied in feelings and recollection to the pioneers of Methodism, and to the last could see neither reason nor room for any special change in the economy of the Church. As a theologian he was profound, and as a preacher highly interesting and instructive. Soon after taking charge of the Fairmount State Normal School he was transferred to the West Virginia Conference, of which he was an honored member when called by the Master from labor to his reward on high. He died as he lived, a firm believer in the Gospel and the power of Jesus to save. A number of expressions, previous to his death, evinced his unshaken confidence. Very frequently he would hold up his hand and say, "Precious Saviour,"

"This all my hope and all my plea,
For me the Saviour died."

"Happy if with my latest breath
I may but gasp his name,
Preach him to all, and cry in death,
Behold, behold the Lamb."

He suffered intensely. Turning around to a friend, he said, "I am afraid I complain too much." It was evident that he wanted to be entirely submissive to the divine will. A few hours before his death he said, "My soul expands with huge dimensions as I approach that shore." He said to his companion, "I had hoped to live ten or fifteen years yet, so that we might have enjoyed the evening of life together, and both have been gathered finally as the ripe corn in the shock; the ways of Providence are mysterious; he knows best." Thus submissive and trusting, he passed out of this world of sin and labor, of pain and disappointments, and death and sorrow, into the pilgrim's home of joy and purity and everlasting felicity.

2. F. M. Hughes died at Cameron Sept. 13, 1879, in the thirty-second year of his age. He commenced his work as a minister on Summerville Circuit in the year 1867, being employed for that year by the presiding elder. He was admitted on trial in the West Virginia Conference at its session at Moundsville, March, 1868, and appointed junior preacher on Marshall Circuit. In 1869 he was sent to Cameron. The year following to Pruntytown. In 1871 he was ordained deacon and appointed to Weston Station, which he served two years. He was ordained elder in 1873, and appointed to Buckhannon Station, remaining three years. The following term was spent on Philippi Circuit. His last field of labor was Buckhannon Circuit. Soon after Conference last year he commenced a series of very successful protracted meetings, in the midst of which his health failed, and he was compelled, with great reluctance, to cease from all ministerial labor. In the month of June he went to Cameron, with some hope that by rest and medical treatment he might recover his health so as to work awhile longer in the Master's vineyard. But he gradually grew worse until death came to his release.

Brother Hughes was an earnest and successful preacher, a faithful pastor, "a good man, full of faith and the Holy Ghost." His protracted illness was borne with patience. At the last quarterly meeting he desired to receive the sacrament of the Lord's Supper in his room. He said, "This is my last communion. My life has been one of toil and trouble; but it is wonderful how the Lord has sustained me." The closing scene was peaceful. There was no dread of death, no misgiving as he looked into the future. The last words we heard from his lips were, "It's all right." He sleeps beside the wife of his youth in the quiet village cemetery, awaiting the voice that shall awake them who sleep in Jesus.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Ira G. Bidwell, M. A. Wolcott, C. Baldwin, S. Minier, D. S. Chase—5.

1. IRA G. BIDWELL was born in Wilmington, Conn., on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1835, and died in Syracuse, N. Y., on Christmas-day, 1878, having nearly completed his forty-fourth year. "I did hope to be permitted to live as long on earth as my Saviour," was one of the latest expressions of the eloquent Summerfield, but this favor was not granted him. Brother Bidwell was but ten years older at the time of his death than Summerfield. As in the death of the latter so at the death of the former multitudes of the Lord's disciples in all parts of the country wondered at the decease of so promising and useful a man.

He was converted in childhood, was a pupil at Wilbraham, Mass., and graduated at Union College in 1858. The next year he was admitted to Troy Conference on trial, and in due time became a member and was ordained. He was stationed successively at State-street, Troy; at Lansingburgh and Albany in the Troy Conference. He was then transferred to the Conference of his early home, Providence Conference, and stationed at Chestnut-street Church, Providence. After this he was employed as a teacher at Auburndale, Mass., one year, when he entered New England Conference, and was stationed successively at Harvard-street, Cambridge; at Worcester, and at Bromfield-street, Boston. Then he was transferred in 1875 to Genesee Conference, and stationed at Delaware Avenue Church, whence he was transferred to the Central New York Conference in 1878, and stationed at the First M. E. Church, in Syracuse. There in less than three months he was called to exchange the labors of hope for the joys of Paradise, to "be forever with the Lord." Thus he gave, young as he was, twenty full years to the work of the ministry. And twenty noble years they were. It was not because he sought notoriety, or was changeful in his purposes that he was successively a member of five Conferences. He was really a man of one purpose and one work. He was constantly sought for places deemed most responsible, and he yielded often reluctantly to the authorities of the Church. He was, however, just determining, as soon as he well could, to reach his native Conference once more, and never again to leave it for any other. In all these responsible appointments the Churches enjoyed prosperity, and many souls were converted. He was frequently called to extra work, such as lecturing and preaching on special occasions, and was always faithful and successful. At his death memorial services of different kinds were held in many of his former fields of labor. All who knew him agree in the testimony that in intellect he was strong, in disposition modest, in expression eloquent; as a preacher faithful, and affectionate and useful. He preached but a few times in Syracuse, and the people wondered at the gracious influences that attended him. They marveled at his vivid descriptions of heaven, and at his longings to enter that blessed world. When he came to die in a few days, without opportunity to utter any special testimony, some of us thought that, all unconscious to himself, the Holy Spirit had been specially imparting to him dying grace and glory. Some travel, perhaps slowly, a long earthly pathway; some travel as far in a shorter time; in all cases the Lord worketh according to his wise purposes, and "He doeth all things well."

2. Melvin A. Wolcott, late pastor of the M. E. Church at Borodino, and a member of the Central New York Conference, departed this life on the morning of Dec. 25, 1878. Though his health had been somewhat impaired previously, yet he had continued in the discharge of his ministerial duties until within about two weeks of his decease, when he was attacked by a low type of bilious fever, which confined him to his house, but not to his bed. The fever had left him, and he was thought to be in a convalescent state, when suddenly and without premonition he became the subject of a third attack of epilepsy, or some form of heart disease, and died in a few minutes. The first attack of the kind seized him while on the Centennial grounds in Philadelphia, and the second on the district campground a year before the final stroke. These several attacks were of very brief continuance. Thus passed away from labor to reward one of the Master's young and faithful stewards. He was born in the town of Marcy, Oneida County, N. Y., Sept. 23, 1844, and died at the age of thirty-four years and three months.

At the early age of seventeen, under the pastorate of Rev. W. H. Annable, he embraced Christ, experienced his saving power, was baptized and received into the M. E. Church. In the spring of 1868 he graduated with honor from the Whitestown Seminary, and in the fall of the same year entered the Wesleyan University, at Middletown, with the purpose of taking a full course in that institution. Before the expiration of his freshman year, however, his health became impaired so that he came home to recuperate, with the expectation of soon returning to his college duties. While at home on this vacation his father sickened and died, which afflictive event rendered his return to Middletown impracticable, and resulted in the final abandonment of his cherished purpose. As a partial substitute (having at this time the ministry in view) he pursued the study of Hebrew and other branches under the private instruction of Prof. M. M. Smart, an accomplished scholar residing in Whitesborough. He also engaged to some extent himself in teaching. Removing his Church membership from Marcy to New York Mills, he was soon put in charge of a Bible class, which became large and prosperous under his labors, and was also elected to the superintendency of the large and flourishing Sunday-school, which position he filled with general acceptability and usefulness. On the decease of "Father Sawyer," a veteran class-leader of the most successful kind, Brother Wolcott was chosen as his successor. Thus the Church, recognizing his gifts, grace, and usefulness, called him to her various offices, and under this training he was fitted for his subsequent work. Coming to the ministry through such a channel, we might naturally expect the success which he achieved.

In the spring of 1872 he was employed as a supply on the Clayville Charge, and was subsequently employed on the Union Valley Charge, where he remained until the Conference session in the fall of 1873, when he was received into the Conference on trial and stationed at Delphi. On Dec. 3 of this year he was joined in marriage to Miss Mary A. Wing, of New York Mills, who shared with him his labors, and contributed her Christian influence to his success. She survives him to mourn her early loss.

In 1874 he was appointed to Pratt's Hollow, where he remained two years. In 1876 he was sent to Collamer, and reappointed the following year. At the Conference in Elmira, in 1877, he was ordained elder by Bishop Foster. It is noteworthy that only one of this small class of four, so recently ordained, remains in the Conference at the present time. At our last session he was removed to Borodino, where he labored with great acceptability until released by the supreme Shepherd and Bishop of our souls.

Brother Wolcott was generally esteemed as a young man of good abilities, devoted to his Master's work, and faithful in that which was committed unto him. He was thoughtful, studious, sound in faith, true and useful. His brief career was hardly sufficient for the development of his powers to a degree that would bring him forward to the first positions among his brethren, yet he was ambitious to "show himself approved, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed," and in this effort he was decidedly successful. He endeared himself to the people whom he served, and was increasingly popular and useful on his charges. He was too good to harbor ill-will toward any one, and cared not to know any evil report which might be circulated concerning him. He loved his work and his fellow-laborers in it. Now he rests from his toils and infirmities; and henceforth his name will appear in the list of the honored dead of our Conference, the youngest of all who have fallen. Like his Master, we believe he might have truthfully said, "I have glorified Thee on the earth, I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do."

3. CHARLES BALDWIN was born in New Lebanon, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1831, and died in Rose, N. Y., March 12, 1879. From his mother, and after her death, when he was twelve years of age, from an older sister, he received a Christian training. He professed religion when fifteen, though it was a little later, at a camp-meeting, at New Haven, N. Y., that he received a satisfactory experience, which he regarded as his conversion. Such was his religious activity, the fervor of his prayers, the pertinency and power of his testimonies and work for Christ, he was early marked as a chosen messenger of God. It was with much reluctance that he received his first license to exhort. He had to be thrust out; but his convictions of duty once settled, he went cheerfully into the work.

In the spring of 1833, at the age of twenty-one, he was licensed to preach, and at once recommended for admission into the Black River Conference. His first charge was Brewerton. At the close of the year, in 1854, he was married to Miss Lura A. Bowen, daughter of Rev. C. M. Bowen, who has proved herself "a fellow-helper to the truth" with him. She, with their three daughters, survives to mourn the loss of one of the kindest and most careful of husbands, and one of the truest, most affectionate, and considerate of fathers. His appointment that year was Oneida Lake. The following three years he spent in the northern part of the Conference, serving Malone and Moira. His health partially failing, he spent a few months on the seashore. Improving, he was appointed, in 1858, to Cato, then in 1859 to Butler two years, to Van Buren (now Warners) two years, to Rose two years, and then to Herkimer two years. This was his last charge. In the early part of the second year his health failed. This was a blow. Ambitious now to preach, the struggle was great, but the weight of the blow was lessened by the kindness and consideration of the Church, which heroically kept up all the means of grace, his wife arranging for the supply of the pulpit from Sabbath to Sabbath by neighboring preachers.

During his active work he was instrumental in gathering many souls to Christ, having excellent revivals on most of his charges. He was a diligent student and an original thinker, never a copyist, but striking out on lines of thought independently. His preaching was characterized by definiteness and plainness more than by polish; fidelity to truth and souls rather than any reference to the popular will, showing a pure conscience and an earnest soul which could not brook a passion or demand for earthly show. He was a man of convictions, positive and outspoken. He took a lively interest in temperance. His last preaching was on that question, and his last public prayer was at a temperance meeting. His life was a testimony for Christ, and so was his death, which was peaceful and even triumphant. His sickness was long and severe, but borne with Christian cheerfulness. Making all needed preparations for his funeral, and again and again committing himself and his dear ones to the care of the heavenly Father, and exulting in the wonderful manifestations of the love of Jesus and the fair prospect of his home above, "He was not, for God took him."

4. SYLVESTER MINIER died at his home at Five Corners, Cayuga County, April 11, 1879. He was born in Lansing, Tompkins County, Feb. 1, 1800. His parents' names were Abraham and Mary Minier. They were members of the M. E. Church and connected with the old Asbury Society, which, in an early day, was one of the strong points in Central New York Methodism. Their home was the head-quarters for the itinerant preachers in all that region in their day. In 1825 the Genesee Conference held its session at the Asbury Chapel, and "Father Minier's" was the head-center of that body of ministers.

Brother Minier was converted in his father's house December, 1820. A prayer-meeting was appointed at his father's house, in order to revive the prayer-meeting, there having been no such meeting for more than a year. Sylvester was the only unconverted person present, and there was "joy in heaven" and on earth that night over his conversion. He was baptized in the stream near the Asbury Chapel by Rev. Mr. Jervis, the father of Rev. K. P. Jervis, of the Genesee Conference. He was received into the Church, February, 1821, by Rev. James Kelsey, who appointed him class-leader the same day. He was licensed to exhort by Rev. Russell Downing Aug. 19, 1821, and the Sabbath following received into full connection. He was licensed to preach by Rev. Glesen Fillmore, at West Dryden, Dec. 1, 1825, and ordained and received on trial in the Oneida Conference, held at Utica, July, 1830. Bishop Hedding presiding. Two years later he was ordained elder by Bishop Hedding. He was married March 9, 1820, to Miss Sally Emmons, by Rev. John Kimmerlin, and for quite a number of years he retained his family residence at the old homestead in South Lansing. His wife was a woman of intelligence and great dignity of character, but for some years felt averse to the changes and embarrassments incident to the itinerancy. In later years, with a greatly improved religious experience, she cheerfully accompanied her husband to his appointed fields of labor, and was a helpmeet indeed to him in his ministerial work. Her funeral was held at Asbury, in the midst of the scenes and associations of her earlier domestic life. In November, 1860, Brother Minier was married to Mrs. Sally Tremain, who, for more than eighteen years shared with him the work, privations, and pleasures of the itinerancy, and now survives him, to lament his departure and to pursue her lonely pilgrimage. There were born to him of his first marriage, six children, three of whom survive him.

Brother Minier served successively the following charges: Spencer, Owego, Slaterville, Speedsville, Cayuga, Ledyard, Scipio, Slaterville, Groton, Danby, Newark and Berkshire, Newfield, Slaterville, Dryden, Asbury and West Dryden, Newfield, Ledyard, North Lansing, Lake Ridge, Cayuga, Montezuma, Varna, M'Lean, Milan, supernumerary, (1876,) and thereafter superannuated. This was his relation at his decease. Thus it appears that for forty-two years he sustained an uninterrupted effective relation.

Brother Minier was eminently a revival minister and a successful soul-saver. On all the charges which he served he was greatly beloved, and many are the witnesses still living who count him as their "father in Christ." Power in prayer was a characteristic of him all through his life. Often in the midst of his revival labors, in protracted meetings and at camp-meetings, the power of God would come upon the people and upon him, in answer to his prayer, prostrating him helplessly upon the altar floor or upon the ground, while shouts of victory would attest the feelings of the divine manifestation, and strike conviction to the hearts of sinners. He was at home in the midst of the hottest of the battle in times of revival. Starting out in the itinerancy with a large family on his hands at the beginning, and having considerable traveling to get to and from his circuits, he had comparatively little time or opportunity for systematic study. Nevertheless, he was studious, and kept well read up in the current literature of the Church and of the times. In the great anti-slavery issue he was outspoken and strong for the cause of freedom. He gave one son to the defense of the Government, who laid down his life in Mobile hospital.

Brother Minier was an affectionate father, a true and faithful husband, a dignified and sanctified Christian, a loyal and conscientious Methodist, and a successful minister. He was president of the Conference Board of Trustees at the time of his death, a relation which he had held for years. His last hours were in keeping with his life-long career and character. He was taken ill with lung and heart difficulty Jan. 2, 1879. He was peaceful and had no doubts. "Jesus is with me," he would often say, and add, "I am almost home."

5. DANIEL S. CHASE died at his home in Bennettsburgh, Schuyler County, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1879, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. He was the son of that far-famed apostle in Methodism, Abner Chase, and hence was early drilled in the peculiarities of the itinerancy, and the special usages of our Church. He was converted at the age of nine years, and there was a clearness in his conversion, a positiveness in his testimony, during the earlier years of his Christian career, that gave good promise of stability and uniformity to his religious character. He was very reluctant at accepting what he felt to be a call to the ministry. However, at the age of twenty-six he joined the Genesee Conference which his father had aided in organizing. This was in the year 1839. From then until the closing of the last conference year he was surely "a man of one work." Nothing drew him aside from the legitimate work of a Methodist preacher for the thirty-nine years that followed.

The first year in his ministry he was sent to Catharine Circuit, as colleague of that careful adviser, J. W. Nevins. The second year his colleague was Mr. Jewett, on the Ulysses Circuit. Beyond that he was never associated with pastors upon the same charge save the last year, when Brother A. D. Edgar served with him, at Burdette, as a supernumerary preacher. The following were his fields of labor in the order in which he served them: Catharine, Ulysses, Chemung, Horseheads, Trumansburgh, Towanda, Johnson's Settlement, Newark, Port Gibson, Chapinville, Mecklenburg, Logan, Jacksonville, Burdette, Canoga, Chapinville, Walworth, Webster, Jacksonville, Burdette. It is said that upon fourteen of these twenty different charges he had more or less of revival. But who can tell how He who watches and justly judges in the labor of his servants here may estimate the service of those other six years that did not seem to be marked by special and peculiar results. A minister who had three times been his successor said, "Brother Chase would have a charge in the best shape to begin immediate revival work of any man I ever followed." Upon the division of the Genesee Conference he fell into the East Genesee, and remained a member of it until 1872, when at his own request he was transferred to the Central New York, of which Conference he was a member at the time of his death. On Oct. 29, 1833, he was married to Miss Emeline S. Brown. It is not strange that after forty-five years of happy wedded life he should say to his loved companion, "It is hard for me to go and leave you." Two sons and a daughter remain to mourn an honored father.

Brother Chase was regarded as a superior preacher. His oratory was not usually of the impassioned order, yet at times he would rise to lofty flights of eloquence. His preparation of sermons was very careful, and they were models in their methods. He was very pronounced in his opinions, and was not easily changed when once he had taken position. But no man was more ready to forgive or to ask forgiveness when the error was shown him. He only ceased the active ministry in September, the last session of our Conference, and then was placed upon the superannuated list. It was befitting that at the close of a life like his he should arouse up just as he was dying, and pronounce as his last words, "Praise Jesus! I am going home."

6. GEORGE HARMON* died at his home, in Camillus, March 15, 1878, aged nearly ninety-six years. His birthplace was Norfolk, Va., and that was his home until he entered the Methodist itinerancy. Since the death of Father Boehm he is supposed to have been the oldest minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Lovick Pierce, of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, (who died Nov. 10, 1879, aged ninety-five,) entered the ministry two years before him. The career of our lamented brother as a minister dates far back toward the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The first Annual Conference of American Methodism was convened in Philadelphia, in June, 1773. The number in our ministry then was 10, and in our membership, 1,160. Thirty-four years afterward the name of George Harmon appears in the list of those admitted on trial in the ministry of the Philadelphia Annual Conference. This was in 1807. The ministry of our Church had grown from 10 to 400, and its membership from 1,160 to 144,599, and the entire number of our ministers at its first Conference was exceeded one half by the number of those admitted in this one year in the Philadelphia Conference alone. From the time of Brother Harmon's admission his name annually appears in our Minutes for seventy-two years. Many years ago the last name in the list of fourteen entering the work with him disappeared from the records of our Conference by death. A worthy and venerated band! They now all rest from their labors. Brother Harmon is understood to have traveled one year, 1806, under a presiding elder. The first appointment received by him was to Dauphin Circuit, Chesapeake District. In 1808 he was appointed to Smyrna Church, in the Delaware District. In 1809 he was admitted in full connection and ordained a deacon, and received his appointment on Talbot Circuit, on the Chesapeake District. In 1810 Brother Harmon was included in the number of those who were made to constitute a new Conference, the Genesee. At that time the new Conference included in its bounds the present Genesee, Northern New York, Central New York, Wyoming, and portions of other Conferences also. In 1810 he was stationed on Canaan Charge, Northern Pennsylvania, and the year following at Lyons. In 1812 he was appointed presiding elder on the Susquehanna District, then including much of Southern New York and the whole of Wyoming Valley. He continued in charge of this district for three years. From 1815 to 1818 he was presiding elder on Chenango District. On retiring from that district he served the following charges successively: Ithaca, Manlius, Geneva and Canandaigua, Utica, Westmoreland and Camden, and Chenango District four years. He served Otsego Circuit, Middlefield Circuit, Chenango, Sharon, Oxford, Berkshire District four years, Barton, Morrisville, and Camillus. At the last-named place he has made his home since his superannuation in 1847. In addition to honors and responsibilities already enumerated, he represented his Conference in the General Conferences of 1816, 1828, 1832, 1836, and 1840. He was also a favorite traveling companion of that wondrously discriminating man, our first American Bishop, Francis Asbury. He was in the ministry seventy-three years—effective forty-one and superannuated thirty-two. Through all these lengthened years he was without reproach. Aside from the infirmities which attach to the best of men, he was through all his life unsuspected of wrong.

At his funeral Rev. F. H. Stanton, pastor at Camillus, gave an account of the recent experience and the last sickness and death of the deceased. Rev. E. G. Bush, who had known him well for forty years, gave a historical sketch of his labors, with reference to his character and worth, as a man and as a minister. Dr. D. W. Bristol also delivered an able and eloquent address. Rev. Mr. Stanton had visited him nearly every week during his pastorate, and gives this further account: "Father Harmon has, since the death of his wife about two years ago, read the New Testament and the Psalms seven times entire—each time with apparently increased interest—and concluded the seventh reading within a few days of his death. When asked his opinion of the Scriptures, after reading so much, he replied with charac teristic force: 'I am astonished; I find here beauties which I never discovered before.' He further remarked that he was waiting, he hardly knew what for, but waiting in patience and hope to depart." At eight o'clock on the evening previous to his death he was engaged, as was his custom, in prayer with the family with whom he boarded. While in prayer his attention was attracted by a little child, a member of the family, standing by his chair and looking intently into his face. Placing his hands on the head of the child, he continued his prayer, asking God's blessing to rest on the little one and all the members of the household. He then retired for the night. At four o'clock in the morning he passed to the "excellent glory." A few things demanding record remain to be noted. Brother Harmon reached his highest improvement early. It may not be said that the promise of his early years was fully met. Those who were his early associates in the presiding eldership mostly reached a wide-spread fame and giguntic strength in the estimation of the Church, and we infer that he was the equal of his associates. In 1812, when he was on his first district, Bishops Emory and Waugh were deacons only. He married, somewhat late in life, a daughter of General Obadiah German, then a member of the Senate of the United States for New York. In an acquaintance with him extending through an ordinary lifetime, we never saw him manifest a feeling of resentment but on a single occasion, and then but for a passing moment. We think that we never saw him manifest any degree of sadness, and we are quite confident that we never heard him express an unkind thought of any man or woman living. He was in his deportment ever the same "fine old Virginian gentleman," with the added grace of a bland, genial, and devout Christian character.

Israel Cogshall, Benjamin F. Doughty, Wm. F. Jenkens*—3.

1. ISRAEL COGSHALL was born near Schenectady, N. Y., September 22, 1820, and was in his fifty-ninth year when he peacefully fell asleep in Jesus. He suffered intensely for years, although actively engaged in the work of the ministry, from a disease contracted while chaplain in the army, and to which his iron constitution finally yielded. He was converted at the age of nineteen, and was soon after licensed as an exhorter in the M. E. Church. He came to Michigan in the same year. Here he was licensed as a local preacher, and engaged in teaching and preaching as his life-work. He was employed in the spring of 1843 as a supply on Flint Circuit. In the fall of the same year he was received into the Michigan Conference, ordained deacon in 1845, and elder in 1847. His appointments were as follows: Utica, Romeo, Algonac, Lapeer, South Albion, Kazier Indian Mission, Almont, Lower Saginaw, (now Bay City,) Kalamazoo District, Albion, Coldwater one year, at the close of which he entered the service of his country as chaplain of the Nineteenth Regiment of Michigan Volunteers. On his return he was appointed Agent of Albion College for two years, then presiding elder of Grand Rapids District, from which after four years he was appointed to Kalamazoo District, then to Three Rivers and Coldwater. In 1877 he was placed in charge of Coldwater District, where he closed his suffering and work, April 7, 1879, and he rests with the pure and glorified. He represented his brethren in the General Conference in 1868 and 1872. He was untiring in all the work assigned him by his Conference. All questions of moral reform found in him a fearless advocate. He took a deep interest in the cause of education. The schools of Michigan, and especially Albion College, were the objects of his solicitude, and received efficient help from his voice and action. He was a man of marked character. He was diligent; activity seemed characteristic of him. He never cowered before difficulties. He was diligent in study, in pastoral work, and in preaching, and has left his impress for good on the Church of his choice over a good portion of Michigan. In conference his watchful eye was upon all interests, and he may emphatically be said to have been a conference worker. He was firm. His convictions were clear and strong. When he believed justice and right were on his side nothing could daunt him. Never swayed by the threats of enemies or the flattery of friends, he listened kindly to the opinions of others, and respected the judgment of his brethren, but thought and judged for himself. This made him above mere policy, prevented him from ever descending to trickery, deception, or evasion in any thing. He was every inch a man. You could never mistake his motives or designs. He was kind. His heart was full of sympathy. The needy and sorrowing found in him a friend indeed. His sympathy for his brethren was marked. Many a young minister has shared in his sympathy and counsel. Those who had the good fortune to be in his district felt they were safe in his hands. He was kind as a brother in the Conference, kind in the Churches he served, kind as a husband and father. He was frank; not that openness that leads to familiarity and produces disrespect. While he was frank to express his opinions, it was done with that dignity that inspired respect. However much men might differ from him in opinion, none could charge him with concealing his views. Like all great men, he had that confidence that always led him to express his designs and their reasons. This gave him a strong personality. Every-thing he did bore the stamp of his own individuality. This prevented all suspicions of his motives—a priceless trait in any character. His faith in the word of God was intelligent, firm, and clear. His Christian experience was clear and abiding. His conception of spiritual veritics, such as the doctrine of a future life, a general judgment, a heaven, a hell, was clear, and his faith strong. That the conduct of the present fixes the destinies of that future was the element of power in his faith, life, and work.

2. Benjamin F. Doughty was born in Schodack, New York, November 11, 1824, and died at Sturgis, Michigan, June 8, 1879, in the fifty-fifth year of his age. He was the subject of deep religious convictions in his early boyhood, but neglected his soul's salvation until he was about fifteen years of age, when, in the same meeting in which Brother Israel Cogshall was converted, he sought and found the Saviour, and rejoiced in the evidence of the pardon of his sins and the regeneration of his soul. He soon after united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and ever after maintained an earnest zeal in the cause of Christ. In 1844 he was licensed to preach, and, as a local preacher, rendered valuable service to the Church for three years, while at the same time he was seeking that mental discipline which eminently fitted him for success in the Christian ministry. He was admitted on trial in the Michigan Conference in 1847, and was appointed to Edwardsburgh Circuit. He was appointed in succession to Allegan, Berrien, Saint Joseph, Ganges, Breedsville, and Flat Rock. In all these charges he was in labors abundant, labors which were crowned with success; but his health so far failed that he was obliged to superannuate. He remained in this relation two years, preaching most of the time, however, as a supply. At the division of the Conference, in 1855, he fell into the Detroit Conference, but was soon transferred to the Michigan Conference, and served Centerville, White Pigeon, Constantine, and Sturgis Charges. When the rebellion broke out, in 1861, and a call was made for volunteers, Brother Doughty was among the first to place his life in peril to save his country. He went out as major of the Eleventh Michigan Infantry, and served in that capacity for one year, when impaired health caused him to resign. He soon re-entered the service as chaplain of the Eighth Cavalry, in which relation he served to the end of the war, contracting the chronic diarrhea, which finally terminated his valuable life. On his return from the war he was appointed to Niles, where he saw his labors blessed in the conversion of many souls. He ever after looked back upon those two years with great pleasure and satisfaction, and often spoke of them as the happiest of his entire ministry. In 1867 he was appointed to Pentwater District, a new and hard field, where he toiled arduously and incessantly for four years, discharging the duties and meeting the responsibilities of the presiding eldership with honor to himself and great usefulness to the Church. His subsequent fields of labor were Charlotte, Prairieville, and Holland. His health having become greatly enfeebled in 1873 he asked a superannuated relation, and settled in Sturgis, where he remained until called to his better home, in the bright and beautiful world of light and life.

Brother Doughty was married August 8, 1849, to Miss Cordelia Grant, daughter of Rev. Loring Grant, of the Genesee Conference, who, with two daughters, survives him, and deeply mourns his loss. One lovely little daughter died while he was in the army. This death was to him a great affliction. But the severest trial of his life occurred in November, 1876, when his only son, twenty-three years of age, was killed on the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railroad. He entertained high hopes of Charles, and looked upon him as his earthly helper in his declining years. But, alas! in a moment all these hopes were blasted, and his heart was filled with sadness. And yet, while that was the day of his greatest sorrow, it was the day of his noblest triumph. Through grace he gained the victory, and exclaimed, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." In that moment he gained a new triumph, through faith, in the blood of the Lamb. He ever after lived upon a higher plane of Christian experience. A few days before his death he said to the writer of this memoir: "The Saviour has always been very precious to me, but since Charley's death I have enjoyed such a richness, such a fullness, and such a depth of the love of God as I never enjoyed before." The last four months of his life were months of intense suffering; but grace sustained him, and not a murmur escaped his lips. He said to me on one occasion, "There is but one thing that troubles me. I sometimes fear I may become impatient, but I trust I shall not." Thank God! he did not. I was present at one time, when a distinguished layman, a particular friend of his, called to bid him adieu. Brother Doughty was very much affected, and said to him, "I shall see you in heaven." As soon as he could control his emotions so as to speak, he said to me, "Brother, what a glorious meeting it will be when we meet our loved ones and our brethren in the ministry, together with those we have seen converted, and tell each other all about the triumphs of grace." When I took my last leave of him he said, "Good-bye; I shall never see you again in this life, but I shall see and know you in heaven." As I was about to leave he called me back and said, "Tell the brethren Jesus is precious, and I die a victor through him." Forty-eight hours before his death, with the exception of a few short intervals, he seemed unconscious. But in all his conscious moments his faith was firm and his hope abiding. At length the moment of his release arrived, and he died as only the Christian dieth. Of his character and work we may further say, he was a man of true and genuine piety, an able, practical, and impressive preacher, an ardent Methodist in principle and practice, a true friend, and a most estimable and worthy man. Modest and unassuming, a man of deep sympathy and large heart, he was firm and steady in his convictions and purposes, and lived for others rather than himself. He was for many years allied to the principal fraternal organizations of the State, and in some obtained a high rank. In all these relations he "thoroughly united fidelity in his ministerial work with activity and influence in these orders." As a minister he rendered great and valuable service to the cause of Christ and in planting Michigan Methodism. Of the twenty-three years of his active ministry, the most of them were spent in pioneer work, laying the foundations upon which others have built. No field was too hard for him, no sacrifice too great, no suffering too severe, if Christ could be glorified and he make full proof of his ministry.

M. M. Eaton.

MATTHIAS MYERS EATON was born near Beallsville, Washington County, Pa., Aug. 26, 1816. He was converted during the progress of a meeting held by Rev. John Spencer, in 1837 or 1838, near Bentleysville, Pa. After traveling as a supply under the elder for one year, he was received on probation in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1847, was ordained deacon at Clarksburgh, Va., by Bishop Waugh on Oct. 14, 1849, and ordained elder at Charleston, Va., by Bishop Morris June 8, 1851. On Feb. 3, 1848, he was married to Miss Mary S. Jones, of Dodridge County, Va., who still survives him. His appointments were consecutively Harrisville, Middlebourne, Murraysville, Pleasant Valley Mission, Westernford, and Oakland. These appointments were within the territory now comprised in the West Virginia Conference, of which he became a member when it was organized and separated from the Pittsburgh Conference. In 1854 he re-entered the Pittsburgh Conference by transfer, and received the following successive appointments, Addison, Carmichaels, Beallsville, West Elizabeth, Georgetown, Shousetown, West Alexander, Mount Morris, Gnadenhutten, Brownsdale, Leechburgh, Sandy Creek, and North Buffalo. He was agent for New Market College one year, and agent for the American Bible Society three years.

While engaged in the last-named service he passed away from labor to reward. His death was sudden and unexpected. While in somewhat enfeebled health he fell prostrate on the ground near his own dwelling in Verona, and when found, though still living, he was altogether without the power of speech, or of making any communication, and in that state he continued until his death, which occurred Oct. 29, 1878. The cause of his death was an affection of the heart. A consistent and pure life, a life of industriously faithful service in the cause of such a Master as his, the constant exhibition in it of the fruits of a living faith and of the indwelling Spirit, a disposition of calm and sustained gentleness, a kindly loving heart, an unswerving integrity, a self-sacrificing devotion, an indefatigable effort to "win souls" for Christ, the bending of the energies of mind and body to the one work given him by the Church and divine Providence to do; the unalterable purpose as best he could to accomplish the objects of the mission to which he felt himself called, evinced through many years of ministerial labor, are sufficient illustrations of the power of the religion which he so fully enjoyed and so earnestly preached; and words could hardly add to the force of the conclusion that he now has that blessing which belongs to all those "who die in the Lord."

His ministerial and pastoral labors were usually crowned with success. Revivals were the results of his preaching and indomitable perseverance in pastoral labors at times and in places where confident predictions of failure had been made. And in the charges which he served many a "brand" was "plucked from the burning" by his painstaking instrumentality when others would have been utterly discouraged. As a pastor he was especially unwearied and diligent. He knew his people, and soon made himself acquainted with the community at large. He failed not to visit from house to house, to entreat, exhort, and counsel in private as well as in public, and this not perfunctorily, but prompted by a sincere desire for their salvation. As an administrator of the affairs of his charge he did his work well, gave careful attention to details, and at the close of his term left it in good condition for his successor. In his family he was very happy. His home was the abode of Christian harmony and gentleness, and the religious influence of the parents has made its impress upon the children. A daughter—the wife of a minister of Conference—preceded her father to "the better land." Two sons are in the ministry of the Pittsburgh Conference, and the most of his household are also "of the household of faith." In the sorrow of her bereavement his dearly loved wife will bear precious and happy memories of their united lives; and the assurance of his great exaltation, and the possibility of an eternal re-union, may serve in its measure to alleviate the pang of the sudden severance, and in the years to come may minister to her somewhat of consolation, amid the sympathy of friends who join in sorrow for this loss of a true Christian fellow-laborer, of whom it may be now fearlessly said, "Servant of God! well done."

S. H. Stocking, Gideon Libby —2.

1. S. H. STOCKING was born in Glastonbury, Conn., Feb. 17, 1798. Blessed with early religious culture and associations, (his father and four brothers were ministers of the Gospel,) he became a member of the M. E. Church when nine years old; was authorized to preach the Gospel in 1818; was admitted to membership in the Genesee Conference in 1822. By division of the Genesee and organization of the Oneida Conference, in 1828, he fell into the latter. He was a member of the Oneida Conference until 1839, when he requested and obtained a location, and with his family removed to Illinois, and in the same year was admitted into the Illinois Conference and stationed in Chicago. In 1840, by conference division, he became a member of the Rock River Conference and was stationed in Rockford. From 1841 to 1847 he was presiding elder as follows: 1841, Mount Morris District; 1842, Rock River District; 1843, Ottawa; 1844, Rock River; 1845-46, Racine District. At the Conference held in Chicago, in 1847, impaired health and severe family affliction induced him to ask for a superannuated relation, which was granted. In 1848 he became a supernumerary. In 1850 he resumed effective work, sustaining that relation to his Conference until 1855, when a fit of apoplexy, from which he never wholly recovered, closed his active ministerial career, upon which he had entered thirty-three years before. After this event he continued, so far as his health permitted, to do the work of an evangelist, until, bending beneath the weight of years and the infirmities incident to old age, he submitted to the inevitable with Christian cheerfulness and resignation.

In his last illness there were periods of intense suffering, lingering between life and death. Grappling with earth's final foe, with lips palsied and utterances broken, he whispered to the loved ones, "All is well!" "I am not disappointed!" "To die is gain!" "I am happy! happy! happy!" There were seasons when the spirit seemed to pass on so far through the dark valley of the shadow of death that light from the other world had fallen upon the vision of the traveler, and the breezes from the hills of heaven already fanned him. Thirteen weeks thus passed away, and then, February 12, 1879, the soul passed beyond the fretting surf of life. "He was not, for God took him."

2. GIDEON LIBBY, of the Rock River Conference, was born at Saco, Maine, March 14, 1837, and died in Bethel, Ill., Sept. 6, 1879, aged forty-two years and six months. In an attractive home in one of the prettiest and busiest of the smaller New England cities Brother Libby spent his boyhood and youth. He was early converted and united with the M. E. Church, and from the first consistently honored this relation. After thorough preparation in the Saco High School, he entered Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me., where he graduated with special honor in 1863. He subsequently taught two years in his native State, and then pursued his theological course at Garrett Biblical Institute, graduating in 1867. For one year he served the Church at Odin, Illinois; then, being transferred to the Rock River Conference, he accepted the chair of mathematics in Rock River Seminary. Returning to the pastorate, he served the Church at Malta, M'Henry, Big Foot, Dunleith, Channahon, Platteville, and Bethel, where he ceased to work and entered upon his reward. Whatever Brother Libby did he did conscientiously and thoroughly. As a student he invariably did his duty. As a teacher he always went to the recitation room prepared to interest and instruct his pupils. As a preacher he prepared well every sermon, and as a pastor he systematically visited his people and sought to lead them nearer God. In every charge souls were converted, and in all but one there was a general revival of religion. Those converted at his altar were well cared for throughout his pastorate. Though an exceedingly modest man, always preferring others to himself, it is doubtful if there is a single pastor in the Rock River Conference who entered upon his work with a better preparation, or who has studied more systematically or read carefully more standard theological and scientific works while in the ministry, than Brother Libby. He was a man of habitual prayer. We never knew a man more regular in his habits of private devotion. He had firm and steady faith in all the great truths of the Gospel, nor was he ever shaken by any attacks or influences against evangelical Christianity. He was ever ready to give a reason of the hope within him. In all the minor details of life he was a man of conscience and rigid integrity. He met every engagement and obligation with the most scrupulous care. Nearly nine years ago he married Miss May Quigley, of Sterling, Ill., who has proved a helpmeet indeed, and upon whom he never ceased to bestow the attention and compliments of the days of courtship. His last sickness lasted but a few weeks. From the first he felt impressed that he would never recover. Though for the sake of his family and the work he desired life, he was perfectly resigned to the Master's will. He made every plan for the funeral, the interment, the future of his family, and the care of the Church until Conference, with the most perfect composure and prudence. To the last, though enduring extreme suffering, he was thoughtful of every interest and work. His faith was steadfast. The cold waters had no terrors for him. At the last he said, "I am trusting fully in Christ, and he completely saves." A large assembly in the church at Bethel testified the sorrow of the people whose pastor he had been, by their evident emotion and constant care for the bereaved. His wife and children are entitled to the sympathy and care of the Church for which the husband and father gave his life.

Thomas Watson.

Thomas Watson died at the parsonage in Pre-emption, May 9, 1879, after five days of intense suffering, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. He was born in Tyrone County, Ireland, August 12, 1820, and was happily converted in 1834. Feeling divinely called to the work of the Christian ministry, he received a license to preach the Gospel when but seventeen years of age. He was married to Miss Catherine Kerr, his now deeply afflicted widow, Nov. 12, 1847. With his family he came to La Salle, Ill., in 1851. He entered the ministry in Peoria, now Central Illinois, Conference, in 1855. He served faithfully the following pastoral charges: Aurora, Mason, Whitefield, Woodhull, Henderson, Gibson, Ellison, Woodhull a second term, Neponset, Pre-emption, New Boston, and returned to Pre-emption a second term, where he finished his work. As a Christian Brother Watson was a man of a strong, comprehensive faith, which resulted in a deep, scriptural, and joyful experience. He possessed a "meek and quiet spirit, which in the sight of God is of great price." He had an intense love for souls, and a burning zeal for the house of the Master. As a Methodist he ardently loved the doctrines, discipline, usages, and work of his Church. He was fondly attached to her ministry and membership, possessing at the same time that broad catholicity of spirit belonging only to large and noble souls. As a preacher of the Gospel he had deep convictions of the infallible truth of revelation, presenting them in clear statement, practical enforcement, and with a divine unction that gives men to feel the importance of eternal interests. His preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. He has many seals to his ministry. As a pastor, he was often found in the homes of his people, rejoicing with the joyful, weeping with the sorrowful, sympathizing with the suffering, comforting the bereaved, helping the needy, and instructing the children. As a husband and father his real worth cannot easily be estimated. To his children he manifested his warm affection, and earnest solicitude in laboring for their education and Christian culture with a self-sacrifice and constant zeal becoming a Christian father. His government in the family was mild but firm. The memory of his virtues are to his children a priceless heritage, more valuable than silver or gold.

His last Sabbath on earth was spent in administering the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper, and the preaching of the word, and then returning to his home saying, "I have had a good day." On the day following he took to his bed, and on Friday evening breathed his last. To his wife he said just before his death, "I have been the Lord's in life; he will not leave me now. I have given my family to God; he will take care of them. Jesus is precious! he is precious!" Thus, the silver trumpet falling from his hand, the plumed warrior mounted the triumphal chariot and passed to the realms of endless day.

C. W. M'Mahon, A. G. Amos—2.

1. C. W. M'MAHON departed this life July, 1879. He spent five years at Waynesborough, Ga., as Principal of the Haven Normal School, and did a wonderful work at that place, where he was greatly beloved by the people, both white and colored. His zeal for Christ and his native good sense made a lasting impression for good upon all. His consummate ability was displayed especially in connection with the erection of the Normal School—an institution which promises soon to become one of the most important schools under the control of the Savannah Conference. God does all things well, but to our feeble sense it seems that no one will ever be able to fill the place of Brother M'Mahon. From Waynesborough he went to Clifton Springs, N. Y., and there shortly departed this life in the triumph of faith. In his last words to the scholars and people of Waynesborough he said emphatically that he saw his way clear into the kingdom. Wherever he was employed in the instruction of the youth, the Church was also the object of his devoted care. And in all ways, by all means, he sought to show himself a good servant of Christ, one "that need not be ashamed." The life of such a man is a great success, even though we may think it prematurely shortened. His work was well done, and his reward is sure.

2. A. G. AMOS was born in Troop County, Ga., which he left when about fifteen years of age, removing into the south-east corner of the State. He was converted and united with the M. E. Church at Piney Grove No. 7½, on the Gulf Road, Blackshire Circuit, in the year 1869. He was licensed to preach by Rev. Edward Lacy in 1871, and was employed by the presiding elder in Augusta. At the Conference held in Atlanta in 1872, he was ordained by Bishop Haven, received into the traveling connection, and appointed to Brunswick, where he labored with much success and great acceptability. In the year 1875 he was sent to Savannah. Just before this he had been greatly afflicted, and during his two years at Savannah he was attacked severely by yellow fever, from which he never recovered. In 1877 he was sent to Darien. In a short time his health gave way completely, and he returned to Brunswick to be cared for by his friends. He loved the Church of his choice, and was an earnest, successful preacher, diligent in study, and improving himself by attending school when opportunity afforded. He was a good pastor, visiting his people from house to house, thus endearing himself to them and their families. As a Christian, he had an irreproachable character. The religion he preached to others he practiced and enjoyed himself. He lingered about seven months in much poverty and suffering, which he endured with Christian patience and resignation to the will of God, frequently saying, "All the days of my appointed time will I wait till my change come." On the afternoon of the 19th August, 1879, he sent for a brother minister and talked about death and the future, saying that all things were right between him and his God. He called his beloved wife, son, and daughter to his bedside and told them not to grieve for him, but rather rejoice, for he had given them into the hands of the Lord. He sent his best wishes to his brethren, and passed away to his reward, leaving the Church, his wife, and two children, to mourn his loss.

JOHN S. LYTTLE was born in Huntingdon County, Pa., April 6, 1820, and died in Parker, Pa., September 9, 1879. Of humble origin, his parents were yet members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and thus he was early brought under religious influences. He was converted in his twenty-third year, entered the ministry at thirty, and continued twenty-nine years without cessation in an effective relation to the work. Though his educational advantages were very limited, yet by the influence of his native ability, coupled with studious habits, he was enabled to rise to our best appointments, many of which he filled with great acceptability and success. He was always faithful and fearless in the discharge of his duty, no matter what might be the nature of that duty. Such, moreover, was his genial nature that he became a very efficient pastor and successful minister. All over the Conference witnesses rise up to pronounce blessings upon his memory. His preaching was always clear and pointed, and it so sparkled with anecdote as to keep his hearers thoroughly awake.

Brother Lyttle was twice married, and leaves a large family to mourn his loss. His illness was comparatively brief, and, till within a few days of the end, it was quite painless. Toward the close he recognized his family, and was conscious that death was nigh. He said, "It is all right; there is but one way to glory." He talked of the Conference, of his brethren in the ministry and his work in the Church. He then very distinctly pronounced this benediction: "And now may the peace of God, which maketh rich and addeth no sorrow, be and remain with you and the Church of God, now and forever. Amen." He then turned to his family, and charged them that under no circumstances should they find fault with the Church. About an hour before he ceased to breathe he fell into a sleep, and so passed away. Life's duties over, he rests well.

OBITUARIES

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

Central Ohio Conference.

LEMEN TAYLOR CLARK, of the Central Ohio Conference, died at the parsonage in Perrysburgh, Dec. 1, of congestion of the brain, following typhoid fever, in the thirty-third year of his age. He was raised in Mercer County, O., of Methodist parentage; converted at thirteen under the ministry of Rev. G. F. Mounts, entered the Ohio Wesleyan University the day he was eighteen years old; graduated with honors in 1871; married in July of the same year to Miss Martha A. Robinson; and in the fall of that year entered upon the superintendency of the public schools of Defiance, which he filled with much usefulness until in 1873 he resigned that lucrative position to enter the ministry, into which work he entered with all the zeal of his earnest heart. During the four years of his ministry he preached on Florida Circuit one year, and in Pioneer three years with much acceptance. In September last he was appointed to Perrysburgh Station and entered upon his work very happily and with flattering prospects of great usefulness in that charge. Though not well for several weeks, he was seriously sick but a few days, and his death was a surprise to even his near friends. His faith in the Saviour and in the Gospel sustained him to the last. For two days he was unconscious, except at lucid intervals. Among his last words to his wife were "Jesus will sustain you," and "My dear boy," when his child was brought to him. He then said, "I must go; you must excuse me now; you will let me go?" When his wife answered "Yes," he said, "Thank God! thank God!"

Brother Clark was a man of more than ordinary attainments and promise, adding to rare scholarship and frank manner a most genial social nature and good preaching and executive ability. His piety was deep, though of a very cheerful type, and he was devotedly attached to his family and his Church. Besides filling the positions of superintendent of public and Sabbath-schools, he filled those of tutor in the University, Secretary of the District Conference, and Assistant Secretary of the Annual Conference for several years. The star that rose so brilliantly has had an untimely setting, but has left a line of light behind, and shines more brightly in other worlds, a beacon light to many sorrowing hearts below, but to none so much as to the loved wife and two little sons who deeply mourn the temporary loss of him who has gone so early to reap the great reward of a minister of Christ.

Genesee Conference.

1. HENRY WISNER was born in the town of Camillus, Onondaga County, N. Y., March 13, 1807, and died at Benton Center, Yates County, N. Y., November 4, 1879, in the seventy-second year of his age. He was converted in his thirteenth year, and soon after joined the Methodist Church because of his love for her doctrines. He was licensed to exhort by Rev. John Scott in Villanuova, N. Y., in 1830, and to preach in a few months afterward. His native bashfulness had not then forsaken him, and he twice ran away from his congregation after he arose to announce his text. In relating the fact he said, "As soon as I arose to announce my text and felt that all eyes were fastened upon me I well nigh fainted." Yet at times the spirit of the Lord fell upon him, as on the son of Manoah, and the word of the Lord by him was powerful. There were times when this divine afflatus was such that heaven and earth seemed to meet, and glory radiated from his countenance as from the face of Moses of old. In 1833 he married Miss Bianca House, a lady eminently suited, by her piety, gifts and graces, to be his helpmeet indeed. The same year he joined the Genesee Conference, and was sent to Victor Circuit as junior preacher. His next appointment was Southport; then Loyalsock Circuit, mostly a vast wilderness two hundred miles around it, and an appointment for each day in the week, and often three in a day. He generously asked for this circuit, that he might bear his due proportion of hard work with his brethren. There he spent a night in a tree, to which he was driven by a pack of wolves. Then followed Jersey Circuit, Liberty and Naples, Big Flats, Tyrone, Horseheads, Chemung, Burlington, Pa., Millport and Enfield. In 1847 and 1848 he was supernumerary, but labored as a regular supply on the Orange Circuit. In 1849 he located. In 1852 he was re-admitted to the Conference and was appointed successively to Addison, Andover, Cohocton, Potter, Sonora, Caton, Bethel, and Voak, which was his last regular appointment. Powerful revivals attended his labors. He was eminently a man of one work, unassuming, simple, and loving as a child; he only sought souls for his Master. In the autumn of 1877 a dyspeptic state developed into a malignant cancerous disease, which was the cause of his death after a number of months of extreme suffering. He appeared to have his reason perfectly, but was unable to converse distinctly. A few moments before he died he opened his eyes and, gazing upward, exclaimed, "He's coming! He's coming!" and soon fell asleep in Jesus. He was buried in Benton Center but a few rods from where the first sermon was preached in Western New York by a Methodist in 1792. He lived well and he died well, for he died in the Lord. He leaves his beloved wife to the care of the Church he so much loved. He leaves no children but those begotten in the Lord. Like one of early fame, he was a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost.

2. JAMES M'CLELLAND was born in Armagh County, Ireland, February 12, 1814. When twenty-three years of age he was converted under the preaching of the Wesleyan Methodists, and joined one of their Societies. In March, 1838, he became the leader of a class, and in 1849 was appointed as missionary and teacher to the emancipated slaves of the West India Islands, where he spent four years of faithful and successful work. Returning to his native land, he was, in 1843, licensed to preach; and in May, 1845, he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah M. Anderson, and soon after sailed for America, reaching New York in July following.

Almost immediately he began to work on the Eden and Hamburgh Circuit as a supply, with Rev. Daniel Holmes as preacher in charge. In 1846 he joined the Conference on probation, and returned to Eden and Hamburgh Circuit, with Rev. F. W. Conable as preacher in charge, who says of him in his "History of the Genesee Conference:" "James M'Clelland was an agreeable colleague, a man of solid attainments, and a sound, practical, earnest Methodist preacher."

His appointments were as follows: Collins and Brant, Smethport, Gowanda, Springville, Royalton, Cambria, Knowlesville, Williamson, Lancaster, Darien, Aurora, Royalton, Millville, Dickinsonville, Newfane and Gorham. He had but fairly entered on the work of his last appointment when he was stricken with the disease which occasioned his death, Dec. 17, 1878. Abiding faith in Christ and patient toil for the Church had tempered and matured his character, so that when the Bridegroom came he was found having on his wedding garments and ready to enter into the marriage supper of the Lamb. Brother M'Clelland was by nature modest and retiring, preferring his brethren before himself, but concerning whatever trust was reposed in him, faithful and diligent. His character was one of stern and manly integrity. He had hearty love for the Church, and with unostentatious dignity he labored to honor God and do good to man; finding his highest gratification in the revolutions wrought, and the triumphs gained over human depravity by divine grace.

In his preaching he was clear, logical, and scriptural, aiming especially at the heart through the representation of the truth. He had no sympathy for "shams" in character, theology, or pulpit craft, but endeavored to build as a wise servant, under his righteous Lord. In his death the Church lost a plain, conscientious preacher, a discreet counselor, a sympathizing pastor, and a safe administrator of her discipline.

3. Samuel Parker was born at Briar Creek, Columbia County, Pa., December 16, 1797, and died at Hopewell, Ontario County, N. Y., March 6, 1879: thus making him a little over eighty-two years of age at the time of his death. About 1800 he moved, with his father's family, to Livingston County, N. Y., where he spent his time on a farm; devoting, however, sufficient time at school to qualify him for teaching, which he followed in after years when too feeble for manual labor. Being endowed with a powerful muscular frame he was occasionally imprudent, as persons thus constituted are apt to be, and at one time so overexerted himself in the harvest field as to cause an attack of pleurisy, from which he never fully recovered. He traveled in search of health, going east as far as New England, and west as far as the city of Maysville, Ky., where he formed those mature opinions on slavery which led him, in the breaking out of the antislavery controversy, many years afterward, to take a stand in the front rank of the opposers of that horrid system; a position from which he never swerved a hair's breadth during all the critical and stormy times that followed. Having returned to this part of the country, and been ordained by Bishop George, he was employed two years on the Alexander Circuit, Genesee County. In 1829 he was married to Miss Mariette Fowler, of Livonia, a lady of great personal worth, but of slender health. The next year he was admitted to Genesee Conference, and appointed to Bath.

In 1832 Brother Parker was sent to Elmira Station, where he labored with great success; hundreds were converted, and large accessions were made to the Church. Here, as usual, he overworked, and was removed the next year to a northern circuit, where he sustained the heaviest of losses; his excellent wife died, leaving him with two small children. Three years afterward he reconstructed his family by a second marriage with Miss Lois Winton, of Catharine, Schuyler County, of whom, as she still lives to mourn the best of husbands, I will only say that forty-five years of domestic happiness attest the wisdom of his choice. He had now been in the Conference ten years; but the wear and tear of the itinerancy had so impaired his health that he found it necessary to recruit by moving on to a farm in the town of Hopewell.

For a few years he preached on adjoining charges, but was never again able to resume ministerial duties in full. Up to the last moment of life he was bright, good, and firm, as in the day of battle. He led "the sacramental hosts of God's elect" against the powers of darkness. Age bore upon him lightly; and it was within a year of his death that his friends observed the gradual decay of his faculties, which culminated ere long in his being summoned to his great and glorious reward.

Indiana Conference.

John Schrader died April 15, 1879, at Poseyville, Indiana. He was extensively known through Southern Indiana, and went down to his grave full of years, covered with honors and glory, such as God has promised to the faithful. Father Schrader's life forms a link connecting the heroic days of Methodism in the western wilds with the present, and, if fully written, would teem with wonderful attractions. He was born in Baltimore, October 18, 1792. His father, Jacob Schrader, was the only son of a wealthy family in Germany, who gave him a thorough instruction in German, and then sent him to France to complete his education. Soon after he came to America, and settled in Baltimore. In 1795 he removed to East Tennessee, and settled near Knoxville. This became the childhood home of him whose early life was devoted to the cause of the Master. When seventeen years old he began exhorting. So great was his success that the Church soon began to appreciate his talents, and licensed him to preach when a mere boy, and he was known as the boy preacher. Success attended his ministry wherever he went, and many souls were won to the Master during the few years of his ministry as a local preacher. In the fall of 1814 he was admitted into the traveling connection in the Tennessee Conference, which included in its bounds Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, and a part of Indiana. His first circuit was Green River, Kentucky, which, with ten appointments, was four hundred miles in circumference. Peter Cartwright was his presiding elder. In 1815 he was sent to Vincennes Circuit, Indiana Territory; in 1816 to Saint Charles, Mo., a circuit embracing the region lying between the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers. In 1817 he was appointed a second time to Vincennes, but was removed by the presiding elder, soon after Conference, to the Silver Creek Circuit, on the Ohio River, to take the place of Rev. J. Cord, whose house had been burned, and who was compelled to leave the work. During this year he organized the first Society in New Albany, and built and dedicated the first church in the city. In 1818 he was appointed to Blue River Circuit, which was supposed to lie along the Ohio River, between Corydon and the mouth of the Wabash River; but failing to find it, after diligent search, he reported to his presiding elder, who sent him again to Vincennes Circuit, where he remained two years. His voice having failed, he considered himself unfit for the work, and located in the fall of 1822. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Asbury, at Lebanon, Tenn., in 1816, and elder, by Bishop Roberts, at Atwell's Campground, below Alton, Ill., in 1818. Soon after locating he was married, October 9, 1822, to Pamelia Jaquess, and commenced clearing up a farm in Posey County, Ind. Here, for thirty-one years, he labored on the farm and worked as a local preacher, traveling often many miles to assist the itinerants in their work; especially at camp-meetings were his services in demand. His love for and appreciation of Methodism and the traveling preachers never waned. He always had a cheerful greeting and a hospitable home for his companions in the ministry. Frequently Bishops Asbury, Roberts, and M'Kendree found a resting place and recuperated their wearied bodies at the home of Mr. Jonathan Jaquess and his son-in-law, John Schrader. In the fall of 1853 Father Schrader was re-admitted into the Indiana Conference, and traveled the following circuits: Owensville, Blue Grass, Center, Fredericksburgh, New Harmony, and Mount Vernon. At the close of his second year on Mount Vernon Circuit, in consequence of prostration, he was compelled to take a superannuated relation, which he sustained till death. During the last few years he was only able to preach occasionally, mostly on funeral occasions. He preached twice during the past winter and exhorted many times, greatly to the edification of those who heard him. His interest in the affairs of the Church and for the spread of the Gospel amounted to enthusiasm. For years his greatest delight was to attend the house of God, and while others made the condition of the weather or some trivial affair an excuse for staying at home, he found no excuse but the sickness of himself or of his family. He was without an enemy, and without blame in his private life. The utterance of his pastor on the occasion of his funeral is attested by all who knew him. He said, "I know of no vice that Father Schrader possessed, and of no virtue that he did not possess." For some years he voluntarily took upon himself the task of collecting the preacher's salary, and this was the last work of his life. On the day he was taken down with his last sickness he had been a distance in the country collecting "quarterage" for the preacher, and his last words were on this subject. The Church and her interests were uppermost in his thoughts while living and dying. The companion of his youth still survives, who with him trod the path of life and shared its joys and sorrows for fifty-eight years.

Nebraska Conference.

W. B. SLAUGHTER departed this life on July 26, 1879, at Omaha, Nebraska, in the fifty-sixth year of his age. He was a native of New York. He early embraced the Christian religion, and became at once a devoted member and efficient worker in the M. E. Church. He pursued his academic studies — taking a thorough course—at the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Lima, N. Y. Having completed his course of study he entered the Genesee Conference, and passed through its training for the full itinerant ministry. His first pastorate was at Palmyra, N. Y.; his second at Carlton. Later he was pastor at old Niagara-street M. E. Church, in Buffalo; yielding to the advice of his brethren, he accepted a call to the principalship of the Academy at Coudersport, Pa., and later to that of the Genesee Model School, Lima. Removing westward he was pastor, for the full constitutional term, of Wabash Avenue Church, Chicago. Early in the war he went out as an officer in one of the Illinois regiments, and toiled with self-sacrificing and heroic zeal for his country's cause until the exhaustion of the service compelled his resignation. As soon as his health permitted he was transferred by the Bishops to the prospective work in the Rocky Mountain region, and was one of the two presiding elders appointed at the organization of the Rocky Mountain Conference. His physical constitution, impaired in the army service, was not strong enough for the work. He was prostrated by fever, and in a condition of absolute helplessness—helpless as that of an infant child—his devoted and now deeply bereaved wife brought him on a couch in an ordinary carriage a thousand miles over the plains to their former home, caring for him with such patience and heroic tenderness as to excite the special attention and most grateful mention on the part of their many friends. As soon as his health permitted he re-entered the effective work, and successively served as stationed pastor at Omaha, and at Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska. He was also for several years secretary of the Nebraska Conference. A year ago, at the close of his three-years' pastorate at the State capital, he was appointed presiding elder of the Omaha District.

At the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church held in Baltimore in 1876, Dr. Slaughter was chairman of the delegation elected by his Conference, and represented that body on the Committee on Episcopacy and on other important standing committees. He was also appointed by the General Conference a member of the General Book Committee of the Church. He was present at all the sessions of that committee, and took an active part in all its deliberations. While faithfully attending to his work as a stationed pastor and as presiding elder, Dr. Slaughter devoted much time, not only to biblical and general reading, but also to books of scientific research. In 1876 our publishers brought out the book from his pen, entitled "Modern Genesis," a book which one of the ablest living scientists, whose own arguments Dr. Slaughter attacks with great boldness, declared to be the ablest yet produced on that side of the question discussed. Other works were in mind by the deceased, and while in New York, attending the meeting of the Book Committee, he gathered some important additions to his library for special use in his future literary work. "My life shall wear out, rather than rust out," was one of the last remarks he made in New York before he took the train for his western home.

Dr. Slaughter received his degree of Doctor of Divinity from Alleghany College, and in its bestowment that institution honored itself, as well as the recipient of its award. He was a patient and thorough student, a devoted and successful Christian minister, an affectionate and greatly beloved husband and father, an unswerving and faithful friend. His former associates, and his many friends in the Genesee and Rock River Conferences, as well as those in the Nebraska Conference, deeply sympathize with the bereaved family in their great sorrow.
